PINCHOT FIGHTS DAIX FOR BOLT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Gov.-elect Gifford Pinchot, in a letter today to State Senator George T. Weingartner, of New Castle, stated that he was opposed to State Senator Augustus F. Daix, Jr., for president pro tempore of the Senate, because "the overwhelming majority of the voters outside of Philadelphia are against putting the Philadelphia machine in a position of power at Harrisburg."

Mr. Pinchot also said that Senator Daix made himself ineligible because he "and the machine to which he belongs bolted the Republican ticket" at the recent election.

The letter, the first public announcement of Mr. Pinchot's reasons for opposing Senator Daix, said:

"I have nothing to say against Senator Daix personally, and I shall not dwell upon the condition of his health, which I regret, but which makes it probable that he could not fully perform the duties of the office."

Pinchot is said to have sufficient pledges to elect a chairman pro tem, and has given orders to defeat Daix. It is believed that Senator W. D. Mansfield, of McKeesport, will be the candidate of the Pinchot forces.

Broadway Theater Man Lost in Desert

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Grizzled sons of the desert were combing Death Valley today for traces of Ralph G. Farnum, New York theatrical agent, one of whose emaciated pack mules staggered into Furnace Creek Saturday mute testimony to a possible tragedy. The booking agent, in quest of adventure, outfitted himself with camp supplies and pack animals early in November to cross the forbidding desert.

Ohio Women Held In Store Thefts

Mrs. Minnie Moore, 40, and her sister Beatrice Moore, 43, both of Barnesville, O., were held for court on shoplifting charges today. George Pirch, 28, of Aliquippa, and Arthur Clark, 32, of Washington, also arrested on shoplifting charges, were held over for investigation.

Conferees' Action Restoring Flexibility Proviso Snags Speedy Senate Passage

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Prospects for speedy enactment of the $116,000,000 emergency employment appropriation struck a difficulty in the Senate today when Democrats protested against the elimination of the Senate amendment which took from President Hoover the right to spend the money as he saw fit in emergencies.

Although Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, announced he would agree to the restoration of this power to the bill, Senator Dill (Dem.), of Washington, promptly moved that the conferees of the Senate on the measure be instructed to insist upon its elimination.

AGAINST DELAY

Senator Robinson told the Senate he did not feel justified in delaying enactment of the emergency appropriation to insist upon its amendment.

Senator McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee, announced he would "fight" the conference report on the legislation if it did not keep out of the bill the controverted House provision.

Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, likewise entered a protest against the informal agreement reached Saturday by the conferees, which killed his amendment to require that local labor be employed on all projects within the appropriation.

SCORES CONFERENCE

Senator Simmons (Dem.), of North Carolina, characterized the conference held Saturday as "the most remarkable proceeding that ever has taken place since I became a member of the Senate." Jones rejoined that it was held merely to expedite the legislation.

Senator Borah urged the Senate to stop wrangling over procedure and "get something done." He said that to instruct the con-

Refuel Test Balked By Girl Stowaway

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Six men who took off here yesterday in an attempt to set a new world's record for a refueling flight came to earth after being in the air but 20 minutes.

The landing was made after Miss Billie Brown, a parachute jumper, was found hidden in the rear of the ship. The tail skid of the plane was damaged in the landing. Another take-off is planned today.

Air Hero to Marry In Alaskan Romance

WHITE HORSE, Yukon Territory, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A romance flourished in the Far North today as an offshot to the hazardous business of rescuing lost fliers.

The engagement of Everett Wasson, California flier who recently rescued two aerial passengers from the frozen wilds of Northern British Columbia, to Miss Florence Gertrude Jones, a hospital nurse here, has been announced.

Poincare Stricken After Operation

PARIS, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Raymond Poincare, former president of France, has been confined at his home for two days with an illness, the nature of which has not been announced, but which is supposed to be weakness resulting from an operation several months ago.

"No change," was the announcement today at his home. Dr. Boidon, the family physician, said it was not necessary to publish an official bulletin of the state of his health.

SPAIN REPORTS FRANCO DEAD IN REVOLT

Rebel Leader Killed Fleeing In Plane, Madrid Hears; Alfonso's Throne Periled

MADRID, Dec. 15.—Commander Ramon Franco, for many years Spain's premier ace and reputed leader of the present revolutionary movement sweeping the country, was reported to have been killed today when his plane crashed 300 kilometers east of Madrid.

Two other airmen also were reported to have lost their lives when the plane fell.

Commander Franco and his two companions were believed fleeing from Cuatro Vientos Air Field when their plane encountered difficulties. The cause of the crash was not known.

Earlier in the day, troops had attacked the air field following receipt of information that the attempted rebellion was being led by members of the air force, headed by Commander Franco.

THRONE PERILED

Flames of revolution threatened to spread throughout the country, the object of the revolters being to sweep King Alfonso from his throne and to set up a republican form of government.

The movement, which started on Friday with the revolt of troops garrisoned at Jaca, on the northern frontier, and continued today with the mutiny of the air corps, simultaneous with the declaration of general strikes in numerous large cities of the country, was the culmination of political agitation which has been brewing in Spain for many months.

A rigid censorship on all channels of communication virtually

ACTION ON HALL UNCERTAIN

The board of county commissioners were due to meet this afternoon, when, according to previous information, it was expected the town hall proposition would be taken up.

Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the board was asked:

"Is this a town hall meeting?"

He replied:

"This is the start of the budget hearings."

Questioned as to whether the town hall matter would be disposed of this week, Armstrong said:

"I am ready to sit down with the other commissioners and dispose of the town hall proposition."

But he failed to say when such a meeting might be held.

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern has already cast his unofficial vote by stating publicly:

"I am for the $1,000,000 project that will put a town hall in Oakland as part of the Logan Armory.

"If the other two commissioners won't vote for this I will vote for a downtown site."

Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong intimidated there would be no increase in the eight and five-eighths mill rate for the coming year when discussing the budget. Departmental requests will be pared to the bone, Armstrong asserted, as an economy move.

Lewis Unruffled By Critics' Attack

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Sinclair Lewis today adopted an "I should worry" attitude concerning criticism of his recent utterances by the American press. He said:

"It is not the first time that the storm has blown around me, and I should worry. Besides, it often happens that those who are so naughty in the papers are very courteous to me personally."

MYSTERY BLAST WRECKS BEACH FILM COLONY

Explosion and Fire Destroy Homes of Movie Stars; Malibou Notables Routed

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Fashionable Malibu Beach, colony of film stars and wealthy business and professional folk, was shaken by a mysterious blast and ravaged by fire today.

Eighteen residences as well as many expensive automobiles were destroyed with a loss estimated by officials at more than $500,000.

The homes of many leading film stars and other Hollywood celebrities were burned. Among those who suffered losses are Louise Fazenda, Marie Prevost, Allen Dwan, George De Sylva, James Malcolm Taylor and Oliver C. Marsh.

FAY HOME INCLUDED

Other homes destroyed included those of Frank Fay, Broadway comedian; A. L. Rockett, film producer; Leo McCarey, former boxing promoter and now a film director, and Ben Hendricks, Jr., actor.

The stars themselves, with a long list of week-end guests, were driven into the biting morning cold.

Shortly after 2:30 a. m., a terrific explosion awakened the sleeping residents along the beach. The blast occurred near the home of De Sylva, noted song writer.

The home of De Sylva became a mass of flames almost immediately, and in a few minutes an adjoining residence roared as a brisk north wind fanned the flames.

From house to house, the flames spread and out of the dwellings ran panic-stricken occupants, to huddle, shivering in scanty night clothing as the cold north wind sought them out.

RESIDENTS AID FIREMEN

Braving the cold and danger, the beach residents joined fire fighters from three nearby county stations. Later the Santa Monica Fire Department appartaus fought the blaze.

After almost three hours of futile effort the wind shifted, affording the weary fighters an opportunity to halt the fire.

Los Angeles county officials stated the great headway made by the blaze was due to fire fighters being compelled to draw water by suction from the ocean and inlets, clogging hose with sand. Efforts have been under way for a year, they said, to have water piped to the beach colony for fire fighting purposes.

Diane Ellis Dies On Honeymoon Trip

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A cablegram received here today said Mrs. Stephen C. Millett, the former Diane Ellis, Hollywood motion picture actress, died in Madras, India.

The actress was married in Paris, France, two months ago to Stephen C. Millett, young millionaire, and they left for a honeymoon trip which was to have brought them to Los Angeles by way of India, Egypt and Spain.

Federal First Aid For Jobless Last To Get on Job

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Government relief of unemployed is coming along as slowly as molasses in January.

Then he rushes to the wharf.

And pushes the man he is going to save overboard.

After which he runs for a pulmotor—notifies the widow—and stops to take a few swimming lessons.

The trouble with this relief is that both the Republicans and

AUTOS KILL 4, INJURE 17

Four men were dead today and 17 injured as a result of automobile wrecks in the Pittsburgh district. Two men were killed when a bus crashed into their automobile yesterday in Ambridge. The bus driver, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, and a companion, charged with drunkenness, are being held by Ambridge police.

The two killed were Pittsburgh business men.

According to Police Chief J. W. Flocker, of Ambridge, Walter J. Doughty, 35, of 1934 Buena Vista street, North Side, driver of the bus, and Peter Maloy, of 704 Crawford street, Barnesboro, Pa., his companion, were examined, following the crash, by Dr. H. D. Mowry, of Ambridge, and found to be under the influence of liquor.

Max Dernis, 35, of 19 Davenport street, and Jacob Shriber, 35, of 5448 Stanton avenue, were fatally injured when their machine was struck by the large bus, operated by the Colonial Stages.

The accident, police said, occurred when Shriber, driver of the Southern Cross Will Be Placed in Museum

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The globe-encircling monoplane Southern Cross was back today at Mills Field here, where she made practice flights before she flew to fame under the guidance of Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith. The plane will be dismantled and shipped to Sydney, Australia, to be placed in the National Museum.

Big Game Hunting In State at Close

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—One half-hour after sunset this evening, Pennsylvania hunters will begin their trek homeward from camps and woods—or run afoul of the game authorities.

The 1930 big game season in the state ends tonight, with indications pointing toward a bigger kill of buck deer and bear than any other in recent years.

FLAMING TRUCK IN PLUNGE

With the motor and cab ablaze, a five-ton truck laden with gravel, owned by Morrison Brothers, of Bellevue, skidded backwards on the icy surface of Iten street, crashed through an iron railing and tumbled 15 feet into Diana street below, according to a police report today. Firemen extinguished the flames.

When firemen arrived the truck was hanging to the railing by the front wheels, with the rear wheels dangling in Diana street. The driver, William Harrison, 38, of 55 Roseridge street, leaped when he lost control of his truck, he told police. A milk truck narrowly avoided collision.

BANDITS HIDE $1,560, GUNS IN ROOMING HOUSE

Taxi Clue Leads to Search, Bags of Silver Stored in Wardrobe Four Men Used

Eight sacks containing $1,560 in silver, part of the $5,085 obtained by six bandits in the holdup of the Perry State Bank, 3908 Perrysville avenue, Saturday, were found today in the wardrobe of a room at 532 Tripoli street, North Side.

Mrs. J. L. Beezer, who conducts a rooming house at that address, told police four men who had rented the room for a month and paid in advance two weeks ago, had checked out Saturday, saying they would be back in a week.

M. L. Glover, 50, of 800 Cedar avenue, an old-time friend of the Beezers, after reading newspaper accounts of the bank robbery and that two of the bandits had dismissed a Yellow cab driver at James and Suismon streets, suspected that the men who left the Beezer house Saturday might have known something of the holdup.

SEARCH ROOM

Glover discussed his suspicions with Mrs. Beezer. The two went to the room vacated by the men. In the wardrobe they found the money sacks, apparently intact, and called the North Side Police Station by telephone.

Inspector Charles Faulkner and Lieut. Harry Moore went to the Beezer home and took the money to the police station. J. G. Knight, cashier of the Perry Bank, counted the money in the bags and coin cartons, and with a police escort took the money back to the bank in a taxicab. He said the amount recovered accounted for all the silver obtained by the bandits. The remainder was in bills, he said.

FOUR IN ROOM

Mrs. Beezer said four strangers had rented two connecting rooms on the first floor of her place. Two gave their names as Benny Levine and Harry Lee, she said. Saturday all four left their rooms about 9 a. m., Mrs. Beezer said. Later two returned, took some of their clothing and said they were going to Indiana, but would be back next Saturday.

They locked the door to the wardrobe. Glover today broke open the door and found the money sacks, four revolvers, cartridges and ammunition. Police offered no explanation why they did not keep the finding of the money quiet and make an effort to trap the bandits on their return.

Estep Bill Would Pay Court Criers $1,800

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A bill to fixe the salaries of criers and bailiffs in United States District Courts at $1,800 a year was introduced today by Representative Harry A. Estep, of Pittsburgh. A companion measure was introduced in the Senate by Senator James J. Davis. The bill would discontinue the practice of paying the criers and bailiffs $5 only for the days they are employed.

Harlem Mourns 'Gabriel,' Angel of 'Green Pastures'

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—In Harlem, where they refer to the 1930 Pulitzer prize play not by its title, but simply as "the company," funeral services were conducted yesterday for the big, genial black man whose own people months ago dropped his real name and called him after the role he played, "Gabriel."

More than 1,000 persons filled the pews and packed the aisles of one of the Negro section's largest churches, where for two hours and a half eulogies were read, hymns were sung, and rituals intoned over the body of Charles Wesley Hill, the "Angel Gabriel" of "Green Pastures," Marc Connelly's drama of the Negro's conception of Heaven. Hill was killed by a taxicab Wednesday.

The man who plays the role of Jehovah in "Green Pastures," Richard B. Harrison—looking somehow shrunken and much older today than he did a few months ago across the footlights—read tenderly and in a voice that sometimes broke with grief a tribute to "God's right-hand man," who helped to create a Broadway success by ushering him on to the stage of the Mansfield Theater with a joyous, stentorian command:

"Gangway! Gangway for de Lawd God Jehovah!"

'Scarface' Dodges Court; Misses Sister's Wedding

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—While Mafalda Capone began a honeymoon trip to Honolulu today with her husband, John J. Maritote, the bride's brother, Scarface Alphonse, dodged an appearance in Federal Court to answer a charge of criminal contempt of court.

Capone, who failed to attend the impressive wedding ceremony of his sister yesterday in the flower-banked St. Mary's Catholic Church of Cicero, today was to make his first public appearance in many months to answer to an old federal charge of contempt, but the case was continued to January 19.

Only one occurrence marred yesterday's wedding ceremony, in which Capone's 19-year-old sister became the bride of Maritote, a brother of Frank Diamond, the latter listed as one of Chicago's "public enemies." While 3,000 persons crowded the church, plainclothesmen of the state's attorney's staff arrested five Capone men who committed the "social error" of packing revolvers in hip pockets.

The bride was given away by Ralph (Bottles) Capone, and the Mesdames Al and Ralph Capone acted as matrons of honor.

Inasmuch as neither the bride nor bridegroom are said to have had too much to say about the marriage, it was rumored that the match was planned by the gang overlord as a matter of business expediency. Capone is said to have presented his sister with a $50,000 dowry.

CREW ACCUSED IN BOAT DISASTER COSTING FIVE LIVES

COWARDICE CHARGED IN PANIC

International News Service.

MIAMI, Dec. 15.—Charges that members of the crew were among the first to leave when the glass-bottom excursion boat Eureka burned and sank yesterday off Miami were made today by Fred G. Norman, New York City police sergeant, who was among the rescued passengers.

The number of missing stood at five today, as a checkup by officials accounted for all but that number, although the names of two of them were not learned by the authorities. The bodies of four of the 135 passengers on the boat at the time of the explosion and fire have been recovered.

ORCHESTRA PLAYED ON

Norman said:

"The three-piece orchestra played like heroes to prevent a panic and quiet the passengers when the fire broke out on the boat. The musicians were among the last to leave the boat. I was among the last, but the crew went among the first."

Norman's story of the explosion and fire on the boat differed from others. He said that the passengers were not thrown into the sea by the explosion, but remained on board donning life belts, and finally all jumped overboard. Others said the explosion threw all passengers into the ocean.

Norman said:

"Panic reigned when the flames spread rapidly. Everyone was running around yelling 'Fire!' The captain and the crew made no attempt to organize the situation. Two men pulled down life preservers. They were held in racks between decks. I did not see any lifeboats."

BLAMES GASOLINE

Arthur S. Dean, of Reading, Pa., a rescued passenger, said he was below decks when a blast shook the boat. He said possibly two explosions followed the first.

Dean described the scene:

"The boat began to rock then, and it seemed as though it was sinking. Flames were coming out of the engine room and I saw some of the people had been thrown into the water. Others jumped in. I think a gasoline explosion caused the fire."

Many aboard the boat, fearful of sharks in the water, remained on the boat until the second explosion threw them into the sea.

The boat immediately listed and sank. All around where it went down men, women and children struggled for their lives. Many had donned life belts.

Capt. Clarence Styles said he believed there were 138 passengers and crew.

PITTSBURGHERS ON BOAT SAVED

Three Pittsburghers were among the 105 persons who leaped from the burning glass-bottomed boat Eureka II when it burned and sank off Bug Light, near Miami, late yesterday.

They were Mrs. Ray A. Peterson and her daughter, Lois, 8, and Mrs. Peterson's mother, Mrs. A. S. Aldrich, who, before going to Miami two years ago lived at 500 South Linden avenue.

Queen Marie Heads New Film Company

Queen Maria is president of the new "Soremar" film section of the "Regina Maria" Company, which has been organized to introduce the production of motion pictures in Rumania. Feature films now under way include "Symphony of Love," starring Vivian Gibson and Grit Haid, who are supported by Rumanian actors. "Duty and Sacrifice" has an all-Rumanian cast. "Soremar" will also produce a Rumanian weekly review. A camera man accompanied Queen Maria and Princess Ileana on their recent Oriental trip and filmed landscapes on the way.

A GENTLE REMINDER — By Quin Hall

RELIEF BILL DELAYED

ferees before they were appointed would be inviting a "deadlock" which might delay the bill for several days "while the bread lines are lengthening."

OFFERS AMENDMENT

Couzens offered an amendment to Dill's motion to instruct the conferees also not to yield on his amendment.

Meanwhile, Speaker Longworth announced he would permit the administration's $30,000,000 drought relief program to be brought up in the House late today for action under suspension of the rules.

It requires a two-thirds majority to obtain consent to dismiss the rules.

Chairman Haugen, of the Agriculture Committee, will propose that the administration measure be substituted for the Senate proposal for $60,000,000 for loans for seed, fertilizer and food and clothing for drought-stricken farmers.

The test vote will come on the motion to suspend the rule. Democrats hope to prevent the adoption of the procedure in order to obtain a House vote on the Senate proposal.

DELAY LA FOLLETTE MOTION

The Senate today postponed consideration of the La Follette resolution, which declares relief of human suffering should take precedence over the interests of wealthy taxpayers.

Senator La Follette asked for the postponement, pointing out there was only half an hour for its consideration under Senate rules when it came up. That would not provide time for adequate debate, he said.

The resolution was introduced by him after President Hoover's statement last week attacking relief proposals which were beyond the program prepared by the administration. Too liberal appropriations could not be made, the President said, without threatening an increase in taxes.

NYE TO DECIDE FATE OF QUIZ

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(Universal.)—The Nye committee will meet today to decide how much further to go in the investigation of senatorial campaign expenditures.

The committee has yet to complete its work on the Pennsylvania primaries. Although the probe thus far has shown that over $640,000 was expended for the candidacy of Senator James J. Davis and his running mates, it is unlikely that the committee will ask the unseating of Davis.

The committee must also decide whether it wants to proceed further in investigating Nebraska and Colorado. Appeals are being made for investigation in Massachusetts, North and South Carolinas and Alabama.

The committee may decide to finish its work on the Pennsylvania primary and election and let it go at that.

$500,000,000 AID FUND ASKED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—An appropriation of half a billion dollars by Congress to match relief funds, being provided by local agencies, was asked of Senate and House leaders today by a delegation headed by Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president in 1928.

The police guard at the White House and at the capitol were augmented when it was reported Communists, and not Socialists, were planning to see the congressional leaders and Mr. Hoover. When it was learned Thomas headed the delegation, the extra guards were withdrawn.

A five-day week for employes in the government service and in private industry was advocated today by Senator James E. Watson, Republican leader of the Senate, as a permanent solution for the unemployment problem, while adoption of unemployment insurance with children named as beneficiaries was urged by Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the children's bureau of the Department of Labor.

Polish Corridor Oil Finding Investigated

The summer started unusually dry and a number of peasants noticed in their wells a greasy liquid with the flavor of gasoline. A geologist has begun investigations to determine whether the quantities of oil in the corridor are worth exploitation.

2 WOMEN SHOT IN BRUSHTON, MAN HELD

Prisoner Is Said to Have Aimed at Brother; Found Hiding in Chicken Coop

Two women were in a critical condition today in Pittsburgh Hospital, victims of shootings which occurred within an hour early today in Brushton. Patsy Sacco, 42, of 1983 Wheeler street, was turned over to the homicide squad by Magistrate Charles Papale after a hearing in East End Police Court.

Sacco said he was drunk last night for the first time and didn't remember anything. He identified the shotgun he is alleged to have used as his own.

Mrs. Rose Forlastro, 34, of 1045 Blackadore avenue, was shot in the left shoulder, police said, by Sacco, her brother, who, the officers reported, meant the shot for his brother, Daniel. The latter, with his wife and two children, was visiting at the Forlastro home. The other victim is Mrs. Thelma Anderson, a Negro, of 8126 Ferndale street.

A short time after the Forlastro shooting a squad of police, headed by Lieut. Frank Shine, arrested Sacco in a chicken coop of a neighbor's house. A double-barreled shotgun and a dozen shells were in his possession when he was arrested, according to police.

The victim's only son, Anthony, 16, and a companion, Jack Abiola, of Wheeler street, said they saw Sacco peeping into the rear window of the Forlastro home. They paid little attention to him. A few minutes later, they told police, Sacco was on the front porch. He raised his shotgun and fired through the window of the front room, where Daniel Sacco's family, his sister and her husband were assembled.

The assailant fled only to be captured in the chicken coop a short time later.

The Sacco brothers are said to have quarreled.

Less than an hour before the shooting of Mrs. Forlastro, Mrs. Anderson, 23, was shot in the spine by a man while she was walking with her husband, Ralph, in Frankstown avenue, near Oakwood street. Later, police said, Anderson identified Sacco as his wife's assailant.

The assailant followed Anderson and his wife for several squares and when the couple reached Frankstown avenue, he fired a revolver, without provocation, police reported.

of passing bad checks in California. She said:

SPAIN REPORTS FRANCO DEAD

isolated Spain from the rest of the world, but it was indicated that the government, headed by Premier Gen. Damaso Berenguer, still maintained the upper hand late this afternoon.

EXECUTIONS SPREAD REVOLT

The outbreak at Jaca was put down with dispatch on Saturday and tow of the ringleaders were summarily executed by a firing squad. It was the news of these executions which appeared to have been the final factor in spreading the flame of revolt throughout the country.

General strikes were called in nearly a score important cities and towns as soon as news of the executions became public. Rebel planes swarmed over Madrid, bombarding the city with pamphlets calling upon the populace and the army to join the revolt.

A strong force of loyal federal troops moved upon the airfield and after 30 minutes' bombardment the rebels surrendered. Maj. Franco, Gen. Queipo Dellano and other leaders fled in an airplane toward the Portuguese border, pursued by five government planes.

The government issued a communique declaring the revolution had "failed," but travelers crossing from Spain to Gibralter reported the spread of the revolutionary movement to southern Spain, an area heretofore not connected with the revolt.

PROCLAIM REPUBLIC

The revolutionists' pamphlets dropped in Madrid declared a revolutionary government had been formed, and named Alcalza Zamora, former cabinet minister, as president. Premier Berenguer's police promptly arrested Zamora and a score of other Republican leaders.

King Alfonso, meantime, remained in the royal palace with other members of the royal family, heavily guarded by picked troops.

Gen Berenguer, by his handling of the present situation, has surprised many of his critics who thought him weak or vaccilating, by showing that he can wield a more heavily mailed fist than ever was exercised by his predecessor, Primo de Rivera. On his orders the two ringleaders of the Jaca revolt were summarily executed.

He also threatened that unless the Madrid garrison showed unreserved loyalty to the government regime he would bring to Spain troops of the Spanish Foreign Legion, from Morocco. These hard bitten fighters, notoriously without political affiliations of any kind, undoubtedly would support the government and their officers to the last ditch.

Moose Herds Gain In Prussian Woods

KONIGSBERG.—(INS.)—State foresters report that the number of moose in East Prussia has now reached the pre-war figure. The herds were so reduced by poachers during and immediately following the war that in 1921 a closed season for five years was introduced. Since the once large herds in Russia have been virtually exterminated, moose exist in Europe only in East Prussia, Sweden and Norway.

SAYS SHEPARD'S WIFE DRANK

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Maj. E. J. Strickler, medical officer at Fort Riley and specialist in psychiatry, testified at the murder trial of Maj. Charles A. Shepard today, that symptoms he found the night Mrs. Zenana Shepard was stricken with her fatal illness indicated she suffered from alcoholic poisoning.

Maj. Strickler was the first physician called to attend Mrs. Shepard, whom the government contends was poisoned by Shepard, another Army medical officer, so he might be free to marry Miss Grace Brandon, young San Antonio stenographer.

The defense previously had obtained testimony from Mrs. Zenana H. Curtis, 86-year-old grandmother of Mrs. Shepard, that the major's wife was a heavy drinker.

Canada Population Shows Increase

OTTAWA.—Canada's population on June 1, 1930, is officially estimated at 9,934,500, an increase of 137,700 over the 1929 estimate. It is expected that it will go over 10,000,000 when the next official census is taken in 1931. Canada today has a larger population than Hungary, Belgium, Holland, Greece, Sweden, Portugal, Ireland, Scotland, Switzerland, Denmark or Norway.

POLICE RAID 'HILL' AFTER SHOOTING

One Man Held for Court, Five Fined in Roundup; Walsh Demands Cleanup

One alleged resort proprietor was held for court and five others were fined by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Center Avenue Police Station today, following a clean-up of the Hill district yesterday after Thomas Silverblatt, 40, of 5532 Beacon street, was shot while in front of 525 Wylie avenue.

Silverblatt, a bullet wound in his abdomen, is in Mercy Hospital in a serious condition. Robert Cotts, 37, of 3012 Bergman street, is being held by police, accused of the shooting. Two others arrested as witnesses are at liberty under bond.

At today's hearing John O'Brien, 79 Washington street, was held for court, charged with violating the Snyder act. Nine visitors arrested in the raid were fined $5 each.

FINES IMPOSED

Others arraigned were Truman Parker, Negro, 80 Elm street, charged with keeping a disorderly house, fined $50 or 30 days to the workhouse, two visitors discharged; Richard Steel, Negro, 1232 Wylie avenue, disorderly house, $100 or 30 days to workhouse, nine visitors discharged; Pat Donovan and Samuel Cohen, 1206 Colwell street, disorderly house, $50 each or 30 days to workhouse; John Julian, poolroom proprietor, 1001 Bedford avenue, gambling house, $25 or 30 days to workhouse, 19 visitors discharged.

Gust Matsuks, of "city," who police say conducts the "barboot" game in the Wylie avenue establishment, and James DiGiorno, of 1025 Vickroy street, were arrested as material witnesses in the Silverblatt shooting. They were released on $1,000 bond each. Police say they know the alleged proprietors of the gambling establishment at 525 Wylie avenue.

Supt. Walsh and Police Inspector Albert Bebee gave orders that the place was to be raided if an attempt was made to open it.

GAMBLING HOUSE QUARREL

According to Lieut. Ferris, Cotts and Silverblatt had quarreled in the gambling house and the argument was renewed outside the building. Matsuks and DiGiorno were on the pavement, Ferris said, when the argument was renewed and both saw the shooting. Cotts fled after the shooting and Silverblatt was taken to the hospital.

Lieut. Ferris said the weapon used in the shooting has not been found, but a taxi driver turned over to detectives a revolver cartridge found in his cab. Detectives say he is the man who drove Cotts home after the shooting.

Inspector Beebe declared he did not know that there was a gambling house operating at the address. He said that he and Inspector Walsh had directed that a cleanup be made of the hill and downtown establishments.

Fiance Faces Quiz In Secretary's Death

BALTIMORE, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Police were today investigating the death of Miss Helena B. Baker, 29, a private secretary to Alexander Armstrong, former state attorney general, who was found asphyxiated in her apartment yesterday.

The coroner is withholding his verdict until he questions Gilbert Kanour, her fiance, who is believed to have visited her Saturday. They were to have been married in February, their friends said.

Ragged 'Germany' Starts Riot in Berlin Theater

NUREMBERG, Germany, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Poor little Miss Germany, attired in a Cinderella's rags, incited a riot in the Apollo Theater here last night just by being on the stage in the midst of girls of other nations dressed up in fancy clothes.

Demonstrators, believed to be Fascists, protesting at the portrayal of Gretchen, the German character in the review "Liebe Mich" as poverty-stricken, turned white mice loose in the audience and bombarded the actors with stench bombs and rotten eggs.

One of the performers fainted and the police cleared the theater. The riot continued outside and the police broke it up only by making a number of arrests.

The theater operators said they had anticipated trouble and had removed "Miss France" from the cast. But they felt it only fair, they said, considering Germany's economic position, to give Gretchen the Cinderella role amidst more gorgeously attired neighbors.

Restricted Immigration Approved by Coolidge

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

Immigration is not a simple question. The entire economic effect of restriction is unknown. Every immigrant is a consumer requiring food, clothing and shelter. To that extent work is made for wage earners. But when many are already idle, an influx of wage earners would aggravate the condition of unemployment.

Calvin Coolidge

Every race and creed that has come here in numbers has shown examples of unsurpassed loyalty and devotion to our country. But only by coming slowly, avoiding city colonies and spreading over the land, do they arrive in the real United States.

The economic reasons for restricting immigration are not always the most important. We have certain standards of life that we believe are best for us. We do not ask other nations to discard theirs, but we do wish to preserve ours. Standards, government, and culture under free institutions are not so much a matter of constitutions and laws as of public opinion, ways of thought, and methods of life of the people. We reflect on no one in wanting immigrants who will be assimilated into our ways of thinking and living. Believing we can best serve the world in that way, we restrict immigration.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Hypocrisy at Capital Stuns Prohibition Congressman

FOUND RUM ADS IN OWN OFFICE

Intoxicated House Member Made Ardent Speech for Volstead Act, Stone Says

By WILLIAM S. NEAL.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A member of the House who came here from Oklahoma on the Hoover landslide, hoping to make prohibition enforcement more effective, will return home disillusioned and disheartened.

He is Representative U. S. Stone (Rep.), banker and oil operator, who believes in prohibition and stood ready to vote for strict enforcement.

PROPOSED DRY OATH

Having heard about "drinking drys," he conceived the idea of requiring federal officials and employes to take an oath to obey the constitution, including the prohibition amendment.

And now, after some 17 months, he says:

1—One of the most ardent dry speeches he has heard on the floor of the House was made by a member under the influence of liquor.

2—It is his "impression" that if members voted as they drank, the anti-drys would control the House and probably the Senate.

3—There is a class of "payroll drys" who want to keep the prohibition question agitated because it means money for them.

Representative Stone denies that he is a "fanatic," but he believes in enforcement and observance of the law. He said:

"I had hoped to end some of this hypocrisy. I introduced a bill demanding that persons receiving money from the treasury take an oath not to use intoxicating liquors.

OPPOSED BY LEADER

"I was surprised and dumbfounded when the prohibition leaders would not favor the bill. Some of the heads of temperance organizations won't answer my letters; others refer my bill to committees and it is buried.

"There are, I find, two classes of drys. There are the 'payroll prohibitionists,' who are in the cause for the money they can get out of it. They are not for my bill because it might put them out of a job. Then, the second class, is sincerely for prohibition and they are for the bill.

LIQUOR ADS IN OFFICE

"When I came into my office in the House office building, I found advertisements for gin, whisky and brandy on the mirrors. I found a half-bottle of corn liquor in a drawer. And my predecessor was a well-known dry from a western state.

"My impression after months in Washington is that if members of Congress vote the way they drink, the wets would control the House and probably the Senate.

"I know some of the most ardent drys who use intoxicating liquors while in Washington and fool their constituents when they return for re-election and are supported by the dry forces.

"One of the most ardent dry speeches I have heard made in the House was made by a man under the influence of liquor at the time.

"I want to ask the prohibition forces—can a man drink intoxicating liquor and be dry and receive support of the prohibition forces when he deliberately violates the prohibition law?"

COMMUNIST DEMONSTRATION AT FRENCH CONSULATE, NEW YORK, BEFORE POLICE CHARGED AND SCATTERED THRONG

FEARS PERIL TO SOCIAL STRUCTURE

Author Strikes at Trivial Causes and Disregard of Contracts; Urges Abolition

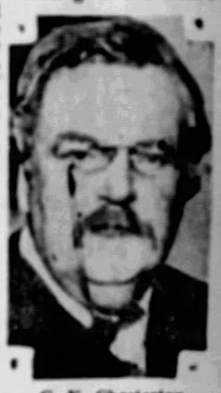
The Sun-Telegraph today presents the first of a series of articles in an unusual discussion of divorce laws. The question is whether divorce laws should be made more liberal or more stringent. The first of this series presents the views of G. K. Chesterton, noted English writer.

By G. K. CHESTERTON.

I am a Catholic so I don't believe in divorce.

If I wasn't a Catholic, I think I would become a convert to that faith on the one issue of divorce alone.

As it is being practiced, divorce is striking at the entire social structure of the world. Consider the contract of marriage solely as a contract. If any business contract was as easy to break as is this, our business world would be in chaos.



G. K. Chesterton

TRIVIAL REASONS

Think of it—a woman gets a divorce because her husband has a pimple on his nose. A man divorces a wife because her feet are cold.

"I don't like him any more," says a woman. And she is granted a divorce. Can you imagine being able to break a business contract because you objected to the brand of tobacco your partner smokes?

It is fantastic, the variety of excuses that serve as a basis for divorce.

There can be no doubt, it seems to me, that there must be a unification of divorce laws—if we are going to have such laws. Yet I am extremely loath to suggest a way to bring that about. I feel I would be treading dangerous ground were I to suggest an abrogation of state rights on the subject and the super-imposition of a national law.

PROHIBITION PRECEDENT

Yet, why should I hesitate to suggest that? Have you not determined that it is perfectly proper to impose a national law governing your gastronomic tastes? Do you not now decree what your millions shall drink? Is it not possible you will next prohibit spinach?

Still, if you do prohibit divorce, the realm of the bootlegger will only be broadened.

No, it can't be solved by legislation. Concede separations if you must. Deny divorce if you will save your whole social structure.

car, slowed down for the red light at Eleventh and Merchant streets, and the bus, which had been following, crashed into the car, demolishing it and hurling Dennis and Shriber through the windshield.

Mrs. A. G. Nichols, of 410 Liberty avenue, who, with her husband, was a passenger in the bus, suffered shock in the crash. She was given aid by a physician and taken home.

Morgue attaches were seeking the identity of a man, about 50, killed by a hit-and-run motorist on the River road, near Becks Run road, last night. The forearms of the victim were tattooed, deputy coroners said.

INJURED MAN DIES

Struck by an automobile in Fifth avenue, McKeesport, Joseph Parsons, 63, of 519 Pearl street, McKeesport, died yesterday in the McKeesport Hospital. The accident occurred Saturday. J. Heatherington, of R. D. 30, McKeesport, alleged driver of the car, was to appear at the coroner's office today.

Six persons were injured when an automobile in which they were riding crashed into a pole in Hazelwood avenue, near Beechwood boulevard, when, police reported, the car's steering apparatus failed to function.

Those injured were Rose Knechtel, 17, and her sisters, Nellie, 15; Mary, 12, and Alice, 9, and their cousins, Eleanor Burton, 7, and her sister, Annie, 7, of Orange, O. The automobile was driven by William J. Knechtel, 21, of 198 South Euclid avenue, a brother of the Knechtel girls.

AUTO HITS POLE

Joseph Smitz, 17, of 3 George street, McKees Rocks, suffered a probable fractured skull and lacerations of the head; A. F. Snead, 21, of Coraopolis; William Dickhart, of 3 George street, McKees Rocks, and Enoch Zink, 18, of the Emsworth Dam, Neville Island, received lacerations when the car driven by Snead, police said, crashed into a pole in Island avenue extension, early today.

R. V. Alford, of 93 Schley avenue, Ingram, was in Presbyterian Hospital suffering from injuries sustained when a car he was driving collided with a bus in the Lincoln highway, near the Summit House, Moon Run.

Three others were injured, one seriously, when two automobiles collided at Brownsville road and Carson street early today. They were Edward Mangan, 25, of 716 Cabot way, condition serious; Edward Queen, 27, of 424 Ander road, Mt. Lebanon, and Charles Tuike, 19, of 436 Cox avenue. They were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. William Stonebraker, 25, of 1434 Park boulevard, Dormont, and John Krainak, 33, of 834 Eureka street, drivers, were held on reckless driving charges by South Side police.

CHAPIN, 72, DIES IN SING SING

OSSINING, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Charles E. Chapin will attain his last wish—to sleep in oblivion beside the wife he killed 12 years ago.

Chapin, one-time city editor of the Evening World, died Saturday night in the Sing Sing death house after serving 11 years of a 20-year sentence for the slaying of Mrs. Nellie Beese Chapin, a grandniece of Mrs. Russell Sage. He was 72.

In his will he expressed a desire to be buried in the family plot in Glenwood Cemetery at Washington, D. C., in "the least expensive casket obtainable." He also asked that no service be held.

Chapin shot his wife while she slept, because, he always maintained, he was in financial difficulties and he loved her too well to see her suffer from want. As "No. 69,690," he became editor of the prison paper and later the prison gardener. He lived in the death house at his own request and never applied for a parole.

Stokowski Will Conduct 'Wozzeck'

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mary Louise Bok, chairman of the board of the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company, announced that Dr. Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, would conduct Alban Berg's "Wozzeck" when its American premiere is given by the opera company March 19. The announcement referred to "Wozzeck" as "the most sensational modern opera produced in Europe during the last 10 years."

KEITH-MILLER PLANE CRASHES

Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, who spent five days on a lonely island after being forced down on her return trip to Pittsburgh from Havana, Cuba, had more bad luck late yesterday when she wrecked her plane in taking off for Washington from Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. Keith-Miller escaped unhurt. She still is in Jacksonville, awaiting word from sponsors of the flight. Her plane was demolished. It was said the accident occurred when the motor failed shortly after the plane left the ground.

Mrs. Keith-Miller has had unusual misfortune in her flight from Pittsburgh to Havana and return. She was held up in Pittsburgh several days before the start. She reached Havana after stopping at Charleston and Miami. On the return she dropped on lonely Andros Island in the Bahamas, and was feared lost. She flew from Nassau to Miami and from Miami to Jacksonville.

FROHMAN UNDER KNIFE IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(Universal.)—Daniel Frohman, noted theatrical producer, now 75 years old, underwent an emergency operation yesterday afternoon.

Early today it was announced Frohman's condition was "satisfactory" and that he was expected to recover.

The operation was performed by Dr. George Schwartz, but at the doctor's office it was said no information was available as to its nature.

Lewis Deserved Prize, Says Phelps

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Sinclair Lewis deserved the Nobel prize, according to Dr. William Lyon Phelps, professor of English at Yale. In an interview here Dr. Phelps, however, said Lewis made a mistake in Stockholm by attacking the American Academy of Arts and Letters.

Einstein Advocates War Of Militant Pacifism To End All War

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Dr. Albert Einstein advocates a war of militant pacifism to end all war.

Speaking before the new historical society at the Ritz Carlton Hotel last night, he said:

"In our political situation it is the duty of man to commit crime in the name of his state or his country. It seems to me that it is more his duty to free mankind from this sort of thing.

"There are two ways in which this can be done. The first which has already been practiced in many countries, is to refuse military duty in time of war. If only 2 per cent of the men liable for war service were to refuse, there would not be enough jails in the world to take care of them."

The second method, he said, lies in the formation of a "war resistance fund," with pacifists from all nations contributing. The money would be used to defend imprisoned objectors and to strengthen the feeling against armed conflict the world over. He concluded:

"A real initiative in one or both directions would bring results. But you must show courage and you must show patience, otherwise you will remain just pacifists."

His remarks were translated from the German by Mrs. Rosika Schwimmer. He was preceded on the program by Miss Helen Keller, the blind author.

Prof. Einstein and his party sail tonight on the liner Belgenland for Havana and the Pacific Coast, by way of the Panama Canal.

During yesterday the scientist paid many calls and made several public appearances. He visited such old friends as Sir Rabindranath Tagore, Fritz Kreisler, Arturo Toscanini, Henry Morgenthau, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Dr. Bernard Kahn. He attended the Metropolitan Opera for the second time and paid tribute at the statue of Caruso.

POISON LIQUOR KILLS BOY

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 15.—One boy is dead and two others may die from poison liquor which they found and sampled while playing in the hills near Ramsey, O., west of here.

John Szotanski, 18, died last night. Frank Kubic, 10, and John Kolinski, 10, are in a critical condition at their homes in Ramsey.

The boys say they found a jug in a cave. Each took a drink of the contents. They all became violently ill and stretched out on the ground, unable to go home. When it became dark, the Kubic boy kept flashing a flashlight he had with him and relatives, who made a search for them, were guided to them by the flashes. Doctors who examined the liquor said it was deadly poison.

SCHWAB VISIONS BUSINESS GAIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, told the Pennsylvania Society here last night that the United States will recover from the present economic depression as it has recovered from others.

He urged the necessity of maintaining the wage and living standards of the American workman during the depression and assailed speculation, which he said was the prime cause of present conditions. He addressed a dinner of the society.

Bullet in Heart, Boy Quits Hospital

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—With a .22 caliber bullet lodged in the pericardium of his heart, Virgil Bennett left a hospital here yesterday to take up the usual duties of an 18-year-old farm youth.

Young Bennette was shot accidentally Thanksgiving Day at his home near Halls Summit, Kan. Placed under observation at the hospital, physicians decided an operation would be unnecessary and upon his release predicted the accident would not shorten his life.

Weather Conditions.

The weather is cloudy over much the greater portion of the country this morning, and light snow is falling in most of the states east of the Rocky Mountains and north of the Gulf States. The snowfall does not cover the ground except in Kansas, where four inches is reported. This cloudy and snowy condition is resulting from low pressure areas, centered over Mississippi and Colorado. A high pressure area, centered over Minnesota and Western Ontario, covers practically all of the central and northern portions of the country.

CONTO MURDER TRIAL OPENS

KITTANNING, Dec. 15.—Two jurors had been chosen this afternoon in the trial of Constable William Raper, of Leechburg, charged with the murder of Joseph Conto, Leechburg poop manufacturer, believed to have been "put on the spot" by Raper, near Apollo, last September.

Fifteen persons had been called as prospective jurors early this afternoon. The trial is being held before Judge J. Frank Graff.

What police believe has be an important development came when they were said to have arrested Clarence Mechem, of Leechburg, Raper's deputy and close friend. He was taken to Kittanning, they said, where he posted a bond of $2,500 to insure his presence at the trial.

Charles Margiotti, of Punxsutawney, special prosecutor in the Schroeder-Dugan murder trial, Joseph Bendo, Westmoreland County assistant district attorney, C. O. Morris, former Kittanning burgess, and Robert Askey, Kittanning attorney, will assist District Attorney William A. Ashe present the case of the Commonwealth.

Edward Golden, Westmoreland County attorney, and Blaine Mast, former Armstrong County district attorney, will defend the Leechburg constable.

GIRL OVERCOME BY GAS REVIVED

Firemen of No. 31 engine company, Winterburn street, and a rescue team of the Mine Safety Appliances company today aided in reviving Sylvia Thomas, 20, employed in the home of Mrs. Abe Dezen, 2798 Beechwood boulevard, after she had been overcome by carbon monoxide gas.

When Mrs. Dezen went to her room to call her she found the girl unconscious from fumes of a lighted gas stove, police reported. She was resuscitated in 30 minutes by first aid methods and an inhalator.

Musicians War On Lisbon Talkies

LISBON, — (AP.) — Portuguese musicians, alarmed at the sudden vogue for disc records and talking films, have constituted a defense league in an endeavor to stem the invasion of "canned" music.

A delegation of musicians recently waited upon the prime minister and petitioned that gramophone discs of national artists recorded abroad should enter the country free of duty, but that the tax on foreign voices should be substantially increased.

Fearing Operation, Baker Kills Himself

Rather than go to a hospital today for an operation, Charles Eberhardt, 54, of 369 East Ninth avenue, Tarentum, shot and killed himself today in the rear of his bakery in Tarentum, the coroner reported. Tarentum police, who reported the case, said Eberhardt left a note saying he feared he would not survive the operation.

Louvain Library Suit Lost by American

BRUSSELS, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Court of Appeals today decided against Whitney Warren, American architect, in the famous Louvain Library suit, by pronouncing in favor of Louvain University, which stood out for removal of Warren's inscription on the library facade, reading:

It was objected to by the university as leading to perpetuate hatreds of the World War. Warren refused to withdraw it and the lower courts sustained him. Now he must pay the costs of both actions.

VET HOSPITAL PLEA HEARD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—The plea of the American Legion of Pennsylvania for more hospital facilities was carried before the House veterans sub-committee at a hearing on hospitals today by State Commander Charles I. Eingard and other Legionnaires.

The Legion program includes enlargement of Aspinwall and Coatesville hospitals, new Naval Hospital in Philadelphia, new tuberculosis hospital in the north-central part of the state, and a diagnostic center in Philadelphia. The entire program would cost about $7,500,000.

Pennsylvania, the Legion commander said, is not given the same hospital facilities as other large states. He declared but 47 per cent of Pennsylvania's disabled war veterans get into hospitals in the state.

Swiss to Debate Foreign Order Ban

BERNE, Switzerland.—(AP.)—The Swiss Federal Council has fixed February 8, 1931, as the date of the country-wide vote on the "Foreign Decorations" initiative. If this initiative is adopted, no Swiss citizen holding an official position at home or abroad will be permitted to accept decorations, orders or any other visible distinctions from foreign governments.

Shaved Lamb Vests Go Well With Suits

PARIS.—(AP.)—Vests of black or white shaved lamb are new accessories to wear with dressmaker suits of the semi-tailored variety that have collarless jackets of pseudo-cardigan lines.

Swiss Macaroni Now Rivals Italy's

ZURICH, Switzerland.—(AP.)—Switzerland is looming up as a keen competitor for Italy in the macaroni industry. Some 65 factories employing 1,200 workers produced close to 500,000 tons this year, twice the 1905 output.

FRENCH CABINET FACES STORM

PARIS, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—The laboriously constructed cabinet of Senator Theodore Steeg, procured after an nine-day wrangle with sharply-opposed political factions, weathered bitter attacks by political foes today even before it had an opportunity to court formal recognition by the Chamber of Deputies.

The Left Republicans and the Radical Left have signified their intention to oppose the government, and much of the Paris press was engaged in a strong denunciation of the new ministry. Two undersecretaries already have resigned because of party politics, indicating in all that prospects for M. Steeg's government are not promising.

If the vote is unfavorable it is believed Andre Tardieu again will be called to Elysee Palace to form a new ministry.

The selection of former Premier Camille Chautemps as minister of education by Steeg caused wide protest on the ground that relations with the Vatican would again be jeopardized.

M. Steeg today appointed 11 undersecretaries in the hope of strengthening his ministry.

Policeman's Shot Fells 30 Rioters

SYDNEY, Australia. — (AP.) — Beset by 300 drunken seamen in the redlight district here, Constable Tomlin drew his revolver and fired one shot in the air. Thirty fell to the ground crying that they had been wounded and lay groaning until police vans arrived.

Use of Bicycle Gains in China

SHANGHAI.—(AP.)—Use of the bicycle has increased here until now there are 14,000 on the streets, and as many as 400 riders have been fined in one day for violating traffic rules.

CITY AID FUND SHIFT STUDIED

With the $100,000 emergency fund provided by the city for relief of unemployed and needy persons exhausted, a meeting is to be held tomorrow by the seven welfare agencies co-operating with the city Department of Welfare to plan for distribution of an additional fund that is expected to be provided by City Council.

Intimation that the new fund might be distributed through the city Department of Supplies came as a surprise to Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Welfare Department, and to heads of the several agencies interested.

So far as could be learned, the distribution of the original fund has given satisfaction to the co-operating bodies.

Full investigation of the worthiness of those to whom aid has been given has been made by the participating welfare agencies, it was pointed out, cleared through the city welfare department, and results are said to have met with praise by those vitally concerned.

Speeches by Il Duce Rouse Italy's Youths

MODENA, Italy.—(AP.)—Mussolini's fiery speeches seem to have aroused Italian youth. An official report recently issued by the ministry of war shows that a striking number of young men wish to enter military schools.

Among 315 candidates for the military colleges of Italy, 204 were selected, while the Royal Academy here selected 315 applicants, discarding more than 900 would-be officers.

Palm Tree Leaves Used as Fertilizer

HAVANA.—(AP.)—The palm tree, producer of many commodities in the tropics, including cocoanuts, copra, liquor and fuel, is about to add another marketable attribute to the list. Leaves of the palm have merit as fertilizer, it has been found.

PENNA. PUPILS WIN HONORS

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Eleven Pennsylvania high school students were honored in the recent nation-wide contests in editorial writing, news judgment and news writing conducted by Quill and Scroll, national high school journalistic society.

J. W. Mazaw, of South Hills High, Pittsburgh, won fourth place in the national division of the news writing contest.

1, Earl Hague, Meadville; 2, Dick Moffitt, Wilkinsburg Senior High, Wilkinsburg; 3, G. Hamilton Rupp, Senior High, Altoona; 4, Jean Fleckenstine, Bloomsburg, and Martha Gibson, Perry High, Pittsburgh.

WORK GAINING IN COAL MINES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Labor Department reported today a 2.5 per cent decline in employment and a 5.1 per cent decrease in payroll totals for November from the previous month.

The estimate was based on reports received from 41,525 establishments in 15 major industrial groups. They had in November 4,712,082 employes, whose combined earnings in one week were $115,905,230.

Increased employment was shown in two groups—bituminous coal mining, 0.8 per cent, and retail trade, 3.0 per cent. Employment in manufacturing declined 2.7 per cent, while payroll totals decreased 6.1 per cent.

BURGESS' FINE HELD EXCESSIVE

Burgess Robert Morrow, of West Homestead, was reversed in Common Pleas Court today when it was said he did not act in accordance with the law in fining Louis Payer, of West Run road, Spring Hollow, $25 for disorderly conduct.

Payer had been arrested for beating two of his brothers, it was said, and the charge was fixed as disorderly conduct. Joseph T. Passaflume, attorney for Payer, argued to the court that the maximum fine on such a charge is $10.

The hearing had been brought on a writ of habeas corpus. Payer had been in jail serving a sentence of 30 days in default of payment of his $25 fine.

Bandman Missing Over Yule Grief

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Charles D. Hershey, a member of the U. S. Army Band, was being sought today by police. His wife reported he disappeared Saturday because his salary would not permit him to buy his three children the Christmas toys he wanted to give them.

Six Held in Plot To Kill King Carol

VIENNA, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—A Communist plot to assassinate King Carol of Rumania has been discovered at Bucharest, reports received from there today said.

Six of those involved were reported under arrest.

Attempt to Burn Doukhobor Schools

NELSON, B. C., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Alleged attempts to bomb and burn two Doukhobor schools in the Grand Forks district were made over the week-end. An improvised bomb was found yesterday in the basement of the Russian religious sect's Fruitova school. The fuse had died out.

BAR ARRANGES REFERENDUM

Ballots on the referendum for a Common Pleas Court successor to Judge James B. Drew, who expects to resign January 3, to take his seat on the Superior Court bench, will be mailed tomorrow by the Allegheny County Bar Association.

The balloting will close Saturday at noon, after which representatives of the three daily newspapers will count the votes. The result will be sent to Gov. John S. Fisher for his guidance in naming Drew's successor.

At least 20 candidates are in the field. The list has not been announced. Judge Drew said that he will remain on the Common Pleas bench until January 3, and be sworn in as Superior Court judge January 5. If Gov. Fisher makes an appointment, effective until January, 1932, he must do it not later than Monday, January 5. After that date he must submit his nominate to the State Senate for confirmation.

Soviet Documents Declared Forgeries

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Boris E. Skvirsky, director of the Soviet Union information bureau, told the House Communist Committee today the documents submitted to it by former Police Commissioner Whalen of New York, were forgeries.

WOMAN KILLED IN AIR CRASH

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Jessie Ligert Wood, 27, died last night three hours after she apparently had escaped uninjured in the crash of an airplane in which she made a twilight flight.

Frank Busch, commercial pilot, at the controls when the plane struck a fence in landing and nosed over, was unhurt.

Miss Wood, secretary to Frances Marion, scenario writer, climbed out of the wreckage laughing. Later she felt ill. Her physician said he believed Miss Wood suffered internal injuries.

Governor 'At Home' On New Year's Day

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Gov. Fisher today announced that the annual public reception would be held on New Year's Day at the executive mansion, from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

In accordance with another annual custom, small boxes of candy will be distributed to children at the executive mansion on Christmas morning. The distribution will be made by James M. Auter, messenger attached to the Governor's office.

Doll Lady Ready for Final Rush After Day of Rest

Dear Little Girls:

I had a delightful rest yesterday. I needed it because I had put in the busiest week in all my life. When I started my "Tickletoes" distribution I realized there would be lots and lots of little girls who would take advantage of my Christmas offer but it didn't occur to me that there would be really so many who would want a "Tickletoes."

Scores and scores of girls—and some little boys—have already secured their "Tickletoes" and it is safe to say that they are today the happiest children in Pittsburgh and vicinity. And they should be happy because "Tickletoes" is the most wonderful doll in all the world and those who already have a "Tickletoes" for a playmate had to do very little to get one.

Well, the time is getting shorter and shorter every day. Now it is only 10 days until Christmas. Fortunately, however, I have plenty of "Tickletoes" dollies. The doll makers have been working day and night for weeks and weeks just to take care of the demand of the little girls in Pittsburgh and almost every day they send me a new shipment of glorious "Tickletoes."

In the meantime I am still getting hundreds of letters from little girls every day. Here are the names of a few who have written to me within the last few days:

"Tickletoes," by the way, is a wonder doll in every sense of the expression. She is very much larger than the ordinary doll, is unbreakable, has a winsome smile, sparkling eyes, sucks her thumb, clasps her hands and plays with her toes, has three separate voices, rubber legs and rubber arms, and is handsomely dressed in organdy with stocking and slippers to match.

She's nearly as tall as this newspaper is long and you'll fall in love with her the minute you see her.

Now, if you want a "Tickletoes" before Christmas, fill in the coupon today, mail it at once, and I'll send you a letter telling just what you'll have to do to get one. It is very little that I am asking. Scores of other little girls have already done it and you can do it just as easily and have a "Tickletoes" for Christmas. Good bye 'til tomorrow.

DOLL LADY.

JEWISH FEAST USHERED IN BY CANDLE LIGHT

Programs in Synagogues Mark Opening of 8-Day Observance of Hanukkah

Lighting of candles in Jewish homes and synagogues last night at sundown opened the celebration of Hanukkah, or the feast of the lights. The observance will continue eight days, during which special programs will be held in synagogues.

The celebration is essentially a home ceremony with a series of lights being kindled each night. It commemorates the victory of Israel and the Maccabees over the Syrians in 165 B. C.

ENTERTAINMENT HELD

The opening days of the observance included a mothers' and children's entertainment in the social hall of B'Nai Israel Congregation, Beacon street, and a children's party at the Tree of Life Synagogue, Craft avenue, each followed by the ceremony of lighting the candle.

Other programs were at the Rodef Shalom Congregation, where Assistant Rabbi B. Benedict Glaser presided, and in the Sharie Torah Synagogue, Webster avenue, where a concert was given with the cantor and choir of the Beth Hamedrish Hagadol Congregation, Washington place, assisting. Rabbi M. S. Sivitz was the speaker.

SMOKER TONIGHT

The Men's Club of B'Nai Israel congregation will hold a smoker and initiation tonight, and the Alumni Association of the congregation will sponsor a debate on Zionism Wednesday night. Friday night a sermon will be heard and Saturday afternoon a sisterhood Hanukkah tea will be given, with Mrs. David Weiss as speaker.

The Betha Shalom Sisterhood will hold a mothers' and daughters' night tomorrow night, and the Men's Club of the congregation will hold a father and son banquet Wednesday.

COUPLE MURDER OFFICER IN JAIL

CARTHAGE, Mo., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Sheriff Harry Stevens directed a search over four states today for a young man and a woman who yesterday entered the Jasper County Jail, killed Othel E. Bray, 50-year-old peace officer, with his own revolver, and fled after failing to open the women's cell block.

The search covered the converging sections of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

A trusty and John Dyer, 17, son of George Dyer, jailer, were fired upon by the slayer, who, with his woman companion, about 24 years old, escaped in a small coupe bearing Kansas license tags.

HEARING HELD ON HAIR DYE

Charging the manufacture and distribution of a harmful hair dye, the Federal Trade Commission today heard several Pittsburgh witnesses testify here against Inecto, Incorporated, a Delaware corporation with headquarters in New York City. The hearing was conducted by Examiner Edward M. Averhill in the William Penn Hotel, with Henry Miller as government counsel and Murray Hulbert, of New York, representing the defendant company.

General denial is entered to the charges by the hair dye company. The hearing was one of a series being conducted in various cities, testimony already having been taken in New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Cincinnati. The examiner will sit in Cleveland tomorrow.

Missionaries Held Year in China Freed

HONG KONG, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The British warship Sandwich left here today for Haichow, South China island, where American and British missionaries are endangered by bandit gangs. A telegram from Kayingchow today said that two German missionaries—E. Fischle and Walter Fischle—had been rescued from bandits by Chinese soldiers after being held in captivity since 1929.

Girl Powders Nose, Pals Stage Holdups

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—While a pretty flapper nonchalantly powdered her face and served as lookout, three youthful bandits in a stolen automobile staged six holdups within an hour here early today.

Two gasoline filling station attendants, a drugstore proprietor, a restaurant owner and two pedestrians were the victims. The quartet obtained about $100 in cash.

3 in Bold Holdup Get $1,426 Payroll

First Aid for Jobless Is Last to Arrive

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

the Democrats want to grab the credit for it.

A politician wants all the glory. He doesn't want any other names mentioned. If Paul Revere had been a modern diplomat he would have denied that he ever had a horse.

He would have said:

"I saved my country all by myself. Please pass the biscuits. The hoss is a liar. He wasn't there at all."

With Thomas Paine we must agree that these be times that try men's souls.

But the heels are trying to snatch all the glory.

His short-wave staggers jam the air and give everybody grid leaks and contraband static.

Result is that all musical programs are no good for entertainment or medicinal purposes.

So the town authorities threaten to expose the bootlegger unless he confines his home work to fewer office hours.

They know his name. They know where he lives.

"Coming Through the Rye."

"Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes." Ben Johnson.

"Maine Stein Song." Rudy Valee.

Victor Herbert's "Absinthe Frappe."

And many others too expensive to mention.

Maybe it's the fault of the Eighteenth Amendment which boosted the pavlova industry without harming any other.

Bootleggers have annoyed the government for years. This is the first time it has been brought home to us.

His rye and scotch are not so bad. But the interference is terrific when he's making gin.

Wife of Kidnaped Man Takes Ransom

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Authorities today interpreted the hurried departure of Mrs. James Ward as evidence that she had gone to treat with kidnapers who are holding her husband, a reputed wealthy bootlegger, for $50,000 ransom.

Before leaving on her secret mission, Mrs. Ward conferred with police officials, but refused to reveal her destination. Ward was kidnaped Saturday night by four men, who placed him in an automobile and drove off, calling to Ward's wife:

"You'll hear from us later."

TRIPLE CRASH FATAL TO 3

MEDIA, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Three men were killed and three others hurt near here in an automobile accident involving three cars.

Those killed were Benjamin H. Robinson, 38, Media, and Clarence W. Talley, 40, Berwyn, Pa., and Fred C. Robinson.

Burdan, after being treated for cuts and bruises at a Philadelphia hospital, was said to have left by train for Washington to visit a son. Kohl was not badly hurt. The other injured man was Robert C. Dixon, Washington, D. C., whose leg was broken when the Robinson car rebounded after the collision and pinned him against his own automobile which he had stopped to repair a tire. He and his companion, John Burrell, Washington, saw the accident and attempted to jump aside. Burrell escaped but Dixon was taken to the Chester Hospital.

Auto Racer Killed Under Burning Car

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Caught beneath his flaming automobile, Kenny Morgan, Long Beach (Cal.) race driver, was dead here today. Morgan was thrown clear of his machine when it crashed into a guard rail, but his car toppled over on him and burst into flames.

FAMOUS MOVIE DIRECTOR DIES

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—F. Richard Jones, 38, former studio executive and a film director, died here yesterday of tuberculosis. His condition had not been considered serious.

Born in St. Louis, Jones began his screen career in 1913, with O. T. Crawford, who produced pictures in the Missouri city. Then he directed Keystone comedies for four years.

Later he was supervising director for Mack Sennett comedies, and director-general of the Roach Studios. Within the last five years, as a director for United Artists, he reached the peak of his fame.

Jones directed Douglas Fairbanks' picture, "The Gaucho," Ronald Colman's "Building Drummond," and a number of other features. He was married last year in New York to Ursne Lentz, Hollywood fashion designer, who survives him.

Tagore, Poet, Leaves For Europe Today

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Sir Rabindranath Tagore, Hindu poet, will sail today for Europe. Opel, German "rocket" inventor, abroad today include Dr. Fritz Open, German "rocket" inventor, Viscount Astor and Frits Kreisler, violinist.

FIGHTS FEDERAL PROPAGANDA ON DRY LAW

LaGuardia Opposes Funds For 'Educational' Matter; Charges Mis-Statements

(Universal Service.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Criticising propaganda publications by the Federal Prohibition Bureau as "grossly inaccurate" and "a waste of public money," Representative F. H. Laguardia (Rep.), of New York, today was demanding they be suppressed and no money spent for this purpose.

In a letter to Attorney General Mitchell, the congressman appealed for suppression of a publication called "The Value of Law Observance."

La Guardia also served notice he will wage a battle in Congress to prevent further appropriations for propaganda purposes by the dry bureau.

$50,000 FUND

Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, dry director, had $50,000 at his disposal for preparation of "educational monographs."

When efforts are made to appropriate another $50,000 at this session of Congress for that purpose, La Guardia will open his attack, he said.

"The Value of Law Observance" book bears the seal of the Department of Justice, giving it an authority the contents do not warrant, La Guardia wrote Mitchell. The letter said:

"Surely the good name of the Department of Justice and the good faith of the United States government cannot be used to indorse a stupid compilation of distorted facts written in poor English containing misrepresentations and wilful misstatements for propaganda purposes."

The book claims that absenteeism on Monday in large industries has decreased in the last 25 years, and gives a table of figures from one large powder manufacturer in Delaware to substantiate the assertion that "blue Monday" is disappearing, according to La Guardia.

EXPLANATION OMITTED

The statement and the tabulation were taken from a book on "Prohibition, its Economic and Industrial Aspects," by Herman Feldman, the letter said, continuing:

"Part of the same paragraph and explanation of the table are purposely omitted from the department's pamphlet. The omitted part, says:

"'The company explains: You will note that the absenteeism has become less and less in subsequent years. We feel that the improvement in attendance is more due to improvement in labor than to any influence from the prohibition amendment.'"

Any lawyer purposely omitting part of a quotation cited in a brief, thereby changing its very meaning, would have his entire brief thrown out of court, LaGuardia writes.

CHARGES DECEPTION

Then he cited "another glaring piece of deception" in the pamphlet under the title, "Has Prohibition Been Harmful to the Farm Producer?" The quotation cites a big growth in production of grapes, corn sugar and molasses in recent years. LaGuardia continued:

"Here the prohibition bureau seeks to make it appear that the increase in corn sugar and molasses and grapes due to prohibition was consumed for legitimate purposes. The increase was due to prohibition, but used for the unlawful manufacture of alcohol. The same bureau of prohibition is the authority for this statement."

LaGuardia quoted another publication of the bureau, "Possible Production of Illegal Liquor," as saying that no less than 45,900,000 gallons of 10 proof alcohol might have been illegally manufactured from corn sugar. The Congressman observed:

"This is where the increase in corn sugar is going—but not mentioned in 'Law Observance.'"

WHERE GRAPES GO

The letter went on:

"Now as to grapes, while in the 'Law Observance' pamphlet it appears that the grape industry has increased 400 per cent, because the American people are observing the law and eating jelly, on page 36 of the other publication of the same department it is stated that 'the quantity of alcohol in home-made wine is estimated at 12 per cent.'

"This is where the 400 per cent increase of grapes is going—silence on this in 'Law Observance.'"

Jeweler Kidnaped, Robbed of $60,000

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Harry Fine, New York jeweler, reported to police he had been kidnaped and robbed of diamonds valued at $60,000.

Fine said he was seized in the Loop district by two men who forced him into a machine, relieved him of the stones, and then released him. The victm said he is a partner in the firm of Max Fine & Sons, 62 West Forty-second street, New York.

Express Overturns, Passengers Unhurt

LISBON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Three passenger coaches of the fast Vigo-Lisbon express jumped the rails and turned over near the Spanish border, but no one was seriously injured.

The cars were filled with Spanish and Portguguese passengers, who were bruised and cut by glass but were able to continue their journey by another train after treatment.

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Lives there the fan with radio so dead, who never to himself has said, "I'll see about this. I'll write the Federal Radio Commission," and then sat back to await a radical shakeup in wavelengths because of his complaint? It's no picnic finding enough wavelengths for everybody and at the same time separating them so that they don't sound like the Little German Band on a holiday. Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, chairman of the commission explains "Radio and the Federal Government" on WCAE at 8:15 tonight.

* * *

The General is a shrewd man of about 65. When in Pittsburgh recently he derived great pleasure puffing a Charles G. Dawes pipe.

* * *

Wild Oscar assists Father Cox in a radio appeal for the unemployed, WJAS at 6:30. The situation comes up again over WCAE at 10:30 when Mrs. Vincent Astor speaks.

* * *

Arrangement of the Family Party on WCAE at 9:30 is "simply lovely" with "Three Little Words" for an opener followed later by "Liebestraum" (Dream of Love) and "Liebesfreud" (Joy of Love).

* * *

QUESTION A DAY:

* * *

Jake sang "Just a Little Closer" for two Pittsburgh Scotchmen in his WTAM Prelle Sunday morning.

* * *

Gene and Glenn are ready for the network. They have as many friends around here as Amos 'n' And.

* * *

Is there one among our readers with more than his share of world's goods that would like to do a good turn this Christmas?

* * *

Thirty-three people, average age 77 years, never miss "the radio" at the Old People's Home, Zelienople, Pa. The set has seen better days and soon will be a memory like the lives of those who listen to it.

"BY THE WAY——"

The Prince of Wales has taken a jolly liking to the microphone . . . . and speaks again tomorrow at 4:40 on KDKA . . . . The tooting of a horn is to be the opening signature of WCAE's 1931 Automobile Show broadcast . . . . T. S. W.—Tom Gerun's engagement at KDKA and the William Penn starts January 10 . . . . it's for a short time, to be followed with Don Bestor again . . . . Ann Leaf of the "Nocturne" recitals over WABC at midnight, is so small she has special foot pedals on the organ and in her automobile . . . . WCAE has 1,000 watts permanently, the edict of our Radio Commission Saturday . . . KQV'S Christmas Carnival at 9 has merit . . . Carnegie stages a Radio Show today, tomorrow and Wednesday in the Elks' Auditorium . . . Winners of the Atwater-Kent Fourth National Radio Audition last night were Raoul Evariste Nadeau, 22-year-old baritone of New York City, and Carol Deis, soprano, of Dayton, O. . . . Nadeau works in an electrical research laboratory and aspires to grand opera . . . Carol Deis does secretarial work . . . each gets $5,000 and a musical education in Europe . . . Ford Miller, WCAE announcer, is home again—happy after seeing his brother, Paul, at center for Army in that great game Saturday.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The Sunday radio menu is becoming the most varied of the week. One may roam on the air waves all the way from grand opera to jazz, from symphonies to the songs of the sombre nineties, from Rosario Bourdon to hoedowns, from Hollywood boulevard to Savoy Hill.

Saturday continues to be the big jazz day, when maestros reach most eagerly for their megaphones, when ba-by gets her biggest tribute from a thousand and one dance bands.

* * *

Though the broadcasters are ever busy with statistics no figures are yet available of those Wall street victims who were relieved of their woe by listening to early morning Pollyanna programs.

Since they have been on the networks Amos' n' Andy, a spy reports, have been detected in only one slip of the tongue.

Wonder when Paul Whiteman or Senor Lopez will again present jazz all dressed up and nowhere to go but Carnegie Hall. Nearly seven years have passed since either led jazz in spats and high hat into the rarified air of a symphony hall.

Fight Hoodoo Haunts Our Broadcasters

A hoodoo continues to hang over the attempts of the radio bigwigs to air a first-class championship fight. The best fight broadcast to date remains the first Dempsey-Tunney meeting in Philadelphia when J. Andrew White at the microphone told an incredulous nation, with no threatening finger of the broadcasters to say to him nay, that "it isn't the same Dempsey at all."

Today announcers are not allowed such latitude. Individual opinions are frowned upon, and sports broadcasts, as a result, have lost some of their old-time zest.

* * *

Paul Specht is the first maestro to bring a saxophone to the pulpit of a church. He is also the first maestro to bring the notes of jazz to an inaugural ball. Not content with musical saws, accordions and pipe organs, B. A. Rolfe has recently added the vocalists, Gladys Rice and Elizabeth Lennox, to his dance band. Godfrey Ludlow is the most active of the violinists on the loudspeakers. Floyd Gibbons, the word-shooter, pronounces Rialto as "Rye-alto." In these speakeasy days that's the only way to pronounce it.

Reading Dairymen Cut Milk Prices

READING, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Effective today, retail milk prices were cut 1 cent, from 13 to 12 cents per quart and from 8 to 7 cents per pint. Independent dealers who have been selling at 12 and 7 cents have not announced their plans. The association reduction was made because of reduced consumption, without a corresponding cut in output. Unemployment is blamed for the drop in consumption.

Urge Road Building To Aid Jobless

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Larger road building programs would result in an immediate and rapid increase in employment, A. W. Childs, of the automotive division of the Commerce Department, declared in a radio talk. Fifty per cent of the road building dollar goes directly into labor and something like 25 per cent indirectly, through the production of machinery and materials, according to Childs.

War Department Grants Commissions

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps were issued by the War Department to the following Pennsylvanians: Charles J. Christian, Philadelphia, first lieutenant, Signal Corps; Lavern G. Witmer, Chester, first lieutenant, field artillery; Edward Wolf, Philadelphia, captain, infantry.

Gunless Robber Loses in Joke Exchange

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A robber holding one hand in a menacing position in a coat pocket entered a downtown drug store and ordered W. J. Booth, the manager, to get busy on the combination of the store's safe. Booth answered:

"I don't know the combination, but I'll do anything to please."

He twirled the dial. The robber growled:

"Nothing but static. You couldn't open a can o'beans. Now gimme an escort to the front door."

Booth walked to the door. The man took his hand out of the coat pocket and laughed. He chuckled:

"The joke's on you, nothing but my hand in the pocket. So long, buddy."

Booth chortled:

"Sez you, I knew the combination all the time."

Then he shut the door with a bang.

LEGITIMATE STAGE, PRESENT AND FUTURE

"Bird In Hand," a comedy by John Drinkwater, acted by a company of English players, comes to the Alvin tonight with a long New York run to its credit. Matinees will be as usual.

Next week the Alvin offering will be Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book," musical revue featuring Will Mahoney, William Demarest and the Three Sailors. The seat sale opens Thursday.

Another Theater Guild production, "In the Meantime," opens in the Nixon tonight for six evening and two matinee performances. Glenn Anders and Linda Watkins have leading roles.

Mrs. Fiske will be the Christmas week attraction in the Nixon. She will be seen in "Ladies of the Jury." Seats will be obtainable Thursday.

Tonight in the Pitt the George Sharp Players will present a comedy, "Daddy Dumplins," a play made by Earl Carroll from a George Barr McCutcheon tale.

The Pitt's offering for Christmas week will be a comedy also, "Broken Dishes."

Edward Everett Horton To Be Fussy Reporter In "The Front Page"

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, Premier Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 15.

There comes to this department a bit of casting news that calls for a celebration.

Edward Everett Horton is to play the fussy reporter, Bessinger, in Howard Hughes' production of "The Front Page." Bessinger, you recall, is the chap who kept an antiseptic mouthpiece on his telephone and who sent out for a lettuce and tomato sandwich on gluten bread.

As far as I'm concerned, Horton is the ideal choice for the role, and the rest of the cast had better look to its laurels.

Edward E. Horton

Though it lacks official sanction, a rumor is abroad that Jean Harlow will play the girl who throws herself out of the window of the court house press room.

Norman Foster still is the leading candidate for Hildy Johnson, but the deal is not signed.

Another role has been filled with the signing of Frank McHugh to play the chubby reporter who says over the telephone: "Is it true, madam, that you were the victim of a Peeping Tom?"

As hilberto announced, Louis Wolheim enacts the managing editor, who makes the inelegant remark about the stealing of his watch. Incidentally, I wonder how Lewis Milestone is going to alter this bit of dialogue without taking the kick out of the situation.

THE SHERIFF INSISTS

Two actors, out of work, were talking about furniture.

"I've got some pieces in my home," boasted one, "that go back to Louis XIV."

"That's nothing," replied the other, "I've got some that go back to the dealer on the sixteenth."

NORMA GOES ON ROAD

Norma Talmadge is now on her way East to make a four-month road tour in Zoe Akins' play, "The Greeks Had a Word For It."

Norma Talmadge

It develops that this was one of the conditions under which the film rights were sold to Joseph M. Schenck.

As matters stand, Norma will come to Los Angeles in the spring as star of the stage version. Later, she will make it into a talkie.

I NOTE THAT—

D. W. Griffith will be home after the holidays to make another picture for United Artists . . . Slim Summerville gets a $500 a week raise on his new option which Universal has taken up . . . Fox has given Carter Gibson, the prop-boy actor, a long-term contract . . . Colleen Moore is back in Hollywood and has opened up her home . . . Six pictures start at the First National Studio on January 6. Three are listed as Warner Brothers offerings. . . William Austin has left Paramount after an association of several years.

Science Lecturer Outlines Teachings

That Christian Science is a system of healing disease of mind and body by prayer and an understanding of the teaching of Jesus was stated by Charles E. Jarvis, member of the board of lectureship, in a lecture at the Third Church of Christ, Scientist, here, yesterday. Jarvis told the audience that his religion teaches absolute reliance upon God for the healing of every form of discord, physical, mental and moral.

FAIR HEROINE SAVED FROM FLAMES IN HARRIS

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"The Fourth Alarm," fire-fighting melodrama, is the new Harris picture. It is dedicated to American firemen everywhere. But it is no special glorification of them. It is too monotonous.

The hero is a young fireman. The heroine is a rich little girl. He saves her from some spectacular flames—and that's really all there is to it. Such originality!

On the stage there are five acts of vaudeville. These include a chalk-talker, speedy with the chalker and the chalk; a dancing quartet that steps some keen steps; a lady in a bronze-colored dress who sings, and a couple of comedians who begin their antics among the audience and end up on the stage.

Blast Wrecks Porch Of Squire's Home

DANVILLE, Va., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A blast early today wrecked the porch of the home of Magistrate R. S. Fitts, about two miles from Schoolfield. The magistrate, his wife and two small grandchildren, Philip and Patricia, were sleeping. No one was injured.

SECRET REPORT USED IN 'POWER STEAL' FIGHT

By M. L. RAMSAY.
(Universal Service.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The whole foundation of Attorney General Mitchell's New River ruling, opening the way to the surrender of public control over water powers, was riddled today by an official report hitherto kept secret in the files of the Federal Power Commission.

This is the report which led to charges of "a tremendous water power steal" being attempted by the power trust forces in a secret session of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee last week. With the Mitchell ruling, it has become a cardinal point in the fight over confirmation of the Hoover appointees to the new Power Commission.

EVIDENCE OF NAVIGABILITY

It contains a mass of evidence which is stated to prove that the New River is under full federal control as a navigable stream. It was on a statement of facts to the contrary, submitted by the commission, that Mitchell based his ruling that regulatory authority could be surrendered at discretion.

Congress "has assumed jurisdiction of New River" through 18 acts, extending all the way from 1872 to 1928, according to this report. "Eight of these acts were for improvement of the stream, the report shows, and comments:

"In the federal water power act we have an express declaration that the authorization of improvement shall give a legal status of navigability to any stream for the purpose of giving jurisdiction to the Federal Power Commission."

OPPOSES LICENSE

The report, bristling with citations of acts of Congress and Supreme Court decisions, was prepared by J. F. Lawson, acting chief counsel of the Power Commission. Lawson refused to approve issuance of the unrestricted license the power trust demanded for the New River.

The commission subsequently sidestepped the issue, but invited a test of its authority over the river in the courts. Meanwhile, the power lawyers have served notice in another court hearing that they will rely on the Mitchell ruling in attempting to overthrow the water power law.

Lawson's report holds that the commission has no power to declare the New River non-navigable, in the face of its treatment by Congress, and that a three-year-old finding of the commission was "inadvertently made," in the belief that this finding would not interfere with "full jurisdiction." This finding should be reversed, the report holds.

MOTHER SLAYS DAUGHTER

DENVER, Col., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Bodies of Helen Heidinger, 21, and her mother, Mrs. Eugenia Prowant, 48, were found here, revealing what officers said was the slaying of the girl on her wedding day by the mother, who then took her own life.

E. G. Prowant, stepfather of the young woman, said his wife had opposed the marriage of Miss Heidinger to Earl Penna and also had been in ill health for several weeks.

George Bostwick, deputy coroner, said Mrs. Prowant had evidently placed the pistol close to the sleeping girl's head as she pulled the trigger, since the girl's temple was powder-burned.

Reconstructing further, the coroner said Mrs. Prowant had then apparently laid down on the second bed in the room and shot herself. He said no inquest would be held.

Free Milk Given To Needy Pupils

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 15.—Two hundred and fifty needy pupils in elementary schools will be provided free milk daily, beginning today, it was announced by the Board of Education. Others will pay three cents for each half-pint served during recess periods. Beginning January 5, following the Christmas vacation, soup will be served at noon to high school students.

CIVIC CLUB ASKS UTILITIES LAW CHANGES

Reduction of State Board To 5 or 3 Members Urged; Would Extend Authority

Active support of the widespread demand for changes in state laws regulating public utilities and the Public Service Commission was being prepared today by the Civic Club of Allegheny County.

Reduction in the number of commissioners from seven to five, or possibly three, sitting continuously at Harrisburg while examiners would take testimony, is among recommendations adopted by the club's directors. The recommendations made by the club's committee on revision of the public service laws, included four pledges to support plans for changing the present commission's powers and staff.

These pledges were: First, to recommend legislation increasing the commission's appropriation to permit enlarging the staff; second, extending the commission's accounting authority to provide power to control depreciation charges, to suspend accounting entries and to place upon the utilities the burden of proof to justify any suspended entry; third, giving the commission supervision over contracts and transactions between utilities and affiliated corporations amd placing upon the utility the burden of proof of fairness of any such contract or transaction as may be questioned; and, fourth authorizing the commission to determine in a single procedure the reasonableness of a rate and the amount of reparations due as a result of the payment of an unreasonable or discriminatory rate, amd making the refund of such reparations, wherever practical, automatic.

The club's report was drawn up by Chairman C. Elmer Bown, William A. Magee, Charles A. Finley and Maurice R. Scharff.

REFORM HOME OPENS DRIVE

A contribution, whether large or small, and fixed by the donor himself, is the only requirement for enrolling in the annual membership effort of the Parting of the Ways Home, 216 East Stockton avenue, North Side, which is now being conducted.

Funds contributed in this manner are placed in the operating and maintenance fund and are to be used to carry on the reformative activities among released prisoners during 1931, officials of the organization said.

Since its establishment here 16 years ago, the home has received 14,177 men. All of these have been assisted, without charge to them, from one to three weeks. They have been fed, lodged, clothed and maintained in the home until they have received their first pay envelopes from positions, in most cases procured for them by the home.

Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind ..... Roger Quilter

The Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association presented Heinrich Schlusnus, baritone, in recital last night. The large audience responded at once to the noble singing of this fine artist and to his classic Old-World program.

J. Fred Lissfelt

Schlusnus has had a long career as opera star, but has never neglected his finer musicianship towards singing of concert songs. What he has learned in opera stands him in good stead in broadly interpreting dramatic lieder, but singing with orchestra has robbed him of facility in mezza voce, a more generous use of which would enhance the beauty of his recital. His voice is a large and vibrant baritone of exceptional range and quality, easily produced and given unsparingly.

The Handel air set the spirit of the entire recital, a magnificent song of worship and adoration. Three Schubert songs of contrasting character paved the way to the Biblical songs of Dvorak, the most convincingly religious songs in modern music. Three English songs of Roger Quilter relieved the serious tone of the earlier part of the program.

Schubert's Juengling an der Quelle, given as encore, is more successful in a lighter voice: also the Strauss Traum Durch Die Daemmrung, though Schlusnus made us conscious of their entire musical content. Caro Mio Ben, the bel canto standby, suffered from too much tone, but the impassioned Strauss Heimliche Aufforderung was a mighty climax to an evening of excellent singing.

Franz Rupp played thrilling accompaniments, making his piano sound often like a symphony.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

CAPITAL POLICE KILL 1, SHOOT 1

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—An unidentified man was shot to death and another, who gave the name Walter Morgan, Pittsburgh, was wounded, possibly fatally, as two policemen surprised the pair running through an alley.

The man who was killed, police said, carried a bottle of nitroglycerine and several fuses. Authorities believed he was an out-of-town gangster here for a "job."

The man, calling himself Morgan, said he had been here two weeks, living at a mission house, and had met his companion only two hours before.

The officers, on an automobile patrol, tried to block both ends of the alley, which passed behind several small business establishments. The men ran in opposite directions, and refused to halt, said the policemen.

The name Walter Morgan, given by a man shot in Washington, is believed to be fictitious. Several Pittsburghers by that name were at their homes this morning and had not been out of town.

HORTICULTURAL HEADS NAMED

Next year's officers of the Allegheny County Horticultural Association who will assume duties next month were announced today by Henry L. Eby, director of the Allegheny County Agricultural Extension Association.

F. G. Reiter, of Mars, has been elected president. Other officers are: Vice president, Robert A. Powers, Glenshaw; secretary, Carlos E. Norton, Sewickley; assistant secretary, Edward Shenot, Wexford; treasurer, Samuel Simmons, Mt. Oliver, and directors, James Hunter, Wexford; Christ Haudenshield, Mt. Oliver; E. C. Carter, Jr., Allison Park, and Henry Stein, Woodville.

Liver Diet Wins Scientific Prize

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Dr. George H. Whipple, dean and professor of pathology in the school of medicine and dentistry at the University of Rochester, and Dr. George R. Minot, professor of medicine in the Harvard University medical school, are the first winners of an annual $10,000 magazine prize for scientific achievement.

They discovered that a diet of liver will cure pernicious anaemia by stimulating the formation of red corpuscles in the circulating blood.

Postmaster Named For Uniontown

Cobb Gets Goose Freed in Canada 2 Years Ago

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Ty Cobb had a wild goose today that was sent southward two years ago by his friend Jack Miner at Kingsville, Ont.

The goose, however, was not sent to Cobb. It was simply turned loose with a leghand on which was inscribed the details of its release and a Biblical quotation, "Be not afraid; only believe."

The goose was shot near here by a party of hunters including Jack Rountree, McAlpine Barker, and Charles Pilcher. The nimrods, learning of the friendship between Cobb and Miner, presented the bird to the famous Augustan.

Miner was notified.

TRIAL OF BLIND SLAYER BEGUN

A jury of nine men and three women was selected today in Criminal Court to try Michael Horvath, 49, former East Pittsburgh patrolman, on trial for the murder of his wife, Marie, mother of five, in their Grandview avenue home, August 17.

Horvath, blinded by bullets he fired into his head in an attempt to end his life following the shooting of his wife, was led into court. He is being defended by Attorney G. M. McDonald. Assistant District Attorney B. Meredith Reid is the prosecutor.

HEALTH SEALS EDUCATIONAL

The Christmas health seal sale, according to the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh, has from its very beginning been an educational medium of the utmost significance aside from its practical value in dollars and cents. In selling Christmas seals the league declares it is also selling the idea of prevention first. Through the Christmas seal, either as purchasers or as workers in this selling campaign, thousands of persons throughout the county, it is pointed out, have learned of the nature and prevention of this disease. The sale closes December 24.

The league offers this recapitulation of what Christmas seal money did during the year ending. It helped give free treatment to 87 per cent of the patients in the Tuberculosis League Hospital. It made possible an extensive home nursing service, paid for tuberculosis and general health surveys, and financed free dispensaries.

In the realm of childhood, Christmas seal pennies helped finance open air schools, nutrition clinics or classes. They aided school medical inspection work, made possible free dental clinics and informed children of the value of keeping teeth clean. They sent nurses into the homes of afflicted children to insure carrying out of instructions as to care and prevention.

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

William Pfarr

This is known as the robbery season in police circles. Cold weather, during which thieves like to be well-heeled; the habit of carrying Christmas shopping money around, or having it in the home; pre-Christmas payrolls, and unemployment are some of the reasons for the so-called crime wave. The seasoned policeman takes all this more or less philosophically.

Nevertheless we have gone to pains to extract from Police Lieut. Ed. Arthur advice as to just how one should act when confronted in one's home by a burglar.

The good lieutenant, who works night-turn and thus is more of an authority on burglars than a lieutenant who works day-turn, has pet theories on this subject. In fact, he instructed Mrs. Arthur that if ever she heard a burglar in the house, to pick up the shoe alongside the bed and hurl it through a window. If a shoe is not handy, Arthur concedes that a hair brush will do.

This produces a noise which disturbs the burglar. He doesn't know whether the police are smashing their way in, or whether another burglar is crashing his way out. Consequently, he picks up his things and goes away from there, forgetting his bag of loot.

Arthur realizes that one broken window might not be enough to scare away the intruder, so he advised that immediately after the little woman hurled one shoe, she hide her head under the cover for 15 minutes. If the burglar is still active, then she is to take the second shoe and toss it through another window. This may be hard on one's wardrobe and harder on the windows, but think of the burglar!

* * *

Attorney Kivie Wolfe has an idea which deserves a paragraph. Like others the good counsellor has no appetite for apples, yet he wouldn't mind buying a few here and there as a favor to the apple sellers. What Attorney Wolfe would like to do is step up to an apple seller and hand him 50 cents with these instructions:

"Put 10 apples in a box alongside your own crate and hang a sign over it, 'Free to the hungry.'"

* * *

The young men of a fraternity house near the Pitt campus, arranging for a dance in their house, decorated the place in rustic fashion — corn shocks here, pumpkins there, scarecrows over there. They even dressed up the outside of the house and, if we do say it ourself, they did a grand job.

So grand, in fact, that the next day when E. V. Babcock, the county commissioner, passed by in his automobile, he couldn't resist the temptation to stop, walk into the house and congratulate the students. However, as they saw him approaching they trembled, for they had swiped all the decorations from Mr. Babcock's farm.

* * *

Then there's the story they're telling about the domineering Pittsburgh clubwoman who was touring in Europe.

"What's she doing over there?" somebody asked.

"Probably," replied a critic, "running it."

* * *

Marvin Slone, who tells a story about the man who bought a suit with two pairs of pants and then burned a cigar hole in the coat, has heard so much about the gay 90s that he can hardly wait until he reaches them.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Dec. 15.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

When somebody calls you "names" and there is no truth in it and you know that everybody knows there is no truth in it, you naturally don't pay any attention to it. You just laugh it off. But if what they call you is hitting at the truth and kinder getting you in your weak spot, you start hollering and denouncing at once. Well, last week Mr. Hoover said "The boys in the Senate are playing politics at human expense." Did the boys laugh it off? Not quite so. Figure out the answer your self. Yours, WILL.

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL ARRANGING HER DOLLS, SOME USING CRUTCHES, AS THEY'LL APPEAR AT CARNEGIE HALL FRIDAY

CRIPPLES WILL ENACT PLAY

The Three Bears, Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy, Jack-in-the-Box, and all the dolls of Santa Claus' shops will take part in "The Toy Shop," Christmas musical play to be given December 19, at 8:15 p. m. in Carnegie Music Hall by the Children of the Industrial Home for Crippled Children.

Fifty of the 75 children of the school will take part in the presentation, offered for the last eight years as the children's Christmas gift to their friends. Boys of the school printed the programs, while the girls helped with the costumes.

Miss Frances E. Shirley, superintendent of the home, is directing the production. The musical part of the program is part of the school curriculum, the orchestra and toy symphony orchestra having regular rehearsals.

Miss Margaret A. Frew is principal of the school and the teachers are Miss Ruth Davies, Miss Lois Vinton and Miss Margaret Ward. The children are receiving physiotherapy treatments, but in each case the child's education is carried on during the entire time the child is in the home.

Police Seek Cause Of Aliquippa Fire

Aliquippa police today were investigating the cause of a fire which damaged Morris Brothers Department store, 192 Fifth avenue, early today. Robert Conley, a fireman, sustained a cut on the right hand. Fire Chief C. B. Ransom estimated the loss at $5,000 to the store and $1,000 to the building, which was owned by I Berger.

Armtsrong Tunnels Closed by Repairs

The Armstrong tunnels will be closed tomorrow and traffic will be barred until Thursday morning while workmen repair street car tracks at Second avenue at the end of the Tenth Street Bridge. Traffic between Forbes street and Second avenue will travel through Ross street.

Injuries in Fall Fatal to Man, 67

Injuries suffered December 5 when he fell near his home caused the death yesterday in South Side Hospital of Jacob Weber, 67, of 525 South Tenth street, according to the coroner's report.

S. A. LASSIE NOW FIREMAN

Lassie Julia Mallory, of the New Kensington Salvation Army, is now an honorary member of the New Kensington Fire Department. The fire-fighters recently presented Miss Mallory with a raincoat, boots, overshoes and a cap. For the last 13 years, Miss Mallory had attended every fire in the district to which she was assigned. She also has served at many mine disasters in the state. Miss Mallory has been in New Kensington for four years.

Salvation Army to Furnish 1,100 Dinners

Eleven hundred needy families will order their own Christmas dinners this year as a result of a new plan announced by the Salvation Army. Families this year will receive an order on their grocer for enough food for the entire family at Christmas dinner, Col. C. B. Campbell, army head here, announced tod[ay]. They will then be able to [get] the food they desire, acco[rding] individual tastes, he says.

Homestead Soccer Player in Hospital

Frank O'Hare, 22, of 7111 Monticella street, is in the Homestead Hospital suffering an injured right leg as a result of a soccer football game at the West Field in Homestead yesterday. The youth was hurt when several players fell upon him.

URGES LAKE-SEA RAIL TRUNK LINE

Consolidation of three important railroads in the Pittsburgh district to form a new trunk line connecting the Great Lakes and northwestern points with tidewater at Baltimore is approved by Prof. Howard C. Kidd, of the University of Pittsburgh. He named the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, the Western Maryland and Wheeling and Lake Erie lines to form the group.

The most important of rail consolidations from a state-wide standpoint, he pointed out, are those of the Reading and the Central of New Jersey with the Baltimore & Ohio; the Lehigh Valley with the proposed Wabash system; the Delaware and Hudson with the Boston and Maine, and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western with the Chesapeake and Ohio.

The proposed 1,400-mile trunk line from the West through Pittsburgh to tidewater, with terminals here, in Cleveland, Toledo and Baltimore, would include the Pittsburgh and West Virginia's new 38-mile extension from Cochran's Mills to Connellsville, connecting at the latter point with the Western Maryland.

Golden Rule Drive For Funds Extended

The local committee of the Golden Rule Foundation today was ready to extend until Christmas the Golden Rule Week, during which time contributions can be made for the foundation's welfare work among children. John W Chalfant, of the Colonial Trust Company, is local treasurer. A letter stressing the importance of a continued drive for contributions was received here by local officers.

DOGS ATTACK CHILD, 5

Lois Hunt, 5, of 1535 Compromise street, was treated in Allegheny General Hospital yesterday for injuries as a result of being attacked by two dogs near her home. Police said the dogs belonged to Edward Sohn, of 1505 Compromise street. They were given into keeping of the Animal Rescue League for observation.

Christmas Gifts Among Loot Of Burglars

When the family of Ernest W Heldt, 314 Quincy avenue, Mt. Oliver, visited relatives last night, thieves entered the home and stole clothing and jewelry valued at $700, according to the borough police.

The housebreakers took practically everything owned by Heldt, not even leaving him a tie to wear. Christmas gifts which had been ready for mailing were taken.

In Heldt's suit, the thieves will find a diamond ring valued at $175. Other valuables included a $700 brooch, watches and jewelry.

$5,000,000 TAX CLAIM HEARD

Hearing on action brought by J. H. Hillman & Sons' Company to secure a rebate of approximately $5,000,000 from the government was opened today in the Federal Building by Commissioner John A. Ellmore, of the United States Court of Claims.

The company asks $3,500,000 paid in income taxes for 22 affiliated concerns and subsidiaries in 1920, together with interest.

Maj. Charles R. Pollard, special assistant to the attorney general, representing the government, contends that the suit should have been brought by the 22 corporations.

Thomas Walton and John G. Buchanan appeared as attorneys for the Hillman company. The hearing will be continued tomorrow.

Advertising Expert To Talk on Markets

Frank E. Watts, of New York and Chicago, will address members of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club in the William Penn Hotel at noon tomorrow. He will discuss "Markets in Transition." William C. Arthur, an instructor in advertising at the University of Pittsburgh, has been chosen by the executive committee to succeed Fred Weston as vice president of the club.

Man Takes Poison, Condition Serious

As a result of an alleged suicide attempt, Philip Guicone, 24, of 2824 Preble avenue, was in St John's Hospital in a serious condition today. Police said he swallowed poison in his home last night. No motive could be ascribed by police.

PLAN AUTOPSY IN DEATH

The body of Douglas H. Withers, Negro, 38, of 1133 River avenue, Braddock, was returned from a Braddock undertaking establishment to the county morgue for an autopsy yesterday, after Braddock police had announced that they were making an investigation into his death. The body was found in a backwater sewer near a mill along the Monongahela River at North Braddock Saturday.

Withers was last seen Thanksgiving when he attended a party. Police say he was intoxicated and taken home by William Glenn, 37, a Negro, of 1116 Washington avenue, Braddock, and another Negro. Police are holding Glenn and searching for the other man and a cab driver who drove them from the party.

Wilkes-Barre Claims Two in Auto Theft

Wilkes-Barre police today will return to that city two men arrested in an alleged stolen automobile by Port Vue police Saturday. Charles Stevenson, 45, no home, and John Inanerick, 24, formerly of McKeesport, are being held after, police say, they were found riding in a machine owned by Arthur R. Powell, 196 James street, Kingston, Luzerne County. The automobile, according to the police, was stolen from Wilkes-Barre last week.

Road Laborer Hurt, Auto Driver Held

A man believed to be Luigi Tullio, 35, of 188 Violet street, was seriously hurt today when he was struck by an automobile driven by Francis Reno, 21, of 2048 Brownsville road, while he was repairing the roadway in the 800 block in the Becks Run road.

He is in South Side Hospital with a fracture of the skull. Reno is being held in $1,000 bail.

Park Holds Boy Banditry Due Chiefly to Thrills

Ninety per cent of defendants charged with crimes of violence range from 16 to 22 years of age, District Attorney Andrew T. Park declared in an address in the Fourth United Presbyterian Church, North Side, last night. He spoke from the pulpit occupied by his father, the late Dr Thomas A. Park, for 20 years.

Asserting that crime in the United States has increased steadily since 1900, he said that hardly a day passes without one or more instances of boys being sentenced to 20 or more years in the penitentiary. He said in part:

"Neither the World War nor prohibition, which have been advanced as reasons for an increase in crime, is responsible for this conditon. Seventy-five per cent of the holdups in Allegheny County are by boys seeking a thrill. This situation can be checked by advanced home training, proper overseeing of the recreations of youth and teaching of honesty.

"We must spend more money on playgrounds, and we will save it in Criminal Court. We must teach ourselves, and afterward our children, to stop to think before we do things."

PAIR REPEAT DRUG STORE HOLDUP

Return to Loot Same Place They Visited Month Ago; Rob Pedestrians, Homes

Special details of police failed to check the tide of crime which continued over the week-end with an unsolved bank robbery and a series of holdups and robberies in various sections of the city.

For the second time within a month the same bandit pair visited the drug store of James J. Klavon, at 2901 Penn avenue, last night. Klavon, his wife and his sister-in-law, Miss Victoria Sienowicz, were held at bay while the two cash registers were looted of $114.67. Klavon's attempt to pursue the bandits as they fled in an automobile was halted when they opened fire on him and several other men who joined in the chase.

Two men who attempted to hold up the store of Marie Glock, of 261 Juniata street, fled without loot last night when a customer screamed.

Another holdup attempt which failed occurred in the real estate office of Andrew Kazmierski, at 335 Hancock street. Two armed men who walked into the place Saturday night were frightened when a woman who lives over the office knocked on the floor, police said.

PEDESTRIAN ROBBED

Walking near his home, Frank Smith, of 1422 Liverpool street, was accosted by a holdup man and robbed of $6 early yesterday.

Two men held up Raymond Ingram, of 814 North Negley avenue, at Stanton and Euclid avenues, and robbed him of $7. They escaped in an automobile.

Carl Genco, of 7631 Frankstown avenue, was accosted by two armed men at Frankstown and Hamilton avenues and robbed of $108. At Third avenue and Grant street, T. J. Phillips, of 302 Third avenue, Aliquippa, was robbed of $45 by two Negroes.

HOUSE LOOTED

The side window of the home of John Kettel, at 4003 Brighton road, was jimmied and clothing valued at $500 stolen.

The theft of jewelry valued at $350 was reported from the home of Hattie Bergman, at 3731 East street. A rear window of the home of Mrs. Cora Lowe, at 12 Alluvian street, was jimmied and a banjo valued at $125 stolen. Thieves who entered the store of Leonard Adams, at 4903 Butler street, stole razors valued at $25.

PICKPOCKETS ACTIVE

Pickpockets robbed Howard Willman, of Castle Shannon, of $15 and Isaac Farrow, of Verona, of $8 while they were riding on street cars Saturday night.

State police from Butler barracks today were searching for two men who attacked William Dawson, 81, Culmerville, and robbed him of $65. Dawson was beaten when he opened the front door of his home in answer to a knock, police said.

State Highway patrolmen from Parnassus barracks were searching for a man believed injured seriously in an attempt to rob Floyd Spence, of 60 Garfield street, Natrona. Two masked men stepped from ambush as Spence was driving his car up Spring Hill late last night, and demanded that he stop. Instead, Spence said he stepped on the gas, his car knocking one of the men down. The other fired two shots at Spence both going wild.

HIGH PUPILS AID NEEDY

Many children of poor families will be made happy this Christmas through the efforts of the students of the West View Junior High School. Members of the Industrial Arts Club of the school are painting and renewing a number of toys daily which are furnished them by the Junior Red Cross. The club has 18 members who are under the direction of Nelson Tiffany, shop instructor.

TRIANGLE FIRE HALTS TRAFFIC

Traffic in Smithfield street was halted yesterday afternoon while firemen battled a blaze in the basement of the Linton Trunk and Baggage Company, at 628 Smithfield street.

Dense clouds of smoke forced firemen to don gas masks to reach the flames. The blaze, confined to the basement, resulted in $1,500 damage, firemen said.

The fruit store of Frank Lotta, at 6467 Frankstown avenue, was damaged to the extent of $1,000 by fire said to have been caused by an overheated stove.

IRON STEAMER PUT INTO USE

The rebuilt steamer Alicia, of the Monessen Coal and Coke Company, will be put into operation on local rivers here this week. This will be the first iron boat to operate here within 25 years.

The boat has been rebuilt with an iron bottom. The metal bottom was given extensive tests and it was claimed that the plates will withstand the action of the acid in the river longer than the steel plates.

Flames Threaten Bellevue District

Half a dozen stores, a bowling alley and a theater were filled with smoke, which forced customers and employes to the street, shortly before noon today when fire broke out in the Community Store, Inc., in the Bellevue Theater Building, Lincoln avenue, Bellevue. Bellevue police said the fire started in a waste paper basket. Radios and musical supplies in the store were reported damaged.

STORE OFFICIAL HITS CITY VICE

Vice and political corruption were laid at the door of the ward chairman today by Col. Clarence O. Sherrill in a review of his four years and a half as city manager of Cincinnati.

Col. Sherrill, now vice president of the Kroger Grocery Company, spoke at the weekly noon meeting of the Hungry Club. Later in the day he was to preside at a conference of civic leaders of the city for a discussion of the unemployment situation.

Of corruption and vice, he declared:

"Organized disrespect for law, bootlegging, hijacking, racketeering, gambling, organized burglary, robbery, kidnaping, political corruption of judges and police executives, every one of these crimes perpetrated by organized gangs, with the connivance and support of unscrupulous politicians are born, bred and thrive on the rottenness of politically dominated local governments."

Salvation from politically controlled vice, he declared, can be accomplished by the adoption of the city manager form of government with elections by proportional representation with the continuous sponsorship and backing of a volunteer body of decent citizens, willing to fight and perpetuate good government.

Apropos to the nation-wide business depression, Col. Sherrill said it was his belief that an uptrend was at hand. He pointed significantly to reports compiled by the Kroger Company for the last three months in substantiation of his claims, declaring that the volume of sales had increased materially during this period, particularly in the Pittsburgh district.

Court Annuls 'Joke' Marriage in Mexico

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—The "joke marriage" of Elaine Hammond Grammp to Henry Grammp, Jr., National League baseball player, at Tia Juana, Mex., last April, today had been annulled by the court.

J. V. Taylor, asserted deputy sheriff, testified he performed the ceremony as a "joke."

THREE ATTACKS CONFESSED

Admitting attempted attacks on three women in Squirrel Hill early yesterday, John Mikolajozk, 21, of 732 Washington avenue, Braddock, was being held today in the East End Police Station on a suspicious person charge, police said.

Arrested at Forbes and Wightman streets when he was unable to explain how he got an automobile robe he was carrying, Mikolajozk, admittted, police reported, that he attempted to attack the women.

One of his victims, according to police, was Miss Mary Coyne, a domestic in the home of R. B. Mellon, at 6500 Fifth avenue. The identities of the other two women were not learned by police. Mikolajozk was held for further investigation at a hearing in the East End Police Court.

HEART ATTACK KILLS OFFICER

A few hours after he left his work on account of illness, Wagonman Joseph L. Richards, 67, reporting at the Woods Run Station, died at his home, 1412 Buena Vista street, North Side, early today. Heart trouble was given as the cause of his death.

He was born in the First Ward, old Allegheny, and had lived in that section all his life. He had been a member of the police department 24 years, and was an active member of the Fraternal Order of Police.

Besides his widow he leaves a son, William S. Richards; a daughter, Mrs. Olive R. Lightcap; two brothers, Richard and William Richards, and two sisters, Mrs. Charles Walfendale and Mrs. J. R. Martin, all of Pittsburgh.

COMPANY SAYS WATER IS SAFE

That the water flowing into the homes and plants served by the Pennsylvania Water Company may have an unpleasant taste, but is entirely safe from a sanitary viewpoint, was explained today in an announcement from the company.

Declaring that the color and unpleasant taste was due to the drouth and would end when rains filled the streams, the statement said:

"We assure our patrons that with the exception of taste and odor, it is of the usual high standard of purity."

Boy Held for Court In Robbery Attempt

Accused of being one of three who attacked and attempted to rob two East End women, James Washington, 16, Negro, of 160 Mayflower street, was held for court on an assault with attempt to rob charge in Morals Court.

Pittsburgh Garage Owner Disappears

The Missing Persons Bureau has been asked to search for William Eyeman who has been missing from his home, 1101 Brookline boulevard, since yesterday afternoon when he started to the Triple Service garage, 3283 West Liberty avenue, of which he is proprietor. He is a World War veteran. His wife fears he might be suffering from amnesia. When last seen he was wearing a gray hat, blue suit, black leather overcoat and gray socks.

2 Men, Woman Held On Charges by Child

Charles Herman, 27, of 1429 Woods Run avenue; John Murphy, 19, of 59 McClure way, and Mrs. Marie Williams, 22, of 1427 Hoffman street, were held for court today after a hearing in Morals Court. The charges were made by a 14-year-old girl, whose name the Sun-Telegraph will not publish because of her age.

To The Patrons Of The Pennsylvania Water Co.

The color and unpleasant taste of the water supplied for a few days are not caused by anything which the Water Company has put into the water.

Due to the unprecedented drought of the past six months, little or no water has been flowing in the tributary streams of the Allegheny River for some time. The recent light rains have flushed out the pools in these streams, but have not been of sufficient volume to dilute or carry off the contents of the pools. The results have been made worse, probably, by the discharge into the Allegheny of the black water which has accumulated on the Clarion River. The condition is general along the Allegheny and other streams in Western Pennsylvania and our plant is one of several that are having the same trouble.

We regret that the character of the water supplied to our consumers should not be satisfactory, but we can assume them that, with the exception of the taste and odor, it is of the usual high standard of purity, that is, it contains no disease producing germs and is entirely safe from a sanitary standpoint.

We are doing everything we can to remove the taste from the water. The quality of the water in the river has improved within the last three days and the taste reduced correspondingly. We hope that it will soon be entirely removed. However, until rain has brought about more nearly normal conditions in the rivers and streams flowing into it, there may be some taste or odor in the water at times. We can only promise that our purification plant will be operated with the utmost care, under expert advice for the purpose of producing the best water possible.

MR. AND MRS. LEWIS BROWNE, NEWLYWEDS OF A WEEK, PICTURED IN PITTSBURGH TODAY

Companionate Marriage Mere Remedy, Not Ideal, Says Newlywed Author

Dr. Lewis Browne, leading Jewish writer and lecturer, believes that the companionate marriage idea is a remedy for what he terms a bad condition, and is not an ideal.

A bridegroom of a week, he and Mrs. Browne arrived at the William Penn Hotel today. He will lecture tomorrow night at the Y. M. & W. H. A., Bellefield avenue. He said:

"Morals are so bad and so little thought is given marriage today, that remedies are bound to spring up. But these remedies are not necessarily ideals. Companionate marriage may be all right as a remedy. It certainly is not an ideal, and Judge Lindsey rushes it too fast.

"Two young people meet. In a minute, it's bingo. They're married. In a month or so they are disappointed, dissatisfied. They seek ways out and eventually find divorce.

"Easy divorce is a remedy. I believe in easy divorces. But marriage should be an ideal where sufficient thought and consideration precedes it."

Dr. Browne believes that the Jew will be always a Jew—until there are no non-Jews. He continued:

"Scientists have tried to find out what the Jew is, and have been unable to catalogue him as a race, a religion, a stature, or a physique. There is no such thing as the Jewish nose, because Jews don't as a people have long noses. The Jew is just a class that through centuries of oppression have become as they are. They will remain so until there is no one to ostracize them."

RECTOR SCORES MANNING

Bishop William T. Manning, of the Episcopal diocese at New York, was taken to task for his attitude toward Judge Ben Lindsey, in a sermon delivered by the Rev. Dr. Waldo Amos in St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Oakland, yesterday morning.

Discussing the riotous scene a week ago yesterday when Judge Lindsey was expelled from the Cathedral of St. John the Divine for his attempt to answer Bishop Manning, Dr. Amos said:

"So far as I am personally concerned, I think that, had I been the bishop, I should have given the privilege of the floor to Judge Lindsey and let him hold forth to his heart's content. I should feel it a pleasant relief that somebody was interested in what I had been attempting to say and I should probably fall upon his neck and weep tears of gratitude."

As a practical solution for the marriage problem, Dr. Amos advocates the promotion of economic conditions among women so girls will not marry for a "meal ticket," and the reinterpretation of the word romance so that it would signify love for interests such as music and literature, instead of sex attraction.

SEVEN OTHERS IN MELEE FREED

Battle Was Aftermath of Rivals Holding Election; Many Reported Injured

Ten men, including four Negroes, and one woman, were fined $10 each, with the alternative of 10 days in jail, by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Center Avenue Police Station, today, as a result of rioting at a shareholders' meeting in the Labor Lyceum, 35 Miller street, last night. Seven others were discharged.

Mrs. Rae Singer, 2272 Tilbury street, secretary of the lyceum, testified she and her husband were seized by several men and thrust into a room after her purse was stolen. They were released when police arrived.

Those arrested said they represented the Young People's League and were entitled to hear what was going on, but that the doors were barred until they broke in.

Samuel Ostry, 6325 Waldron street, who presided, testified he had never heard of the league.

The shareholders met, Police Capt. John H. Schnurr said, to elect officers for the year. They were divided into two factions, the Socialist and Communist, with the former party in the majority, according to police.

Lack of order prompted the chairman to motion for adjournment, and when this was done, police said, several persons identified as Communists, made an attempt to seize the records of the Lyceum. Many were reported cut and bruised in the free-for-all that followed and was halted by police.

NEEDLE SHOWS RAIL DEFECTS

An electric needle has become the official inspector of rails for the Pennsylvania Railroad, and on it the company's engineers rely to discover defects that are potential breaks. The needle is part of the Sperry rail fissure detector which, in a specially equipped car, arrived in the Pennsylvania station here after picking out the flaws along the way.

C. W. Loos, operator of the apparatus, explained that brushes running against the rails set up an electrical field, which, through delicate mechanism, vibrates the needle marking a straight line on a graph. If a defect is found, the needle jags sideways, marking the spot where a break in the rail may be imminent. Making a scientific report, it permits a reliable replacement program to be drawn up in advance.

Women On the Job

Housewives know what to do with left-over food. They encourage their families to eat it up. That's plain common sense. But you couldn't expect men to think of anything so simple as that.

Take the wheat surplus, for instance. All the trouble men are making such a fuss over amounts to this: There's too much wheat in the country. More than enough to go around. Farmers can't sell all their wheat. Yet many of them depend on it for a living.

Any woman can tell you that the way to get rid of too much wheat is to encourage the people to eat it up. An extra slice of bread for all each meal would soon do it. If your families won't eat an extra slice—just cut it a little thicker. Or try macaroni or noodles—anything full of wheat. Whether you buy wheat products from A&P or not, feed your families lots of wheat. It's good for them.

What this country needs is a good housekeeper.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Aunt to Give Luncheon For Marianna and Adele Lippincott

Of course among the many notably interesting events of the Yuletide will be the debuts of girls home from school and college.

Among the holiday debut parties will be a luncheon Miss Emily Lippincott will give in the Lippincott home in Sewickley in honor of her nieces, Adele and Marianna Lippincott, daughters of James Lippincott, on December 27. Adele and Marianna will be home this week from the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts.

Mary Magee, daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Magee, of Sewickley, will arrive from Smith on Friday, and will attend debutante events. Plans for her debut are not yet arranged.

From the East comes news of an engagement of much interest here. The DeWitt Pages, of Bristol, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Nan, to E. Sargent Hoopes, Jr., son of the Eugene S. Hoopeses, of Beaver, Pa. Nan is a graduate of Dana Hall, Wellesley, Mass., and the Finch School in New York. Her fiance is a graduate of the Pennsylvania Military College and the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

School parties galore will delight the younger folks home from school for a gay fortnight. Elizabeth Herbst Dunsford, daughter of the Jan R. Dunsfords, of Edgeworth, will give a tea Saturday afternoon for the school set in her home.

On December 29 Miss Mary-Wells Van Pelt will give a luncheon in the Community Kitchen, Sewickley, for the school set. Mary-Wells, who's the daughter of the Randall Turner Van Pelts, of Sewickley, is studying at the Shipley School, Bryn Mawr.

* * *

Another party on Saturday will be a dinner-dance the D. B. Framptons, of South Linden avenue, will give in the Longue Vue Country Club for their daughter, Frances, who is a student at Thurston. The following Tuesday, a week from tomorrow, the P. B. Mossmans and their daughter Helen will entertain the Thurston School senior class with a supper dance in the Longue Vue Country Club preceding the class prom. Helen is president of the class.

School Parties

The day after Christmas Mrs. John H. Wilson will give a buffet luncheon at Longue Vue for her sister, Gretchen Lappe, daughter of Mrs. Charles B. Lappe, of Northumberland street.

* * *

Mrs. Walter Kinney gave a luncheon in the Glenwood Mission Inn, Riverside, Cal., recently, in honor of her sister, Miss Georgia Lewis, to announce her engagement to George Fulton Hartman, of Pittsburgh, who is the son of the late Dr. John Albert Hartman and Mrs. Hartman, of Latrobe.

Announces Betrothal

Miss Lewis attended the Mills School for Girls and was graduated from Leland Stanford University and later studied art in New York, Paris and London. Her fiance attended Mercersburg Academy and Lehigh University.

The wedding will take place in California soon after the holidays.

ECONOMIC CLUB VOTES REPEAL

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The National Economic League, which includes in its membership George W. Wickersham, chairman of the law-enforcement commission, has voted for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, J. W. Bratson, its executive secretary, announced last night.

The league includes 5,500 of the country's most prominent men, formed to educate and crystallize public opinion on outstanding issues of the day.

In 1926 52 per cent of those participating in a poll of its members voted against repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. In this year's poll, Bratson said, 55 per cent favored repeal. A total of 2,833 votes were cast.

ITALIANS DELAY OCEAN HOP

ORBETELLO, Italy, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Adverse weather today forced postponement of the start of 12 Italian seaplanes on a flight to Cartagena, Spain, first lap of a trans-Atlantic flight to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

The postponement, announced at midnight, is until tomorrow or Wednesday, depending upon improvement of flying conditions over the Mediterranean Sea. There still was heavy wind and rain here today.

The 12 seaplanes will fly in three squadrons, Gen. Italo Balbo in command of the first group.

Route of the flight will be along the Mediterranean and African coast to Bolma, Portuguese Guinea, from where the trans-Atlantic part of the flight, to Port Natal, Brazil, will be attempted.

TRAINMEN GIVE JOBS TO IDLE

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Railroad trainmen and switchmen representing six lines in Spokane voted today to share their work with the jobless.

Trainmen agreed to surrender work up to 1,000 miles a month, depending on the length of their runs, and switchmen gave four days a month. The trainmen stipulated, however, that they would surrender work only after they had run a minimum of 3,300 or a maximum of 3,600 miles.

The work will be given seniority holders on the extra list, according to their ranking.

Lingle's Widow Files Death Claim

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—The Illinois Industrial Commission today had on file a claim for compensation filed by Mrs. Helen Sullivan Lingle, widow of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, murdered reporter of the Chicago Tribune.

Contending her husband was killed in the line of duty, Mrs. Lingle's claim asks for full compensation of $4,250, the maximum allowed under the workmen's compensation act.

Erie Fire Drives Many From Homes

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—In biting wind that howled in from the lake, firemen battled for hours early today to extinguish a fire which broke out in the Jerry Fisk lumber yard, destroyed a large supply of lumber, damaged three homes and several garages and forced more than a score of people into the streets.

Fire department officials estimated the damage at $75,000. Frank Burrier, blind, was rescued by firemen.

Suicides at Hospital Find Patient Shot

BALTIMORE, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Entering down the locked door of a hospital bathroom attendants found John H. Manzetta, 45, of Greensboro, N. C., with a bullet wound in the head. A revolver was lying on the floor.

Manzetta had been treated for nervous disorders. It was not known how the revolver came into his possession.

Talkies in English Lure Colombians

BOGOTA, Colombia, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Native curiosity is helping the Anglo-American colony in its amusement. Once a week a sound film in English is an attraction at the theater. American and English patrons are few, compared with the capacity, but Colombians make sure that the management loses nothing.

THEATER PARTY FOR TEMPLARS

Members of the Duquesne Commandery No. 72, Knights Templar, and their guests will attend the showing of John Drinkwater's "Bud in Hand" at the Shubert Alvin Theater tonight. George O. Adams is chairman of the entertainment committee in charge of the benefit party.

Other members of the entertainment committee are John S. Fleck, George O. Blashford, William Stitzell, August F. Earnest and Samuel F. Lehman. Knights Templar desiring to join tonight's party, according to Adams, may purchase tickets today at the Alvin box office, the private sale having been concluded.

Plot Relief Plan For Jobless Doctors

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—If it doesn't pay to be sick in Chicago, at least it won't cost so much when the "United Medical Service" puts its plan into effect.

Leaders among Chicago physicians have organized a corporation to "furnish all necessary medical service to the low income group within their ability to pay." Dr. Charles R. Wiley, president of the Northwest branch of the Chicago Medical Society, is its head. He proposes to "better the lot of Chicago physicians by bringing them increased activity at a fair return from thousands of undertreated patients, and those seeking self-cures."

ELECTION COST FILING CHANGED

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 15.—State Senator C. W. Parkinson, of Waynesburg, representing the district composed of Washington and Greene counties, has announced that his expense account for the recent election was filed in Greene County early this month. He holds it is not necessary to file in both counties in the district. He spent less than $50 to gain re-election.

Attorney George I. Bloom, secretary of the Washington County Republican Committee, said the County Committee had departed from the custom of filing reports of money expended for state candidates in the county, upon advice that the proper place for filing such reports was with the secretary of commonwealth. This was done.

GENEROUS GIFT OF TOYS SEEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A generous supply of Christmas toys for American children has been forecast by the Commerce Department.

Taking note of the business depression, the department said it might result in gifts of a "More utilitarian color" for grownups, but that—

"As a nation, Americans seem prone to insure the health and happiness of their youngsters, and even where very definite sacrifices on the part of parents are involved the strained family budget will include expenditures for toys."

The toy industry was said to have "Felt the general slowing up of business activity but has suffered less than some other industrial fields."

Press Club Plans Yule Dinner

The Women's Press Club willl have its Christmas dinner Saturday evening in the Roosevelt Hotel. The committee in charge is headed by Miss Anna Belle Craig, who is accepting reservations. Assisting are Miss Mary L. Hay, president of the club; Miss Marie Kloss, Mrs. John A. Shoemaker, Mrs. Albert J. Dawson, Miss Catherine M. Patterson, Mrs. Charles M. Bregg and Mrs. Joseph Collins. According to custom, the members will bring gifts for the Toy Mission.

* * *

On Wednesday the Forum will have its usual Christmas party at the Congress of Clubs in charge of the social committee headed by Mrs. Harry D. Adams and the music committee under Mrs. Carl Ruhe.

Forum's Party

* * *

More than 100 children will be present at the Christmas party to be given Wednesday evening by Degree of Honor Protective Association in Malta Hall, Sheridan avenue. Mrs. Lena Riesmeyer, and Mrs. Mamie McClure have made gifts for the young guests.

* * *

Preceding the semi-monthly meeting of the study class the Woman's Alliance of the First Unitarian Church will hold a Christmas devotional service on Wednesday morning. Mrs. George Pearson will lead it. Later Miss Susan M. Boyd will speak on the Washington child welfare conference and Mrs. R. W. Robertson will discuss current art events.

Yule Service

MILLINER PRESENTS NEW MODE IN HATS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—Our heads are black and blue these days, for these colors are to be found on all the best hats. Hats of black felt or velvet, however smart the shape, do not consider themselves perfect or complete until there is added a trifle of blue in the form, usually, of velvet ribbon. Twists of cerulean-hued ribbon, clever ruchings or appliqued motifs, all find themselves indispensible trimming for the black hat. Sapphire blue and turquoise blue are the most in favor, as their lovely jewel tones are particularly set off by black. Felt is more than holding its own this season despite the determined attack of velvet to become the leading millinery fabric. Black felt hats are both smart and practical and when combined with bright velvet ribbon, a dressy look is easily acquired by even the simplest chapeau. Hat shapes range all the way from the right little skull-hugging cap to the cartwheel variety. Tricornes and bicornes are of the mode and the small brim is also very much liked. If variety is the spice of millinery, then the mode should be extremely well seasoned this season.

* * *

AGNES IS RESPONSIBLE for both of the delightful and pleasant hats sketched for this paper at her lovely establishment. The first of the duo is of black felt and is trimmed with a twist of turquoise blue ribbon which passes around the crown and over the rolled back brim at the side front. The silhouette of this model, as will be seen from the sketch, is quite dashing and exceedingly smart and has the additional virtue of being most becoming to almost every type.

* * *

THE OTHER SKETCH shows a quaint little cap of black silk jersey with a velvet ruching in pale blue framing the hair and face. The jersey is supple and soft and clings tightly to the head. This model is worn well off the forehead and is very youthful, but not youthifying.

VETS DEMAND CASH FOR PAPER

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(Universal)—One hundred veterans of the World War gathered in Union Square Sunday afternoon to demand immediate payment of all veterans' adjusted compensation certificates.

For the government to do that now would require a bond issue of about $3,000,000,000, as the certificates are not due until 1945, Thomas L. Hill, of the committee of 13 of American World War Veterans, said:

"Many veterans are starving now. Their families are in dire want. If they receive their insurance now it will help them through this depression. If they wait 15 years they may not be here to enjoy benefits of insurance. They gave without stint in 1917. They should be helped now."

R. Noble Bixby, another speaker, declared a "racket" has developed around attempts of veterans to borrow money on their policies. He objected to veterans being required to pay notary fees on loan petitions.

JOHNSON HITS LEAGUE COURT TRADE PLEA

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—Senator Hiram W. Johnson has replied to a statement recently made by Mark L. Requa, of San Francisco, on the League Court, in which Requa criticized the senior senator from California in his opposition to the project. Referring to Requa as "the political spokesman for the President in California," Senator Johnson, in Washington, sent the following article to the San Francisco Examiner:

By SENATOR HIRAM W. JOHNSON.

Mark Requa, political spokesman for the President in California, indulges in some bizarre observations on the League of Nations court. He asserts that I show an ignorance of government fundamentals, but he demonstrates his own knowledge and vision by asserting we must join the court to obtain the maximum of prosperity, and that California is interested particularly because by joining our trade with the Orient will be greatly enhanced.

TRADE FOLLOWED WAR

This is the sort of clotted nonsense so often heard from court advocates. It was after the Great War that our trade with the Orient increased by leaps and bounds.

It was after the Great War that our maritime commerce for the first time in the history of the world challenged the sea trade supremacy of Great Britain.

We were neither a part of the League of Nations nor a member of the league court while our world trade was expanding to its present tremendous proportions. We reached our pre-eminence while pursuing our own American national policy.

URGES PRESERVATION

The pretense that joining the League of Nations Court would enhance our trade with the Orient or with any nation is a mere grotesque phase of a diseased internationalism.

So profound and unique is the thought of Mr. Requa that it should be carved in stone and wrought in bronze for our political economists and all our people, who thus may preserve in wonder and admiration for future generations this lucid expression of "governmental fundamentals."

Child Dies in Auto Crash, Another Hurt

COATESVILLE, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Darlene Johnson, 4, was killed in an automobile accident near here last night. As the driver of the car in which the little girl was riding turned out to avoid hitting a machine in front, which had stopped suddenly, he crashed head-on into an automobile coming in the opposite direction. Six other persons in the two cars were taken to hospitals, but only one, Peggy Phillips, 4, was believed seriously injured.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Is It Right for Married Women to Work?

Are married women people?

And should they be allowed to work . . . at the kind of work they like—

Or should they be kept in the kitchen, whether they want to stay there or not?

Elnora, being single, was all for cooping them up. And Patty agreed with her. "When they don't stay at home, they ruin their husbands' lives and gyp single girls out of a living!" they cried, gnashing their teeth. But Hilda thinks that idea is just plain goofy.

Listen in while she hands the croakers a wallop.

"Dear Miss Martin:

"After reading those letters from Patty and Elnora, against the married women who work, I have come to the conclusion that the real issue of contention is not that these women don't stay at home, but that they do the kind of work they do.

Thinks Idea Is Absurd

"Nobody seems to object if some wife wants to take in washing—or scrub floors. They don't even object if she owns her own business, acts in the movies, or sings over the radio. But just let that same married woman get into an office or a department store, where she has some chance to get ahead in the world and earn real money, and a whole army of single girls and henny old men are up and howling. Do single girls think they have a monopoly on all the stenographic and clerical jobs? They seem to. How do they get that way?

As for working wives depriving the single girls of their so-called "lawful jobs," the idea is absurd! If the government were to segregate all the women workers into two classes . . . i. e., those who "deserve" or need jobs, and those who don't, a surprising number of single girls would find themselves in the "undeserving" class. I know a lot of girls who spend every penny of their salaries for fancy clothes and amusements . . . And I know of one case where a single girl receives $50 a month from her parents, in addition to her salary of $120 a month. Yet I haven't heard any jobless lady suggesting that she stay at home and "give the others a chance." She could well afford to stay there. Her parents are well off, and could give her more if they wanted to. Isn't this type of girl taking a job away from some needy person, just the same as if she were married? Sure she is! If we are going to fire all the spendthrift and non-self-supporting workers, let's make a good, clean sweep, and not pick on any woman just because she's married.

Men Guilty, Too

"Of course, in times of stringency, I believe that the self-supporting girl should have the preference, if she's efficient. But, after all, the employer is not in the business of charity. He is looking for someone who can do his work efficiently, and with profit to him. He has to. And the task of weeding the needy out from those who have other support would be an impossibility. Any girl can say she is "self-supporting." But who has the time to investigate and find out whether that's true or not? The capable girl, married or single, will get the job.

"And as a matter of fact, if that weren't true, how many really good jobs would any of us women ever get? Men have long contended that they "couldn't give women important positions, because they would run another get them broken in than they'd marry and quit." And being bos, they've made that alibi stick. Women, by keeping on and not quitting after marriage, are beginning to get away from it and get into really worthwhile places in the business world—places that even the men are admitting they can fill, ably and competently, and places that paid them decent money. But you can't blame employers for not making some girl vice president of the company when she may let them down any day to bury herself in some man's kitchen. It takes time, money and trouble to break in new help on important work.

"It's purely a business proposition, and if those single girls, who are so bitter about married workers will just use their heads, they'll see very soon that if "there was a law" as they want, keeping all married women home, the opportunities of women, all over, to get important jobs wouldn't be spoiled.

"And if married women workers are keeping men out of work, how about men who have sufficient income to live without working? Aren't they guilty of the same crime? But I haven't heard any hue and cry about firing them yet! Oh, no! They're men! That's different! Well, personally, I think that women are people, too, even if they are wives!

Deserving of Praise

"And all of this fussing about children of working wives 'turning into criminals' is ridiculous, too. Any mother who is willing to work in order to give her children a better education, and cleaner, more up-to-date living quarters, is deserving of praise. If she is a loving mother, and intelligent, she will see that her youngsters are in capable hands while she is away. And if she is not, she will neglect them and raise them foolishly, whether she works or not.

"Self-supporting widows who work and leave their children all day are not branded as 'criminal breeders.' They are respected. Then why shouldn't any conscientious mother be respected also when she works? In wealthy homes a mother doesn't do everything for her children. No one seems to think that is any crime.

"And after all, each one of us is human and has the same right to go after health, wealth and happiness. Some of us are happy at one profession, some at another. Not all women are fit to be housekeepers. Not all women know how to be mothers. And neither are all of them at their best as stenographers or doctors or bookkeepers. I say let each one do the thing she's fitted for, and good luck to her while she's doing it.

"HILDA."

That's a great letter, Hilda, and I'm with you firmly in your fine common sense and tolerance.

And now let's hear from you, Stranger. Are you for Hilda or agin' her? Come on! Let's have your ideas!

Many Men's Success Based on Mothers' Wise Counsel, Fay King Finds

BUT HOWEVER MOTHERS WHO HAVE HAD SUCCESSFUL CAREERS, HAVE HAD SUCCESSFUL SONS
FAY. KING

By FAY KING

It is rather a paradox that all great men had remarkable mothers, yet few women who have had outstanding careers have had brilliant sons.

In reading the lives of men who have made their mark in the world, we find that their mothers were women of character. In spite of poverty and privation, they were good managers of their homes.

In later life many of the successful men admit that in a crisis they have turned to their mothers for counsel and advice.

Yet women who have attained success in careers of their own outside of the home have not given the world sons as important and successful as these other women whose career was marriage and motherhood.

Veritzen Tries to Prevent Son from Attending Party

I put my hand over the mouthpiece of the telephone and beckoned to Mary, who with emotional tears still on her cheeks, was watching me in unmistakable terror.

"Brace up, dear," I whispered. "It's Mr. Veritzen, but don't be afraid. I'll deal with him. Sit down."

She obeyed me, but, her eyes fixed on me, did not lose their terror, and I saw that the dread of what Philip Veritzen might do had become an obsession with her.

Philip Veritzen's voice, suave, but with an undertone of what in another man would have been excitement, came to my ears.

"Mrs. Graham?"

"Yes." I did not make my tone encouraging. If I only could get him off the wire before Dicky came in. Lillian had gone back to her apartment, and I expected Dicky's knock every second. One story of jealous temper on Philip Veritzen's account had been miraculously averted this evening, but I could visualize Dicky's face were he to come into the room and find me in telephonic conversation.

"I must beg a thousand pardons for calling you up at this unreasonable hour," the great producer said next, and I uttered a mental anathema upon the exquisite super-breeding of the man who would waste time indefinitely, as I very well knew. But aloud I only said perfunctorily: "That is perfectly all right, Mr. Veritzen. Is there anything I can do for you?"

"Yes." Unexpectedly his answer was crisp, explicit. "You can tell me what time my son is expected in the city tomorrow. I believe he is coming up to this—party."

"Yes, he is, but I am sorry I cannot tell when."

There was a little silence, and I saw Mary lift her clenched hands and press them tight against her lips.

"Do you mean you will not?" The voice was icy now, controlled, but I had the feeling that any second it might burst into raucous shouting.

"Won't you please not press that question, Mr. Veritzen. You are making it very hard for me to answer you."

Dicky's knock sounded upon the door. I covered the mouthpiece of the receiver again and whispered to Mary, who had darted to my side.

"Answer that. But explain to your uncle that Mr. Veritzen is asking about Noel."

I felt ashamed of the message, but I felt as if anything were preferable to the scene which I might expect were Dicky to misunderstand the situation. As Mary went to the door and I heard her voice in low colloquy with Dicky, Mr. Veritzen spoke again.

"But I must press it, as I must remind you that Noel is my son, and that you——"

He hesitated, and I finished the sentence in tones as icy as his own.

"And that I am in your employ. You need not remind me of that. I am perfectly aware of it, and in anything pertaining to my work I should gladly oblige you, even at any inconvenience to myself. But to give you any information concerning your son's arrival in the city is distinctly outside of my duty as your employe, and I must ask you not to request such information of me."

"You refuse then?"

"Yes, unequivocally."

"I suppose you also refuse to arrange any meeting between my son and myself."

"For a few days, yes. You probably do not know that the boy has had a serious breakdown. He is only just convalescent. Mrs. Bicket, who has been attending him, has said that he needs to be taken out of himself, and that the party would be beneficial to him. But any emotional interview, such as one with you, would undoubtedly be very bad for him. I cannot take the risk. We have been taking care of him while you have been away, and we feel ourselves responsible for him."

"Let me at him!" Dicky whispered truculently behind me, but I shook my head and gestured him back.

"I, of course, cannot compel you to do this," Mr. Veritzen said, his voice suddenly suave again, "and as you do not wish to grant my request I can do nothing else but submit. A lady's wishes—especially yours—cannot be gainsaid. I must try some other means of meeting my son. Good night. Do not forget to let me know about the seats for the theater."

He hung up the receiver quickly, and, snapping mine on the hook, I turned to Dicky, seeing with relief that the anger which filled his eyes was not against me, but against my employer?"

"What was he saying?" Dicky demanded.

"I haven't time to tell you now. But he's planning to meet Noel some way in the morning. Of course, he knows what time the trains arrive from Sag Harbor."

Mary gave a suppressed little shriek and I turned on her angrily.

"Don't you hinder things by a single sound," I told her. "We'll take care of Noel. Dicky, what shall we do?"

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Guest Escort

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. A girl has invited me to her (Prom." Is it proper for me to offer to pay for the tickets? If so, should I insist a few times?

2. When she says that she is paying for the tickets, what should I say?

3. Please tell me what is proper to say when a lady thanks her escort for the entertainment. Also the reply that the gentleman should give.

MERE MAN.

1. No, you should not insist at all on paying for the tickets. This "Prom" party is the girl's party, and she it is who provides the tickets. This is taken for granted, and it is better form for you to follow this custom of taking this for granted. Accept the girl's hospitality graciously. There are many ways, in the future, in which you can "return" this kind invitation.

2. I hope that she won't say that she is paying for the tickets. I hope that she will take them for granted, as she expects you to. In other words, nothing should be said about the tickets, much less as to who pays for them.

3. The reverse form is correct. When a man has invited a woman to go with him to some form of entertainment, he, as they say good-by, thanks her for the pleasure that she has given him by going with him, and she, in turn, tells him what a good time she has had, and thanks him for his hospitality. Then all of the social amenities, for such an occasion, will have been satisfied!

The Written Message

Dear Mrs. Breckman:

Will you please be so kind as to advise me how to have Christmas cards printed? I have an 8-year-old daughter and I wish to have her name included. I am divorced and am anxious to have my cards printed correctly. B. B.

I would like so much to suggest to you that instead of having your Christmas cards engraved, you buy the charming new kind of Christmas card—the double ones with no printing or engraving on them, and on the inside half write the greeting of you and your daughter. This can be made very lovely, and, especially under the circumstances, will be so much more appropriate than having your daughter's name engraved or printed with yours on a card.

Your message that you write might, for instance, be something like this:

Dorothy and I send you dearest Christmas greetings, and all good wishes for your happiness in the New Year.
Mary Allen Browne.

Or you might write the Christmas message, and then your daughter and you might sign your names individually. I think that your friends would so much like this personal touch rather than the formal Christmas greeting card. Don't you? And I am sure that your daughter would love this form of greeting, in which she could take such a personal part.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Regularity in Eating an Aid to Digestion

We may with propriety compare the human body to the automobile. The food we eat is equivalent of the gasoline, and our health corresponds to the efficiency of the running of the car.

DR COPELAND

Of course, good food alone will not insure good health, any more than good gasoline makes a perfect automobile. If the machinery is not perfect, the quality and quantity of the gas make little difference in the efficient running of the car.

The body is a machine capable of converting food into energy. It is more than this. It generates the energy necessary for running the machine. Also it provides a remedy for the wear and tear of the machinery.

Converting food to these uses by the machinery of the body, is spoken of as the process of "digestion and assimilation." Good food and good habits of eating are necessary factors in this process. In their presence the digestive system changes the food into substances available for use in the body.

To accomplish this the digestive system must be in good condition. When we say "good condition," we mean that the intestinal tract must possess muscular tone and be unfailing in its action. Proper elimination must be provided for, and there must be an absence of irritation in the digestive organs.

If the digestive system is not in good condition it will quickly inform us so by some digestive disturbance. Such disturbances are indicated by the presence of dyspepsia, "biliousness," "sickness at the stomach." Occasionally there will be belching, headache, loss of appetite, fatigue, restlessness, loss of sleep, and at times, actual vomiting.

Many persons who suffer digestive disturbances believe they are not receiving the correct food. However, we must not overlook the fact that they are eating the same food that many others are eating who are not sick. If digestion fails it is probable there is some defect in the machinery. This defect may be a fundamental weakness that must be overcome, or it is due to neglect in the care of the machinery.

In order that the digestive system may be at its best it must be operated regularly. It must be permitted to do undisturbed work. This is accomplished by regularity in eating. There must not be stuffing of food at one time and underfeeding at another time. Such a practice is sure to result in disturbed digestion.

When the body is tired or worn out, the digestion is poor. We eat better after hearing good news, good music, or seeing a good show. When we fear something or are angry, the digestive machinery works poorly. Because of these well-known facts it is best always to eat in pleasant surroundings.

Always rest before and after eating. Do not rush through your meals. Take your time, chew your food slowly and thoroughly. Do not allow yourself to become easily angry. If you are angry do not sit down at the table. It is better to go hungry than to eat while in this mental state.

The moral of this tale is: Take care of the machine, then the machine will take care of the fuel.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. B. A. W. Q.—I am a woman of 52, and troubled with night sweats, which tend to leave me weak and lacking in nerve force. I have pains around my heart, no vitality, and often have black specks before my eyes. Treatment has been of little avail. What would you advise?

A.—Have a thorough physical examination with a view of locating a possible source of infection. In the meantime try to improve your general health and keep the system clear.

* * *

M. E. D. Q.—What will help weak arches?

A.—Properly fitted shoes and arch supports should be generally helpful in this case. See an orthopedist for examination and advice.

* * *

JUST A FRIEND. Q.—Can you advise me what to do for asthma?

A.—The cause must be located before treatment can be advised. Certain odors, possibly the pollen of some plants, violent emotions and certain foods will bring on attacks.

Household Hints

When hemming table linen, make an additional crease in the linen after the hem has been turned back, exactly at the line where the hem begins. Then overcast instead of hemming and the work will go more quickly and evenly.

When you get your coal in next time, make a strong solution of salt and water and pour over the coal as soon as it has been placed in the bin. The coal will burn better and less soot will form in the flues and chimney.

If you use an oilcloth cover for your kitchen table, you will find it will wear better if it is not tacked down over the corners. A loose cloth may be moved just a bit every few days, bringing the wear on different parts of the cloth, and it naturally will last longer.

When the family wash has to be dried in the cellar, wooden coat hangers for dress, underwear and nightgowns will save space and cause the clothes to dry much more quickly. Before the real bad weather comes along, purchase a number of narrow coat hangers and be prepared.

The housekeeper who has a large provision closet may practice real economy by watching for sales of reliable branded canned goods. Then she can take advantage of the special prices and lay in a sufficient supply of canned goods to last for some time. At the same time she gives herself the convenience of having these foods on hand to meet all emergencies.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When fussing with cold cream at the beauty bedtime hour, don't overlook the elbows. "Goose's flesh" is unsightly, and there is no reason for having these useful hinges looking neglected.

That woman who realizes that the chow she serves has much to do with the happiness, well-being and good looks of the members of her family will steam vegetables instead of boiling them. Boiling deprives them of valuable mineral substances. She provides plenty of bulky vegetables, kale, spinach, celery, beet greens, cabbage, lettuce and water cress, and makes her spring-offs drink milk.

Itchy skin all over the body is caused by excessive dryness of the epidermis, a state of desquamation that causes the other cells to flake off more rapidly than they should. The remedy will be found in keeping the atmosphere moist with water containers placed on radiators, and by cleansing the skin surface with oil instead of soap. Special oils compounded for use on infants are soothing and cleansing.

For the quick clean-up treatment of the skin a liquid cleanser is convenient. Pour a little puddle into an old soft washcloth and scour the face briskly. Take a clean, fresh corner of the cloth and wipe away the cream which will bring dust and sebaceous oil with it. Be careful to clear the eyebrows free of the cream, else they will catch the powder and look untidy. Rub some of the oil into the cuticle about the finger nails.

Brilliantine is doing a strong return engagement. It contains oils that are beneficial to the hair growth. It imparts an appearance of neatness to a coiffure which, otherwise, would be blowzy. Pour a few drops in the palm of the hand, pass the palm over the fine part of the comb, comb the hair lightly. Or spray the brilliantine with an atomizer.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, December 16.

A fairly active and propitious state of affairs is read from the prevailing lunar transits. New contracts, undertakings and plans are accelerated under this sway, with the welcome removal of old crystallizations and obstructions. However matters might be complicated and assume some disagreeable phases by a too aggressive attitude or by tumultuous and ill-guarded activities. Employment may hold some minor anxieties.

Those whose birthday it is may count on a year of fair activity, with proportionate progress, especially in new ventures and in the renewing of contracts or agreements. Old congestions, being demolished, make way for new plans and projects, but these should not be complicated by too aggressive or turbulent attack. Be wise in employment and refrain from strife and recklessness at home.

A child born on this day should be clever, practical, industrious and energetic, but its ardor and tendency to overdue or to violent contention may defeat a very promising career.

ITALIANS SHINE IN MANY BRANCHES

ITALY HAS BEEN written larger than ever on the world sport map this year. That country has been prominent there for a long time, no mistake, with native sons or athletes of Italian extraction starring in various branches, but in this country during recent months they have not only outstripped all competitors but have surpassed their own best previous achievements to such an extent as to make the story of 1930 the most brilliant chapter in their sport history.

Battling Battalino

When Battling Battalino retained the world featherweight boxing championship by defeating the flashy Kid Chocolate in New York last Friday night, in the face of adverse betting odds and a supposed handicap in Queensberry equipment, he was only adding one more to a long list of big feats that have caused Italian athletes to stand out beyond all others of late. Battalino was the fourth Italian fighter, in little more than a month, to pull a big upset by scoring a sensational victory after entering the Madison Square Garden ring as a short-ender. Prior to Bat's performance, Tony Canzoneri snatched the world lightweight championship from Al Singer, Fidel La Barba whipped Chocolate and Billy Petrolle humbled the supposedly invincible Jimmy McLarnin.

FOOTBALL NEVER BEFORE saw such a year for Italian standouts. Frank Carideo, mait. factor in Notre Dame's sensational success, not only won all-America honors at quarterback for the second season in succession, but was rated by many the best player of 1930 in any position. Leonard Macaluso, of Colgate, was the country's leading scorer with 145 points. Until his college career at Notre Dame was interrupted, Joe Savoldi ranked as the season's greatest fullback and most formidable ball carrier.

To these may be added such stars as Siano, of Fordham; Viviano, of Cornell; Lombardo, of Syracuse; Morelli and Nobiletti, of Boston College; Orsi, of Colgate; Colucci, of Holy Cross; Quatse, of Pitt; Morbito, of Carnegie Tech; Ferrare, newly elected captain of Duquesne, and many others. Primo Carnera, Venetian man mountain, was the most talked-about fighter of the year. Georgetti and Brocardo, Italian team, won the forty-ninth international six-day bicycle race in New York a week ago. The major baseball leagues has more Italian players than ever in Lazzeri, Mancuso, Cuccinello, Orsatti, Mellilo, Gilatto and others, and Pasquale Natalie was one of eight cueists in the country to qualify for the tournament now under way in New York for the world pocket billiard championship. And those are only the principal instances of Italian prowess. No nationality has been making greater sport strides.

MANAGER BUCKY HARRIS, of the Tigers, predicts he will surprise a swarm of critics who think he has opened up a home for the aged in signing such venerables as Wally Schang and Joe Dugan. He thinks that Dugan, in particular, still has quite a bit of good baseball left in him.

Joe Dugan

Joe will be 34 next May, and has played for the Athletics, Red Sox, Yankees and Braves since he came into the majors from Holy Cross in the fall of 1917. Last season he was only a spectator, but he reports that the rest did him a world of good, and Harris is confident that he will pull out many a game for the Tigers that otherwise might be lost.

THERE'S MORE THAN one way of telling a ringer in the boxing game just as there's more than one way of trying to win a fight. The old boys can't hide the ear marks—or the nose marks. At an amateur show in Brooklyn, Angel Brown, a little Negro, was paired with Pete Cello for one of the bouts. Cello evidently didn't fancy the looks of his prospective opponent and decided to send in a friend as a pinch-hitter. After a slight scuffling in the back of the hall while Brown was waiting, a fully grown man entered the ring. He was well wrapped in a bath robe and wore a large towel over his head and face, covering all but his nose. But that was enough. It was by his nose that Frank Schwinger, of the A. A. U., spotted him. For it was a "professional" nose, one that could never get on an A. A. U. card, and Schwinger recognized it. Only a battle-scarred veteran could have a beezer like that. The newcomer was anybody but Cello. With a great shout and much waving of arms, Schwinger charged from the back of the hall and the pinch hitter was given the bum's rush.

FOLLOWERS OF ALL-AMERICA football selections in recent years probably will think a player of six or seven years ago has come to light when they see the pictures of the 1930 choices. Frank Carideo, quarterback of Notre Dame, who is almost a unanimous selection for that position, is what Bertillon experts call a dead ringer for a 1923 all-America guard, Joe Bedenk, of Penn State.

The resemblance is so strong that many of Bedenk's friends on the campus at Penn State, where he is now an assistant football coach and also head baseball coach, have taken to calling him "Carideo." Bedenk was the latest Penn State player to be honored with a first-team all-America award, having been picked for a guard position on the 1923 eleven of the late Walter Camp.

IN THE OPINION of Knute Rockne, the greatest forward-passing combination that football has seen was Pritchard and Merillat, of the Army 16 years ago, though he admits he did not see much of Friedman and Oosterbaan. Not to be outdone in boquet-throwing, Merillat says the best combination of the sort was Dorais and Rockne, of Notre Dame three seasons earlier. The mutual tossing of posies grew out of a fanning bee with George Currie.

Joe Bedenk

"It's hard to pick the greatest," said Rockne. "There was Veeder to Alcott at Yale at a time when they didn't have the benefit of the experiments which have been made with the pass in the years since. But the one remembered best by Notre Dame and myself is the Pritchard to Merillat combinatio . the Army had in 1914. We'd remember it best if only for the reason that we were afraid of it all through the game."

MERILLAT SAYS NO pair can be rated above the Dorais-to-Rockne combination of 1913. He recalls that he thought it was raining footballs during the Army-Notre Dame game that year, when in the second half alone Dorais threw 13 completed passes out of 17 tried. The former Army star, all-America end in 1913 and picked on Walter Camp's second team the following year, is now a retired major. He was wounded in France on the very farm his grandfather owner. A shot in the jaw and another through the left hand ended the war for him.

Asked what sort of end Rockne really was back in that 1913 game, Merillat replied: "He was a fox. He faked a bad knee, so after a while we let him get behind us, figuring it was just too bad that Jess Harper, the Notre Dame coach, kept a game k'l like him in the game to get banged more. But oh, boy, what we thought when Knute caught a pass and ran like a streak for a touchdown.

"Rockne has one of the best football brains with which man was ever born. And a good football player has to be a bit of a bluffer. When we started that game he looked like just another football player

Emil Pelzer vs. Bernie Wiesner, 10 rounds, Des Moines, Ia.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Boxing and Charity travel hand in hand at Motor Square Garden tonight, when the Garden puts on its benefit show for the city's fund for the relief of the unemployed.

Two heavyweights, George Panka, of Homestead, and K. O. Christner, of Akron, who has met the Sharkeys, Maloneys, Carneras and all of the other big names of the division, box the 10-round main bout.

K. O. Christner

With the free list suspended and the advance sale large, it is assured that the fund will profit considerably when it receives the entire net proceeds.

Christner is anxious to get a foothold here. He never has boxed in Pittsburgh, and has been promised a bout with either Emmett Rocco or Al Fay if he wins tonight. The same offer goes to Panka, who was stopped by Rocco in his most recent start in the same ring, being counted out while he claims he was trying to get over the effects of a blow to the Adam's apple.

Between Rounds

Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, is planning his next professional show for the night of January 5. Meanwhile, he has arranged an amateur show of 12 bouts for next Thursday in his Fallsades roller rink.

George Panka is scheduled to box an exhibition as an added attraction on the amateur boxing card to be staged by the H. T. Little Club, of Homestead, in Homestead Turner Hall tomorrow night for the benefit of the unemployed of the district. A similar show held last month netted $450 for the worthy cause.

Promoter Apples Meyers, of the Moose Temple, hopes to complete his card today for his show Friday night, in the main bout of which Jimmy Kelly, knockout ace of the North Side, meets Eddie Brannon, Negro, of the Hill. Frank Novak, of the North Side, and Dan Gallagher, of the West End, heavyweight rivals, box a return bout in the semi-final.

Battling Battalino's 15-round victory over Kid Chocolate last Friday night, whereby he retained the world featherweight title, proved two salient points. The first is that Battalino is a better all-round ringman than he has been generally credited with being and the other that Chocolate never has fully recovered from his beating by Jack (Kid) Berg, the first of his brilliant career. Since then he has bowed to Fidel LaBarba and Battalino in succession, and he will have to flash a great comeback to regain his old fighting morale.

Basketball Rules Quiz

(This is the start of the third week of a daily feature which will take the basketball fans and players through a series of 24 problems such as may come up at any of the big games this winter. A better understanding of the great indoor game will be obtained by following these articles daily.)

PLAY NO. 13.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

A new rule covers the above case. On any jump ball it may be tapped twice by either player or both of the jumpers. The second tap may be made either inside or outside the circle, but after a player has tapped the ball a second time he is not allowed to touch it again until it has touched one of the other eight players, the floor, basket or the backboard.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF SATURDAY: THE INDIANS WHO SOLD MANHATTAN ISLAND WERE NOT CHEATED—When Peter Minuit purchased Manhattan Island from the Indians in 1626 he paid them the equivalent of $24 for this highly desirable piece of property. The astounding fecundity of mathematical progression is again illustrated in the fact that had the Indians invested the purchase price of $24 at 7 per cent interest, compounded annually, the "improved principal" now would amount to almost twice the assessed valuation placed on Manhattan Island by the Department of Taxes of the City of New York. The real estate value of Manhattan Island has been assessed at $9,093,001,835 for 1930. The legal rate of interest in 1626 was 10 per cent. THE MOST IMPORTANT VOTE EVER CAST—Frederick August Conrad Muhlenberg, member of the Continental Congress and subsequently speaker of the First House of Representatives in 1795, although born in this country, was the son of a German immigrant and was educated at Halle, Germany. To make the separation from England more emphatic, it was proposed to supplant the English language with the German as the official medium of speech of this country. Twenty-seven members of the Continental Congress (1774) voted for, and 27 voted against, this proposal. Muhlenberg broke the tie by casting a negative vote. The reason for his dissenting vote was that he thought the antiquated German script "would present unsurmountable difficulties" to a thorough mastering of the language. The German element of the Revolutionary Days was almost as numerous as the English. According to the census of 1900, out of 60-odd million inhabitants of the United States, those of German blood numbered 18,400,000 while the English element numbered 20,400,000. The story of this most fateful vote in our history is contained in Heinrich Melchior Muhlenberg's "Letters," published in Halle, in 1887.

TOMORROW: "THE LITTLE GIRL MOUNTAIN CLIMBER."

GIANTS BEAT IRISH STARS

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—For the benefit of charity, the great and the former-great of Notre Dame's brigade of football stars of the past 10 years, assembled yesterday to furnish another sensational gridiron show, but no eleven of them at any time of the game proved a match for the crack professional league team of New York Giants, led by Benny Friedman, Michigan's former all-America quarterback.

The red-helmeted smooth-working Giants battered and passed their way to a decisive victory, 22 to 0, over the gallant, but somewhat disorganized array assembled especially for the occasion by the master of Notre Dame, Knute Rockne, and his corps of aides.

The game was for the benefit of New York's unemployed, the second charity contest in as many days. Despite freezing weather, it attracted an enthusiastic crowd of 50,000 spectators to the Polo Grounds. Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and Mayor James J. Walker were conspicuous in the gathering that contributed to gate receipts estimated at more than $150,000.

The famous Four Horsemen—Stuhldreher, Crowley, Miller and Layden—with five of the Seven Mules in the forward line, started the game. Later, Frank Carideo, this year's all-America quarterback, and his running mate, Bucky O'Connor, hero of the victory over Southern California a week ago, entered the fray, along with Jack Elder and nearly a full array of the 1929 undefeated Notre Dame team.

The fleet Elder failed to get loose and his passes were battered down by a defense in which his old Army rival, Christian Keener (Red) Cagle, was prominent.

Cagle gave the big crowd a few thrills with several good punts, but Friedman's polished and effective performance was the outstanding individual feature. The former Wolverine ace, playing only in the first half, scored two of the three Giant touchdowns and added one extra point with his talented toe. He twice crossed the Notre Dame goal line in the second period.

The third touchdown was tallied in the third period on a spectacular 30-yard forward pass, Moran to Campbell, who grabbed the ball in the end zone with Harry Stuhldreher on one side and Bucky O'Connor on the other. In the opening quarter, Stuhldreher was

TUNNEY AT ROLLING ROCK

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 15.—Gene Tunney was one of a party of 12 from New York who arrived Saturday as guests of Richard K. Mellon at Rolling Rock. Later in the day they participated in a fox hunt. The party remained to hunt for deer today, the last day of the season. The Rolling Rock game preserve is well stocked and hundreds of deer have found sanctuary within its high fenced enclosure.

ROCKNE ELEVEN STEALS SHOW FOR SEASON

By JESS CARVER.

Old 1930's intercollegiate football season, which was one dizzy one, especially here in the East, was officially washed up Saturday, the Army and the Navy playing a what-you-may-call-it tune with their big charity tussle in New York. It's all over now, even the shouting, of which there has been a minimum this fall, the most being directed at and for Notre Dame.

Knute Rockne

Rockne's Irish stole the show completely this fall. All one has to do in reviewing the campaign is to single out the South Benders and tell what all they did, which was plenty.

It has been a long time since the East struggled through a campaign with such few outstanding elevens. There really wasn't a great team east of Chicago. Pitt and Carnegie Tech were big disappointments; Yale, Harvard and Princeton had ordinary, very ordinary years; neither the Army or the Navy were impressive, even though the Soldiers held Notre Dame to the lowest score; Dartmouth, Cornell, Colgate, Brown, Columbia, Georgetown and Penn were just so-so, and Fordham failed to uphold its end in its big intersectional test with St. Mary's of California.

IRISH RULE ALL

In the Middle West, Northwestern, Michigan and Notre Dame ruled the roost, but, of course, Notre Dame took precedent over all.

In the South, Alabama and Georgia didn't do badly, neither did Tulane, but 'Bama, getting the invite to the Tournament of Roses game, was selected only because Notre Dame couldn't take the game and because there wasn't a team in the East that could be counted upon to draw real dough at the Rose Bowl gate.

On the West Coast, Washington State hammered its way to the top and wound up with an undefeated and untied record, beating Southern California to clinch the Pacific title.

The all-America team pickers are having their heyday at present. Count that day lost that doesn't bring forth some sort of an all-star team, but I think Mr. Al Sharpe, of Washington University, St. Louis, had the right dope when he suggested picking the Notre Dame first team as the first all-America and that shock troop team as the second.

CARIDEO OUTSTANDING

The biggest crowd of the year saw the Notre Dame-Army game in Chicago, and possibly the most disappointing turnout for a so-called big tussle was the handfull that watched Washington State and Villanova.

The outstanding player of the year undoubtedly was Carideo; the most colorful possibly being Ben Ticknor, of Harvard, and the coach who sloughed about in the toughest luck, poor Nibs Price, of California.

Rockne, of course, is the toast of the season, and deservedly so. So here's to him, a great coach and a great fella! Bottoms up!

The Tipoff

This chap Carlson has done it again! Just when the boys were tuning up a swan song for the peppery Pitt mentor, the god Doctor aroused his boys and took over Ohio State. After being kicked about in the opening game by Western Reserve, the Panthers were accorded a minus chance against the Buckeyes, but they cheerfully kicked the tar out of

Critical Goal Line Play in Army-Navy Game

BYNG RECOVERS BAD PASS FROM CENTER AT START OF SERVICE BATTLE

Byng, right end of the Navy, prevented an early Army score in the stubborn 6-0 battle between the service elevens in New York, Saturday, when he recovered a bad pass from his own center, made from the 20-yard line, within a yard of his goal (as pictured above). The play came immediately after the Army had failed to complete a forward pass over the goal line, losing the ball on the touchback. Navy kicked the ball away and then stayed off the Army until Stecker's 57-yard run in the final quarter provided the only tally. The game netted more than $600,000 for the Salvation Army Unemployment Fund.

Art Rooney's great Majestic team came a notch nearer the Independent gridiron conference title yesterday afternoon at Rainbow Gardens, McKeesport, when the Big Green aggregation, playing the greatest game of the season, defeated the McKeesport Olympics by a 20-to-0 score.

The Majestics are now tied for points with the Olympics, and while the Tubers are through for the season, the Majestics can cop the title by defeating or holding the Ambridge Mystics to a tie score Sunday at West View Park So, mathematically the Rooney aggregation appears to be in, for while Ambridge, led by P. J. Caul, has a good club, it seems impossible for any team in this district to compete with the North Siders.

Fred Iverson, manager of the Olympics, stated after the game that it was the first time in 14 years that any team had scored more than one touchdown in a game at McKeesport against his team, which is another feather in Art Rooney's cap.

POWERFUL LINE

The secret of the Majestic success was a powerful line that tore the opposition to shreds, and the wonderful ball-carrying of Sleepy Glenn. The West Virginian scored the first two touchdowns, both runs being the result of smart weaving. Toots Sweeny scored the third and last marker.

When the game started, the crowd was estimated at 6,000, but there was no scoring in the first period. Just as the first quarter finished, Boots Klinzing fumbled a punt, and the Majestics recovered. A first down placed the ball within scoring distance, mainly through the efforts of Mose Kelsch, and then Sleepy Glenn ran seven yards through the Olympics for the touchdown. Jimmy Rooney kicking the extra point.

Kelsch was playing a great game, and so was Glenn, and it was this combination, together with Jimmy Rooney's great punting, that kept the ball in Olympic territory.

GLENN SCORES

The second touchdown came in the third period, Jimmy Rooney had punted the ball to the Olympic 40-yard line. Guarino recovered a fumble. Kelsch went around left end for 20 yards; Glenn hit the line for a couple, and then, with the Olympic defense centered upon stopping Kelsch, Glenn went around the right end for a touchdown and no one laid a hand on him. Jimmy Rooney's try for point was blocked, but McKeesport was offside and that made the score 14 to 0.

The end was in sight and Barnes started throwing passes with the ball in Olympic possession, but they intercepted one, and the march for the last touchdown in the final quarter began.

Jimmy Rooney carried the ball to within six inches of the Tuber's line and then Sweeney went over. The extra point kick was blocked, and that ended the scoring.

There was little question but that the Majestics were by far the superior team. Glenn, Kelsch, Rooney, were great in the green backfield, while Guarino played his best game of the season. The entire line was far superior to the Tubers. The lineup:

FEW OTHER GAMES

Only a few other games were played by district independent elevens yesterday.

The Valley Club was held to a 3-0 score by the Valley Stars in one close contest, while the Millvale Stars lost to the Etna Sycamores by 7 to 0. St. Rosalia Preps toppled the Bloomfield Civics, 18-0, and Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., tripped the Irwin Tigers, 6-0.

The Glendale Tigers won from Broadway, 7-2, and the Rox Rangers set down the Rox Stars, 6-0, in a charity affray.

BIG FOUR GRID TEAM NAMED

Associated Press.

Teams in the Big Four of college football of the Pittsburgh district had lines of which the right sides were just about as evenly matched as possible.

This is the conclusion after looking over their coaches' ballots for the mythical all-Big Four team. Three men are tied for the position of right end and four more are tied for right guard. What is more, none of the coaches named a man from his own team.

Cochran, W. & J.; Milligan, Pitt; Gordon, West Virginia, and Dresher, of Carnegie Teach, are tied for the honor of being right guard on the mythical team. L. Flanagan, Carnegie; Hirschberg, Pitt, and McNeil, W. & J., are tied for the end honor. The full team is as follows:

Demas, W. & J., left guard.
Daugherty, Pitt, center.
Four tied for right guard.
Highberger, Carnegie Tech, right tackle.
Three tied for right end.
Kyth, Carnegie, right halfback.
Wilson, W. & J., fullback.

Honorable mention goes to the following players: Macks—Parriott, West Virginia; Armstrong, W. & J.; Karcis, Carnegie; Heller, Pitt; Arementrout, Carnegie, and Clark, Pitt. Linesmen—Tully, Pitt; Rosenzweig, Carnegie, and Lippman, W. & J.

PRICE CADET LEADER

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 15.—Jack Price, Army's 200-pound tackle star, was elected captain of the 1931 Cadet eleven by the varsity lettermen yesterday. Price, who hails from Fort Dodge, Ia., is only 20 years of age and is one of the youngest players ever to receive the honor.

to us, but before we finished he had grown horns and a forked tail. An as for Gus Dorais—how that boy could throw a football."

THE GREATEST BATTLE that Navy gave Army before going down by a 6-to-0 score in Saturday's big game at New York, which netted about $600,000 for the unemployment fund, demonstrated again that previous records count for nothing when these old rivals get together.

The Middies' season had not compared with that of the Cadets, on paper. They had been beaten by big scores by Notre Dame, Duke, Ohio State and Southern Methodist, whereas Army had bowed only to Notre Dame. And though Notre Dame had swamped the Admirals, 26 to 2, the Generals had held the Irish to a score of 7 to 6.

Ray Stecker

YET IT WAS just about all the Cadets could do to squeeze out a victory over their service rivals, and but for one exceptional play in which Ray Stecker got away for a 56-yard run and a touchdown the fight might have ended in a draw. What either of Uncle Sam's academies is going to do when the two are brought together can never be doped out on the strength of anything that has gone before. Saturday's game also showed how much opportunity means in football. Last year hardly anybody knew that Stecker was on the Army squad. For he was merely Red Cagle's substitute and that meant almost complete obscurity. But this season he got his chance, and his work in the Notre Dame and Navy games in particular stamped him one of the best backs in the East.

A flock of good soccer games were staged throughout the Western Pennsylvania sector yesterday, most important of which saw the Cecil booters toppling Gallatin's eleven, 4 to 2, in a West Penn Cup tie.

Shannon Fintex was surprised by a 4-3 defeat at the hands of Morgan; Bridgeville beat Primrose, 5-2; Curry and Dunlevy battled through to a scoreless tie, and National Tube smothered Piney Fork, 5-1, in interesting settos.

Coverdale topped Bridgmont, 3-1; Fitz Henry and Herminine tied, 2-all; Mather blanked Manown, 2-0; Clarksville humiliated Vestaburg, 6-0, and Victory Hill copped from Gratztown, 3-1.

Cedar Grove blanked Houston, 3-0; Primrose B tied Atlasburg, 1-1; Fintex Juniors nosed out Heidelberg Juniors, 2-1; Curry Independents tripped German Eagles, 4-2, and Pittsburgh Youth won from Glendale Climbers, 3-2.

Gladden lost to Mollenauers via the forfeit route. The lineup of the West Penn Cup tie:

MACKEY AWAITS DECISION OF W. P. O. A.

By JULIUS LEVEN.

Basketball fans of Western Pennsylvania inquiring to learn the reason for the failure of Leo Mackey, one of the best referees in the district, to handle games this season, and/or his non-appearance as an official to the West Penn Officials' Association, a subsidiary of the Central Board group.

No doubt the usual "red tape" that one must go through to obtain membership in this organization has kept Mackey, an experienced referee and a keen student of the game, out of action this winter, despite the fact many clubs are clamoring for his services.

POPULAR OFFICIAL

Mackey, although not connected with any referees' groups of late, is rated by close followers of basketball as one of the best, if not the best, official in this section of the state and as a result handled as many contests as any one man in the district.

This year Mackey applied for membership in the local association, but for some reason or other the Pittsburgh group has failed to take action on his application.

Those who are familiar with the procedures taken by the powers-that-be in the West Penn Officials' Association wouldn't be surprised to see that group send Mackey through one of their "intricate tests" before they decide to act favorably on his application. Until then Mackey must be content to sit around idle and sing: "What is the verdict, my fate is in your hands."

That is the price paid for owning a Central Board card.

FEW GAMES TONIGHT

Basketball fans face a very light program tonight due to the fact that the Allegheny County League and the West Penn League are enjoying a day of rest. Both loops will resume activities tomorrow night.

North Boroughs plays at Trinity Cathedral in the only game carded in the Wagner Institutional League. In the County Amateur League, Hill 'Top plays at Rankin Christian Center, Tarentum Elks appear at DeSales Lyceum in the Greater Pittsburgh League, while the Butler Paulists invade Hubbard, O., to meet the Hub Club in a return engagement. The Hub Club handed the Paulists their first defeat of the season last week and the Butlerites will be out for revenge.

CURTAIN FALLS FOR GRIDDERS

Tonight at the P. A. A., members of Pitt's varsity squad will be honor guests of the athletic council at a football dinner. The affair is closed to the public, the usual gridiron banquet to be held at a later date. Coach Sutherland will name a captain for '31 at tonight's event.

Prior to the week before the Thanksgiving Day game with Ohio State, when Ralph Daugherty and the Panther officials had a few differences of opinion, the Pitt center star seemed sure to win Sutherland's nod as next year's leader. Whether Jock will pick him now is questionable. Maybe it will be Joe Gnatz, the husky tackle, or maybe, Eddie Hirschberg, will be chosen.

C. D. Wettach, chairman of the athletic council, will act in the capacity of toastmaster. He will be introduced to the assemblage by Norman MacLeod. The Rev. C. Wallace Petty will deliver the invocation, and, it is to be hoped, give a talk later on.

Other speakers on the program will include Capt. Eddie Baker, leader of this year's eleven; Dr. Hube Wagner, one of Pitt's most famous and illustrous alumni; Dean of Men Clothier; Coach John B. Sutherland, who should have a prefix of doctor before his name.

This chap Kotys, Monessen High's clever running halfback, is going to go places and do things if he plays college football. He runs, as Jack Chevy, Notre Dame's backfield coach says, with his head. He picks his spots, hits 'em quick and has a fine change of pace. He was the ball toting star of the Monessen-Redstone title game in Washington Saturday.

The excellent crowd that attended the scholastic battle in Washington, by the way, was the second largest that has invaded College Field there since the year the stands fell while Carnegie Tech and Wash-Jeff were tussling. That was back in 1925. Since then, the Presidents have played very few games, and have faced no really major opponents on their own lot, save the Dukes two years ago.

A year ago today, (oh, what a memory) Carnegie Tech was recovering, and recovering very nicely indeed, from being kicked around by Southern California. If memory serve me right, we were sojourning on Catalina Island, the isle that chewing gum built.

And as Wally Steffen says, the open season for football coaches is now officially open.

Sport Vignettes

Only fault local gridiron fans have to find with the Rockne-Warner-Jones-Alexander all-America team is that Mose Kelsch doesn't have a place on it . . . . K. O. Christner, who boxes George (Pancakes) Panka in the main bout of that benefit show for the relief of the unemployed in Motor Square Garden tonight, used to be a baseball catcher, as well as a football and basketball player, and had a tryout in the Texas League in 1919, but he says he quit catching when he entered the ring . . . . Chris also served four years in the Army and worked in the rubber plants of Akron.

Chris is one of the fellows who strewed the path of Primo Carnera when the giant Venetian was blazing a new national highway in the States, a few months back. . . . And he doesn't think so much of Primo, although the latter was credited with a knockout victory over him in their bout in Detroit. . . . "The big fellow can't punch a lick," the K. O. observes. . . . "He pushes his punches. . . For three rounds I was punching him all around the ring and he wasn't able to score an effective blow . . . Then his seconds must have told him to gouge me in the eyes, for he came out for the fourth round and made a terrible mess of doing that little thing. . . . He caught my head in chancery, and, with his free hand, began to screw his thumb into both of my eyes. . . . The referee broke us and gave him a bawling out, while I stood there in the ring almost blinded, with water running from both of my eyes. . . I was helpless, and the big geezer then walked over and took aim and socked me down and got away with it. . . . . He's not so much."

Max Baer, the young California heavyweight, who makes his Eastern debut against Ernie Schaaf in Madison Square Garden, New York, next Friday night, is the hardest hitter with a single punch Christner ever has faced, according to K. O. himself . . . They boxed in California and Christner was told that Baer, who is somewhat of an Art Shires for egotism about his ability, had a habit of sticking out his chin and inviting his opponent to take a sock at it . . . "Acting on this information," Chris said, in recalling the bout, "I merely circled about the ring, slapping him with my left hand, at the start, waiting for that open chin . . Finally, he stuck it out and I popped him and he went down . . . I turned immediately and ran—not walked—to my corner to await the count . . . When I turned around there I found him up and on top of me, and, before I could protect myself, he clipped me and down I went . . . He dropped me seven times in all before they stopped the bout . . . Yes, sir, that Baer baby can punch! . . . And does he think he's good? . . . Why, the day after our bout, he showed up in one of the ritziest restaurants in Los Angeles, and, as he stepped inside the door, he beamed all over and asked, 'Well, what do you think of the next heavyweight champion of the world?'"

What do the football experts around the country think of the Notre Dame football eleven? Well, even before the rout of Southern California by the Irish, a committee asked to select the leading elevens for the annual Erskine Award, rated the Rocknemen far superior to all others by a margin of better than 3 to 1, with Southern California second, Alabama third, Washington State fourth and Northwestern fifth. . . . The voting, on a basis of five points for first place, three for second and one for third, found Notre Dame polling a total of 1,077 points Southern California 336, Alabama 308, Washington State 207 and Northwestern, which gave the Irish their toughest tussle, only 81. A total of 2,052 points were voted for 16 teams, with the Irish getting more than half of them.

In case you didn't know, the Stecker whose 57-yard run defeated Navy in that charity game last Saturday, is not Joe Stecher the former wrestling champion.—HARRY KECK.

CHARITY TILT TONIGHT

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Chicago Bears and Chicago Cardinals will play for full-sized touchdowns on an 80-yard gridiron tonight in their charity football game at the Chicago Stadium.

ARNOLD QUITS AT HIGHLAND

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Highland Country Club members are bemoaning the fact they are losing one of the best managers and likewise one of the best assistant managers any club in the district ever had.

Ben Arnold

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Arnold, who, for the last eight years, have faithfully handled the managerial reins at the Wellington Heights club, today have announced their resignations, effective immediately, and are leaving for a six months' vacation tomorrow. The Arnolds reluctantly made the move to leave Highland only when they considered it necessary for their health. Following Arnold's illness of more than a year, climaxed last summer by a serious attack, Mrs. Arnold, only recently, found her health undermined and is not, at this time, fully recovered.

"We regret leaving our many friends at Highland," said Arnold today, "but if we are to preserve our health, it is the only thing for us to do. It is neither fair to the club nor ourselves to continue in our present capacity when we both need absolute rest for at least six months. Our eight years at Highland have been delightful, and we terminate our association here with only the kindliest of feeling toward the members, among whom we number many friends."

NORTH-SOUTH GAME CARDED

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Adding to the list of post-season football games for the relief of the unemployed is one by the New York Chapter, Knights of Columbus.

The game will be played between leading stars of Northern colleges and universities against those of the South, with more than a score of institutions of higher education represented, it was announced today.

This battle will be waged on Saturday, December 27, with either the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds as the scene. The proceeds will be divided among the charity funds of the American Legion, New York Chapter of Knights of Columbus and the mayor's committee for the relief of the unemployed.

Lined up for the North are outstanding players of Fordham, New York University, St. John's College, Holy Cross, Boston College, Dartmouth, Marquette University, Pittsburgh and Penn State.

Against the North will be players of the Universities of Kentucky, Florida, Tennessee, Georgia Tech, Tulane and Alabama Poly.

Westinghouse Grid Team to be Honored

Westinghouse High School's city championship grid squad will receive their letters and be presented gold footballs at an assembly in the school on Wednesday. Director of Physical Education Dr. H. B. Burns, of the Pittsburgh public schools, will be the main speaker. The senior class will honor the titleholders at a dance in the Penn Lincoln Hotel on the same night.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS

DETROIT, Dec. 15.—An alert and aggressive band of Yellow Jackets from Pittsburgh scored a convincing 3-to-1 victory over the Detroit Olympics in an International League hockey game here last night.

Pittsburgh's triumph may be attributed to the fact that the Yellow Jackets play with their heads as well as their legs and sticks. In a word, they are a group of opportunists.

Two of the three goals scored by Pittsburgh came at a time when one of the Olympics was in the penalty box for infraction of the rules.

REISE TALLIES

Creighton was holding down a seat in the cooler the first time for cross checking. Seizing the opportunity, Reise grabbed a loose puck in the middle of the rink, split wide open the Olympic defense, consisting of Daley and Spring, and beat Emmett Venne, the Detroit goal tender, with comparative ease.

After Spring tied the score for Detroit in the third period, the Yellow Jackets again forged into the lead when the Olympics were shy one man.

This time it was Fields who emulated Reise's second period feat by skating between the Olympic defensemen to beat Venne with a low shot in the right-hand corner of the goal.

FINE WORK

The final Pittsburgh tally was the result of some mighty fine combination work on the part of the McIntyre, McGuire and Halliday forward line.

After particularly brilliant work during the early part of the game, this trio tricked Venne completely late in the third period, a double pass giving McGuire the puck about 15 feet out from the mouth of the goal. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—3.		Detroit—1.
Cox	G.	Venne
Berlett	D.	Spring
Fraser	D.	Hollinger
Fields	C.	Creighton
Gregg	R.W.	Gillie
Proudlock	L.W.	Steele

Officials—Jerry Laflamme and Clarence Bush.

Third period—Detroit, Spring, 4:25; Pittsburgh, Fields, 6:02; Pittsburgh, McGuire (McIntyre), 13:39. Penalties—Proudlock, Williams.

WINDSOR VICTOR

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Windsor Bulldogs came from behind to tie at 4-all in the last period and carry the Cleveland Indians into an extra frame, which saw the visitors go on a scoring spree that netted three goals and a 7-to-4 victory in an International League game here last night.

SYRACUSE COPS

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Little Baldy Brown flashed down the ice with two minutes to go at the Coliseum last night and whistled the puck into the net to give the Syracuse Stars a sensational victory over London by a margin of 3 to 2.

QUAKERS GET COULSON

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Cooper Smeaton, manager of the Philadelphia National League hockey team, has announced that the Quakers have obtained the services of a recruit from Ottawa's amateur hockey ranks. The new player, D'Arcy Coulson, scion of a Canadian brewing family, was expected here today.

RUDOLPH LEADS POOL TOURNEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The battle for the world pocket billiards championship seems to have developed into a three-way struggle between Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, Ralph Greenleaf, the defending champion, and Onofrio Lauri, of New York. Rudolph upset Frank Taberski, of Schenectady, N. Y., 125 to 70, in 19 innings last night to register his fourth straight victory and gain the undisputed lead. Lauri is second with four wins and one defeat, while Greenleaf is third with three triumphs in four starts.

The situation may be clarified tonight when Rudolph and Lauri clash in the day's most important match. Other matches today bring together Greenleaf and Arthur Woods, of New York, who holds fourth place; and Thomas Boatman, Portland, Ore., and Pasqualie Natalie, Chicago.

N. Y. Bank Sky Cleared By Removal of Menace, Declares B. C. Forbes

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

THE BANKING SITUATION in New York has been greatly improved by the closing of the grossly mismanaged bank of United States.

It was the known bad condition of this bank that was responsible for the unsettled feeling in New York financial circles. Now that this sore has been cut out, New York bankers feel entirely confident. No other institution was or is in the same shape as was the Bank of United States.

A political scandal of the first magnitude is predicted in Wall street when the inside story of the bank's extraordinary activities is brought to light.

HERE ARE QUESTIONS the stockholders' protective committee will dig into and want answered:

How came it that such a title, Bank of United States, was granted by the state superintendent of banks over the protest of the lawyer sent to Albany by the most influential bankers in New York, who pointed out that such a title would mislead the ignorant into believing that the institution was run by the United States government?

WHO WAS RESPONSIBLE for the report, as finally prepared, covering the state bank examiners' investigation of the bank last June?

By what unique coincidence were the bank's losses figured out as equaling, to a penny, the institution's total surplus? Had the losses been given as one dollar more, the state banking law would have required that the capital stock be made good immediately or the stockholders be assessed.

WHO WAS—rather, who were—responsible for the lodging of $2,500,000 official New York City deposits in the Bank of United States, of which only $1,000,000 was withdrawn before the bank closed? Whose judgment left $1,500,000 in that weak bank when such banks as the National City, the Guaranty Trust, the Bankers Trust and the Chemical Bank each had no more than $500,000? (The Chase Bank, carrying a city checking account, was in a different category).

WHAT PURPOSE underlay the organizing of no fewer than 57 subsidiary companies by the Bank of United States people? It is said that when they began to run out of names to give their 57 varieties, they got hold of a Paris directory and used the names of Paris streets.

Who was—who were—responsible for lending these "dummy" companies, as Wall Street calls them, $20,000,000 of the bank's money?

Who was—who were—responsible for lending nearly $100,000,000 of depositors' money to real estate interests?

Were any of the borrowers contractors affiliated or connected in any way with those identified with the bank?

What were the financial dealings between the Bank of United States and the Bankers Corporation its adjunct which, together with the bank, had a hand in organizing company after company to carry on various multifarious activities including borrowing and lending to and fro?

JUST WHEN did the state superintendent of banks first receive an unfavorable report on the Bank of United States from his own examiners?

What did he do about such first unfavorable report?

And how long did it take him to institute corrective measures?

Who was—who were—responsible for opening a new branch and taking money from innocent depositors—within three weeks of the bank's suspension?

NEW YORK bankers have long complained that the Bank of United States was favored above all others by the political powers that be. These bankers wondered who befriended this "outlaw" bank, as they called this institution because it kept itself outside the New York Clearing House and thus removed itself from the very strict discipline imposed upon clearing house banks.

Responsible bankers now wonder whether it was not the political favor enjoyed by the bank which ultimately proved to have been earned and retained at too high a price to the bank's depositors.

HAPPILY, no other New York bank is similarly circumstanced. The New York banking position today is the strongest it has ever been in all banking history. Now that the Bank of United States menace has been removed, the sky has cleared and bankers predict distinctly brighter days.

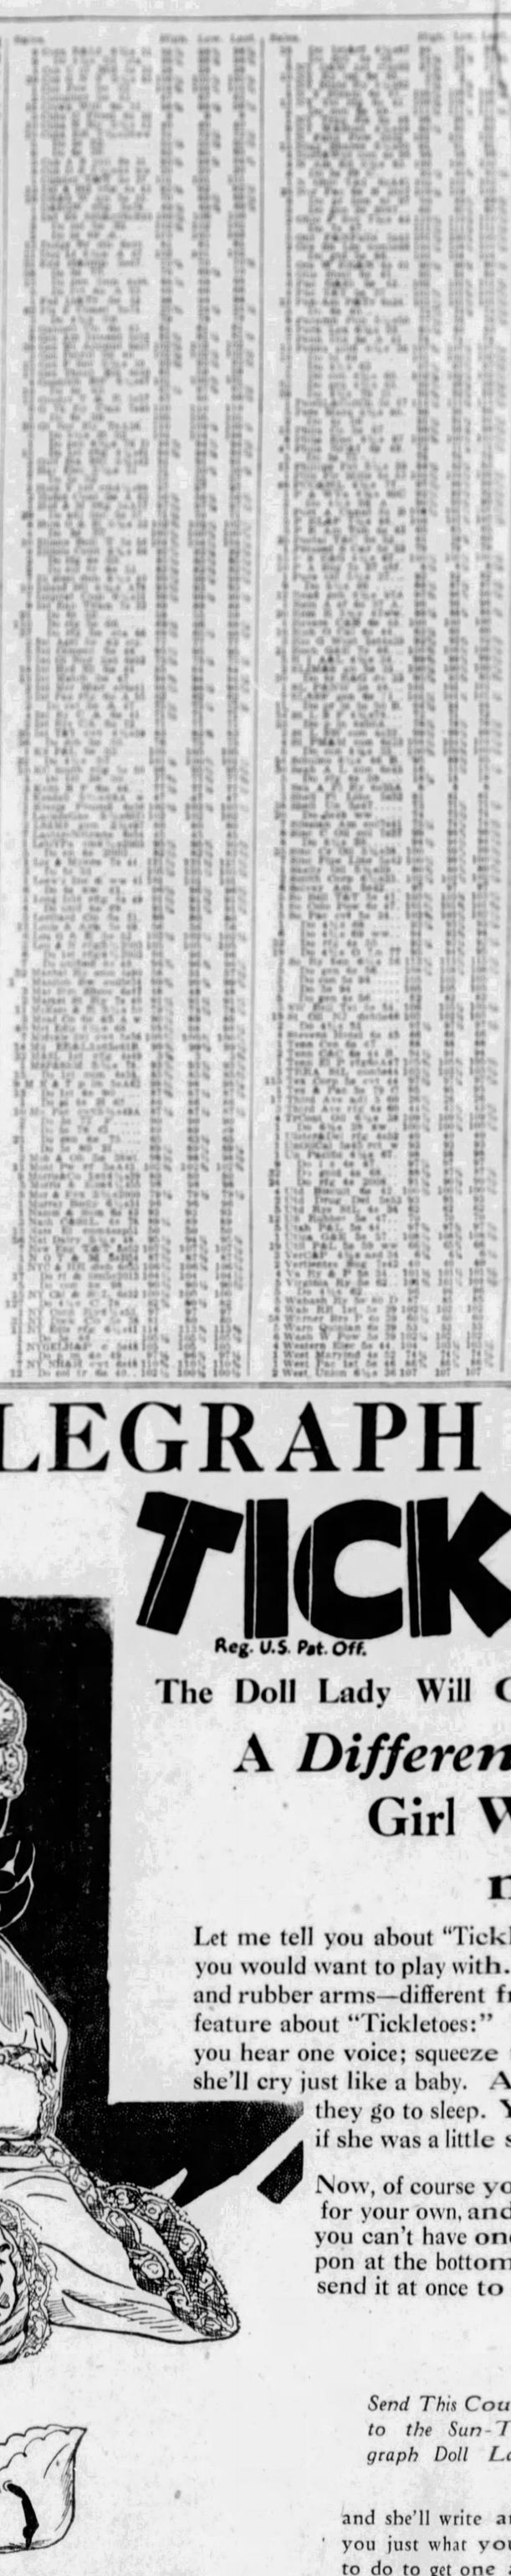
NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Demand for bonds was somewhat improved at the start of the new week today and influenced a slight advance in some sections of the list, although not sufficient to reverse the trend.



TRANSAMERICA POOL FORMED

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—A group of officers and prominent stockholders of the Transamerica Corporation, billion dollar holding company for the Giannini interests, acting as individuals, have formed a $20,000,000 syndicate, or "pool," to stabilize the market in the stock, and combat bear raids.

The syndicate, in addition, has adopted the unusual procedure of offering to all stockholders an opportunity to participate. It is hinted, furthermore, that there is a large short interest in the stock, which will be driven to cover.

WORLD STEEL DROPS 17%

World production of iron and steel has declined so precipitately this year—17 per cent in the case of iron and 15 per cent in steel—that all of the progressive gains recorded in 1927, 1928 and 1929 have been completely wiped out, according to Steel, formerly Iron Trade Review, of Cleveland.

For the entire world, output of pig iron in 1930 is estimated at 70,800,000 gross tons, the lowest since 1924 and comparing with 96,642,000 tons in 1929, which was an all-time record, and 87,810,000 tons in 1928.

Of steel ingots and castings the production of the entire world will approximately 94,700,000 gross tons, also the lowest since 1924 and comparing with the record 117,762,000 tons of 1929 and 107,-671,000 tons in 1928.

For the United States, 1930 production of pig iron is estimated at 31,450,000 tons, 15 per cent below 1929, while 1930 output of steel ingots and castings, at 41,320,000 tons, is running 27 per cent behind the record of 1929.

Devereaux Purchases Durant Factory

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Norman Devereux has announced the purchase from W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer with whom he has long been associated, of the Oakland, Cal., manufacturing plant of the Durant Motor Company of California.

The information was contained in a telegram received here by associates of Devereux, who is in Grand Rapids, Mich. The announcement said he had also purchased a factory at Grand Rapids, and would soon start the manufacture of a new automobile to be known as the Devereux six.

Cotton Lower on Heavy Liquidation

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Under the heaviest liquidation pressure since the current downward price movement began in the latter part of last October, cotton futures broke $1 to $1.25 a bale at the opening this break being on the heels of a drop of $4.50 a bale that occurred last week. Large volume of selling orders came from general sources.

STOCKS RESIST HEAVY WAVE OF SELLING

Largest Liquidation in Weeks Soon Spends Self And Market Braces Up

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The stock market successfully braced itself against the largest wave of selling in weeks today, after permitting itself to be washed lower by more ripples of selling for several days.

The heavy selling movement that developed Saturday was resumed with vigor during the early hours of today's session, but prices made only moderate concessions in the first few minutes, then recovered. The force of the selling movement spent itself by midday, and the market turned dull. Trading was at the pace of close to 1,000,000 shares an hour up to noon.

After sagging about a point, such shares as U. S. Steel, American Telephone and American Can rallied to show gains of like extent.

The mid-month settlements, including the government financing, resulted in a large shifting of funds, estimated as high as $2,-000,000,000. Call money showed a firmer tone, although it renewed unchanged at 2½ per cent, and time money rates were pushed up ¼ per cent.

The news of the week-end was generally viewed as favorable, particularly reports of holiday trade, which indicated a turnover of goods even higher than that of a year ago in spots. The fresh heaviness of cotton, which recorded still lower levels for the past 15 years, was one of the least cheerful developments.

The National Foreign Trade Council issued its annual analysis of foreign trade, and found that world trade in 1930, after making adjustments for changes in price levels, seems to be only about 8 per cent lower than in 1929. It pointed out that American exports of manufactured goods have held up well, with the exception of automobiles.

Bankus Corporation Receiver Appointed

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The Bankus Corporation, securities affiliate of the Bank of United States, and the City Financial Corporation, controlled by the Bankus Company, were placed in equity receivership today by Federal Judge Woolsey. The Bank of United States, which closed and was taken over by the state banking department last week, was said to have a claim of $14,000,000 to $18,000,000 against the Bankus Corporation.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Grain values averaged higher today in the early dealings, but on a transient fractional setback July delivery of wheat reached a new low-price record. Unfavorable weather for wheat crops in Argentina and Australia was reported, and wintry weather prevailing over the corn belt tended to stimulate some buying of corn. Opening ⅜c off to ⅜c up, wheat later scored a slight general advance. Corn started ¼-1⅛c up, and subsequently held near to the initial range.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Liquidation of oil stocks was a feature of the day's trading on the Curb Exchange. There was scattering improvement in other sections of the list after an early flurry of selling had carried virtually the entire market into new low ground.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (000 omitted sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

STEADY UPWARD MOVEMENT IN 1931 SEEN

Consumption Overtaking Production Among Good Factors Already at Work

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Despite recent distressing indications that we have been paying the piper for earlier speculative excess and reckless financial adventures, the long term observer is impressed with the fact that frequently these dramatic episodes characterize the latter phases of a period of economic readjustment.

Even though faith in the prosperity of the future is running at low ebb at the moment, there is no warrant for doubting the recuperating power of the American economic society. Curative factors, such as the overtaking of production by consumption, are in fact already at work, and there is promise in 1931 of a slow, uneven, but nevertheless steady upward movement of the curve of business from the present distinctly subnormal levels.

Mr. Rukeyser

MARKET ORDERLY

The orderly character of the receding stock market, in the face of immediate emotionalism growing out of the closing up of a New York bank, indicated that security prices had already come far in discounting adverse developments.

Among discerning financiers, there is a growing belief that the economic recovery is likely to precede rather than follow a radical change in speculative sentiment.

If trade improvement develops next year, raising the total volume of business somewhat nearer toward normal, it is nevertheless wholly unlikely that it will be a year of easy prosperity. Those who drift with the tides are unlikely to do well next year. Good management will be at a premium and the strong will increase their relative status in their own industries.

OPERATIVE ECONOMY

The new way to ample net profits will be through rigid economy of operations, which will entail careful planning and the elimination of economic waste, including the appalling waste which comes from the irregular employment of manpower.

Goods going immediately into consumption are most in demand by retail purchasers at this time. Even the more affluent public still shows a disposition to postpone purchases of intermediate goods, such as automobiles and new homes, until such time as the economic outlook is brighter.

DEMAND ACCUMULATES

Accordingly a demand for intermediate goods is accumulating, and, in accordance with the old doctrine that nothing succeeds like success, the beginnings of business recovery in lines dealing with goods for immediate consumption will tend to breed recovery in other directions also.

In spite of the approach of the annual financial number season, the occasion calls less for predictions and forecasts than for ingenuity on the part of managers who are farseeing enough and courageous enough to "make" conditions, rather than merely in the passive spirit of oriental fatalism seek to read what is in the crystal ball.

Styles in Investments Show Changes

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE PAST TWO YEARS has seen a great number of distinct changes in investment styles. It is doubtful if any period of financial history has been marked by the rise and fall of so many investment fads as the time, including the final stages of the bull market and the subsequent collapse.

Investors, who in the past devoted most of their attention to bonds, made a sudden switch to common stocks during 1928 and 1929. The lure of appreciation in capital made many of them disregard yield and safety of principal. This contributed greatly to the advance in stock prices and resulted in exceptionally dull conditions in the market for new fixed income securities.

It was generally believed that a revival in the bond market would take place after the collapse of stocks at the close of 1929. Previous experience had shown that declining stock quotations and cheap money were usually accompanied by rising bond prices. But 1930 did not follow this precedent. Bond prices did increase during the first half of the year but this was followed by declines which have carried quotations on second-grade bonds to their lows for the year.

Many Explanations Offered

THE REQUIREMENTS OF insurance companies and banks have kept the highest grade securities in demand but there has been a surprising neglect of lower grade bonds among which are numbered most of the industrial issues. Several explanations have been offered for this situation. In addition to reductions in the amount of money available for investment, due to the business depression, there have been other factors which have kept funds from following the usual channels.

Last year's increase in speculation has been one of these influences. Many individuals still have loans on stocks which must be liquidated. Besides this, the investment interest in common stocks has not vanished with the termination of the bull market. Many good stocks appear to be at bargain levels. This has taken much of the money which ordinarily would be put into bonds.

Management Trusts Ignored

THE FINAL YEAR of the bull market was marked by a frenzied demand for investment trusts of the management type. Ridiculous premiums were paid for stocks of this class. The collapse of the market resulted in such a violent change of opinion that most of these issues are still selling for less than their breakdown values.

The retention of interest in equity securities and the advantages of diversification have replaced buying of management trusts with a widespread demand for fixed trusts. Issues of this kind have given many investment bankers their principal source of revenue during the present year. The theory upon which the fixed trusts have been based appears to be sound and their development has been satisfactory from an investment standpoint.

Future Trends

WHILE MANY OPINIONS exist as to future trends, several developments seem logical in the coming year. The neglect of second-grade bonds, many of which are selling at surprisingly low prices, will not continue for an indefinite period. When general business starts to revive, it seems quite likely that the opportunities for high yields and market appreciation will result in a resumption of bond buying. This will eventually increase bond market prices and will open the way for the underwriting of new issues.

The interest in fixed trusts is likely to continue while stocks are at low levels as well as during the next bull market. Management trusts may remain in disgrace until after the next upward movement in stock prices is well under way.

The desire for bargains in common stocks will be stimulated as soon as the market shows definite signs of recory.

BARNES NOTES TRADE GAINS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Some American industries have successfully overcome the effects of the business depression and a general improvement in conditions throughout the world has been noted, according to a report issued today by Julius H. Barnes, chairman of President Hoover's national business survey conference.

"There is evidence of many industries having adapted themselves to current conditions and having successfully balanced production and market consumption," the report stated.

Improvement has been observed in the United Kingdom, Germany and China.

Total new life insurance written amounts to $1,100,000,000 more than the average amount for the past five years, Barnes said, while advertising has remained about the same with a large increase noted in radio advertising.

WOULD LIMIT GRAIN TRADING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Limitations of the volume of daily transactions on grain exchanges and on the holding of futures for speculative purposes were recommended today in the annual report of J. W. T. Duvel, chief of the Agriculture Department's grain futures administration.

Such action, he said, would result in the direct benefit of all interests using the futures market for proper purposes.

During the last fiscal year, Duvel said, transactions in wheat futures aggregated nearly 20,000,000,000 bushels, far more than the entire world production of wheat and the largest amount ever handled on exchanges.

Fox West Coast Acquires 8 Houses

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—Fox West Coast Theaters has acquired for $20,000,000 eight Pacific Coast theaters from Paramount-Publix Corporation.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—W. C. Michel, vice president and treasurer of Fox Film Corporation, denies reports that Harry L. Clarke and associates had offered to resell control of the company to William Fox, former head, for $10,000,000.

Chain Store Sales Drop in November

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Sales reported by 50 chain store companies for November, 1930, totaled $331,351,722, as compared with $370,532,692 for November, 1929, a decrease of 10.58 per cent, figures made public disclosed.

For the 11 months of 1930, sales totaled $3,666,576,857 compared with $3,683,381,559 for the corresponding period in 1929, a decrease of only 0.56 per cent.

Prudential Dividend Total at New High

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 15.—Dividends totaling $86,299,000, an increase of $15,268,000 over 1929 and a new high, were announced by the Prudential Insurance Company of America.

Of this amount, $53,566,000 was apportioned for owners of industrial policies. Dividends of $32,733,000 were paid to holders of other policies.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. Reducing Notes

CHICAGO, Dec. 15—Sears, Roebuck & Co. officials state that by the end of the year notes payable are expected to show a reduction of $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 from the figure of $30,798,000 at the end of 1929.

Atchison to Go Ahead With 1931 Building Program.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe is preparing to go ahead with its program for additions and betterments on a normal scale in 1931, according to W. B. Storey, president of the road. Discussing the outlook, he said that the company's program next year would require an expenditure of from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000. He does not look for any hasty recovery in the new year, but believes that, while the pickup will be gradual, improvement may be looked for. He pointed out that drought last summer curtailed farm production and traffic has felt the retarding influence of present business and industrial depression. But he sees basis for confidence in the fact that commodity prices now seem fairly well stabilized, and expresses the hope that a year hence we can record substantial improvement and a bright outlook.

Plant operations in the Youngstown steel district show a good deal of irregularity. Advices from that center indicate the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company will be on a 35 per cent capacity basis this week against 60 per cent last week and 45 per cent rate in the same week last year. Curtailment at its pipe plant was responsible for the cut in operating schedules last week due to the customary seasonal decline in demand for that sort of products. Carnegie Steel, however, will maintain its 50 per cent schedule. While this indicates the steel corporation subsidiary is holding well above its competitors, the fact remains that operations this time a year ago were at 60 per cent.

While the market has been falling back rather steadily and seemingly offering to the operator on the bear side the opportunity for substantial profits, it is doubtful if traders who adhere to the side of the decline have been meeting with much in the way of eminent success. Their selling, it would seem, comprises but a minor part of the daily aggregate. This would appear to be indicated by the discouraging lack of rallying power in the market, which must be accepted as suggesting the size of the short interest is relatively small. The bear must have his turns quickly these days for there is little profit in long term selling commitments with conditions in the stock loan market such as they are. Perhaps if the truth were known, a goodly part of the bear selling done currently would be found to be of the scalping variety, that is on the basis of trades made and closed between the beginning and the end of the business day.

Among the companies that meet for dividend action in the near future whose earnings are estimated as either approximating or falling short of dividend requirements are: Howe Sound, $4 dividend rate, estimated $4 earnings; Granby, $2 dividend, nothing indicated; Julius Kayser, $2.50 dividend, $1 estimated; Magma Copper, $3 dividend, $2 estimated; New York Air Brake, $3.60 dividend, $3.25 estimated; National Cash Register, $3 dividend, estimated $2.50; United States Industrial Alcohol, $6 dividend, estimated $4; Allis Chalmers, $3 dividend, estimated $3; Columbian Carbon, $5 dividend, estimated $5; Union Oil of California, $2 dividend, estimated $2; Nash Motors, $4 dividend, estimated $2.25.

Liggett and Myers for the current year is likely to show earnings between $26,000,000 and $27,000,000, equal after preferred dividends to from $7.80 to $8.10 a share on 3,137,440 combined common and common B stocks. Such earnings would constitute the largest total ever shown by Liggett since segregation from American Tobacco Company in 1912. Earnings in 1929 totaled $22,017,127, the previous high point, or $7.82 a share on 2,614,233 common and common B shares. It seems fairly well assured directors late in January will declare the customary extra dividend of $1.00. At the same time, it is possible the board will increase the rate to $5.00 annually.

The year just closing will be a satisfactory one for Otis Elevator Company. While earnings will be considerably below the record high of last year, results probably will equal or closely approximate the preceding high level established in 1928. Preliminary estimates place net for 1930 at between $6,900,000 and $7,400,000, equivalent after preferred dividends to from $3.25 to $3.50 a share on the outstanding 2,000,000 shares of common. Three of the company's four plants, those located at Yonkers, Buffalo and Harrison, N. J., are operating at close to 70 per cent of capacity. The Quincy (Ill.) works are somewhat below this figure.

New York Traction Agreement Reached

NEW YORK, Dec 15.—A tentative agreement on a plan for unification of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation has been reached by representatives of the two companies and the city. The plan will be recommended to the transit commission and the boards of directors of the two companies shortly.

Auburn Automobile Places Big Order

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Auburn Automobile Company has placed order commitments in excess of $9,000,000 for materials to be used in its 1931 cars. Deliveries will start at once.

SEEP CUTS OIL PURCHASES

The Joseph Seep Purchasing Agency, of the South Penn Oil Company, has discontinued the purchase of Somerset crude oil in lines of the Cumberland Pipe Line Company, and in the Wayne district.

This action is taken as a result of lack of demand for this crude at present.

The Bessemer Pipe Line Company has discontinued paying a 25 cent premium on runs of Pennsylvania grade crude oil. The Cree Levick Company adopted a similar measure.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—California crude oil output in the week ended December 13 averaged 612,500 barrels daily, or an increase of 14,100 barrels daily over the preceding week according to the California Oil World.

TIGER HEART -:- By Robert Terry Shannon

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

On the eve of her marriage to handsome Jim Fracey, vivacious Connie Calvert, rich society girl, receives a letter which causes her to leave her palatial home in Connecticut on a mysterious automobile drive to New York. Jim sees her. Connie stops at a cheap restaurant on the West Side and waits for someone. The letter threatens to expose Connie. A man approaches Connie and introduces himself as Duke Garson. He tells Connie her late father was married twice and that she has a half-sister, Kitty, living in poverty among gangsters. Connie asks to meet her. When she does, Kitty tries to blackmail her. Kitty and Garson tell Connie that they want $100,000 from her. She says she will not give it. Later Connie consents. Kitty agrees to wait for the money until after the wedding. Connie tells Kitty that she wants to be a real sister to her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IX.

"Do you think I don't mean to be fair?"

"You two hand me a laugh," she stated. "You're both so busy scrapping that pretty soon you'll be leaving me out of 't altogether. You're a fine master mind, Duke! What makes you think I want anybody to adopt me? No, Kid," she added, directly to Connie, "you'd better leave me completely alone."

"Why do you say that?" Garson inquired.

"Because she's one kind of a girl—I another. My Tenth avenue ways would go fine with her society stuff, wouldn't they? I'd be about as much good to her as a sore thumb. I wouldn't be a real sister to her—I'd be an affliction."

Friendly Reaction

"I don't mean that I'm trying to make you all over according to some pattern I have in my mind," Connie explained.

"You better leave me alone, Connie. You don't mind if I call you Connie, do you?"

"Well, don't get any romantic ideas about me, Connie. You're one kind of a girl and I'm another. You can't bring two kids up, one in a mansion, the other in a sewer, and expect them to turn out alike. You know me, Duke; you know I'm a pretty rough character when I get started."

"I've seen worse," Garson responded, noncommittally.

"I can't help it," Connie said intently. "You're my sister, Kitty, and I feel so strangely drawn toward you that I just can't let you get away from me now. All my life I thought I was an only child and, somehow, now we've found each other, I have a glad feeling to know I have a sister. An odd sort of tingle, too."

"I'm hard-boiled," Kitty told her. "Sure, I feel kind a funny, but I've known you existed for a long time."

Duke Garson lit a cigaret wearily.

"You two," he remarked, "are drifting into family reminiscences that I didn't count on. Frankly, Miss Calvert, I thought you'd be a lot more high hat, and I thought Kitty wouldn't be so soft."

"You're all right, Duke," Kitty told him, giving his arm a friendly pat. "He's a great guy, Connie."

"No man is a great guy when he tries to handle two women," Garson said, philosophically. "I thought this was to be something like a polite holdup—and it turns out to be a cooing party. We sit down at dagger points, and after a while we get sociable and the whole racket perishes. Nothing happens—we just talk and our minds change."

Speaks Kindly of Dad

"Yes, if you do I'll feel like a fool," Garson said. "If you turn out to be a regular girl you'll certainly let all the gas out of my balloon. I put on all my high pressure for a hundred grand in Kitty's behalf—and now it looks like you both are tickled to death to find each other."

Connie, for the first time, smiled at him. "Well, I suppose we are glad. What's the matter with that?"

"Well, I suppose I will have to be glad, too," Garson smiled back at her. "When I started talking to you I thought I had the right angle; and now I'm beginning to feel that I was all wrong. There are so many gyps around here that I get out of the habit of expecting things to be on the up and up. Maybe the idea of touching you for a bank roll was all wrong, but it seemed like the thing to do in the beginning."

"On the contrary," Connie informed him, "Kitty really has a share of her father's estate, and I'm going to see that she gets it."

Garson was studying Connie carefully.

"I believe you mean that," he said, seriously. "You're a good salesman—you changed my mind. It won't be necessary for Kitty to highjack you out of it. But I must confess, Miss Calvert, I feel idiotic about the whole business."

Invited to Wedding

"Say, a guy that never changes his mind is a natural born sap!" Kitty injected. "I got a great sister, Duke. When I looked at her picture in the paper I hated her—and when I met her, she gets me. Gee, Connie—I'm glad we got together. Maybe our old man wasn't such a bad egg, after all; maybe he just didn't know how to do the right thing."

"He was spoiled by money and he was never forced to discipline himself," Connie explained. "But there was a lot of good in him; he was good to my mother and me, even if he didn't treat you and your mother right, Kitty. He couldn't have been all bad."

"Well, we can't sit up all night talking over things we don't know anything about," Duke Garson said. "I'm going to give you both my last word of advice, and then I'm through. I think you'd better go ahead with your marriage tomorrow and get in touch with Kitty when you come back from your honeymoon; then you girls can straighten up without a lot of hard feelings and trouble. And if you listen to me any longer you'd be wasting your time; I just bow myself out of the picture and let you do as you please."

"That's O. K. with me," Kitty declared.

"Can you come to my wedding tomorrow, dear?" Connie asked her, seriously.

"I'm sorry, but I can't make it. It's sweet of you to ask me, all the same."

"Sister, dear, I'm not going to let you stay here and live like—like this. It's not right, and I'd hate myself if I didn't see that from now on you got every advantage possible out of life. I want you to come home with me now—tonight!"

DAILY TRUE STORY — The Chicken Letter

Paul Winters was practicing putting on the frost-browned grass of the side lawn when the local express car came rattling up the gravel driveway.

Mrs. Winters, who was entertaining some friends, stepped to the French window and opened it.

"Mary's busy, serving our tea, Paul; please take care of the express man," she said.

"Right-o, mother."

Paul went around and asked, "What's the damage, boy?"

"Dollar eighty, Mr. Winters. I suppose them's more fresh hens from your Vermont farm?"

"Not hens, boy—chickens."

Paul Winters took the box inside, opened it up and started to remove the chickens. Every few weeks they had freshly killed chickens sent down from their summer place, a large farm in Pilton, Vt.

Luke Cooper, the keeper, always attended to this, as he did to shipping down cured hams, apples, butternuts, potatoes and other products of the place.

There was something white protruding from one of the chickens. Paul pulled it out. It was an envelope, and in rather coarse, sprawly handwriting, the legend:

Finds Letter

"To The Finder."

Paul put away the chickens and sat down on a kitchen chair to read the letter, which was rather interesting. It read:

Dear Girl: I suppose you are just a nice, honest, hard-working servant girl in some rich family. Well I'm a rather nice, hard-working boy on a farm up here in Pilton.

It has got so that farmers' daughters nowadays aren't what they used to be. They like to doll up like city girls, and go to dances and they hate to do any real work. I kind of thought I'd like to get acquainted with a nice steady girl like you. I know that a girl who does housework for a living would make a fine wife and appreciate a home of her own where her work would be working for her own husband and her own home.

If you feel that way, why not answer this letter? It won't do any harm for us to get acquainted. Please write to me.

JOE RAWLINS,
R. F. D. 4, Pilton, Vt.

"That's a hot one," Paul muttered.

He thrust the letter in his pocket and went back to his putting.

That evening some of his friends came over and he took them up to the game room, where they indulged in a little poker for small stakes and a few mild highballs.

"Here's a hot one," he said, and read the letter, explaining how he got it.

"Well, then, why not have some fun with the country lad?"

Dan Holton made this suggestion.

"How?"

"Answer it yourself—write a small, feminine hand and sign some girl's name. You can get him started on a series of Hick love-letters—no end of fun—exchange photographs, you can send him a picture of some swell looking dame—get the idea?"

Paul's letter finally developed into this:

Mr. Joseph Rawlins,
Pilton, Vt.
My Dear Mr. Rawlins:

I found that lovely letter you put in the chicken. How strange I should be just what you write, a good, hard-working servant girl! And if you kick about country girls being lazy and frivolous, you ought to know what good-for-nothings the city boys are—just gambling and loafing all the time. A real home up in the beautiful country would be like heaven to me and especially to have a nice, honest, steady-working country boy to go with it.

Please write me about yourself. In sincerity,

(Miss) PAULA WINTERS.

When Paul finally got a reply he chuckled over it a great deal. Good, kind, steady-working Joe had written to "Paula" all about himself, his going through the local academy, his height of 5 feet 11, his black curly hair and blue eyes, and the fact that he already owned the farm free and clear.

Paul got a big kick out of this, and a bigger kick when he went through his married sister's keepsakes stored away and dug up a picture of a good-looking blonde girl in a dress some five years out of date.

Sends Reply

"Dear Joe," Paul wrote, "I hope you like my looks as much as I like yours."

In early summer Paul's mother got ready to go up to the summer home. She was to take her married daughter with her. And then Paul's father got the contract to plan the new country club buildings up there for a millionaire colony not far from Pilton.

"Here's your chance, son," his father told him. "I can't drop these county buildings, and I guess you can do that job up there."

So Paul went up to the country place, the handsome big farm. He drove over to the colony and got started on the clubhouse plans.

Then a letter was forwarded to him from home, addressed to "Miss Paula Winters."

He decided to find this Joe Rawlins and fix up a story. He would tell Rawlins that the girl, Paula, had eloped with one of their chauffeurs and that her name had never been Winters, but Winton. This Paul believed, would let poor Joe down easy.

As he started to drive over to the colony for a conference, he stopped off at the Luke Cooper farm. It was Mr. Cooper who managed the Winters farm and also took care of it in winter.

After a little chat with Luke Cooper, Paul said: "By the way, Mr. Cooper, do you know a Joe Rawlins around here?"

"I'll say I do," Cooper said, and he turned toward the house.

"Wait—hold on, I don't want to see—"

But Paul got no further. A boy in riding breeches came out—Paul thought Then he saw that it was a girl.

"Say, Josie, this is Mr. Winters, young Mr. Winters; he was asking for you—I didn't know you knew him—" Cooper turned to Paul, "Josie is my niece," he explained.

Meets "Mr." Rawlins

"Er—Miss Rawlins, have you a brother—a brother named Joe?" Paul asked.

"I'm the only Joe Rawlins I know of about here—no brothers. Have you a sister named Paula?"

"No, Miss Rawlins. I have only one sister, Celia—she's married."

"Did I understand that Uncle Luke called you Paul?"

"What's all this?" Luke Cooper wanted to know.

"I think we have some tall explaining to do, Miss Rawlins," Paul said, going down to a garden arbor with her.

"You put that letter in the chicken!"

"And you, too, Paul!"

"Who is the joke on?" he asked.

"Both of us—a rather nice joke," Josie admitted.

They became quite friendly that summer.

During the winter more love-letters were exchanged, but this time between Miss Josie Rawlins and Mr. Paul Winters.

And now it is no joke, if you can believe what many people say, that matrimony is a very serious thing.

Paul and Josie do not seem overburdened with seriousness. However, they seem to be quite happy.

THE THRILLING TALE OF AN EL DORADO MOLE IDENTIFIED ON AN OAKDALE SHOULDER, SOUNDED SO MUCH LIKE HARTFORD AT HIS BEST, THAT JOSEPHINE BUNGLE MADE A SPECIAL EFFORT TO BE PATIENT WHILE THE COLONEL DESCRIBED AN EXCITING EPISODE.
LISTEN JO, LET'S BE CALM. KINDLY DO NOT LOOK AS THOUGH THIS STORY IS MERELY THE RESULT OF ME WEARING HATS THAT ARE TOO TIGHT. NO SIR, I'M O.K! WHAT A STORY. A BIG FORTUNE.... A GREEDY UNCLE WHO TAKES THE HEIR OUT IN A BOAT BECAUSE HARTFORD, THE LITTLE KIDDIE, STANDS BETWEEN THE FORTUNE AND MONTGOMERY....
UGH, SUCH DRIVEL! WHAT A PERFECTLY DIPPY STORY. AND I BLAME YOU, GEORGE BUNGLE, BECAUSE YOU ARE THE ONE WHO PUT THE NOTION INTO SHEIK OAKDALE'S MIND THAT HE BEARS SUCH A REMARKABLE RESEMBLANCE TO HIS BETTERS.
HA, NOW YOU HIT THE NAIL ON THE HEAD. HOW THAT BUTLER'S HONEST, KIND OLD FACE BEAMED WHEN HE POINTED HIS FINGER AT HARTFORD AND IN A SORT OF CHOKED VOICE SAID; I RECOGNIZED YOU, SIR, AS THE MISSING EL DORADO HEIR THE VERY MOMENT I SAW YOU, SIR. LIKE THAT. VERY PATHETIC.
HOW SILLY! AND HOW A STORY LIKE THAT IMPRESSES YOU. HA, YOU SHOULD SEE YOURSELF. JUST POP-EYED WITH EXCITEMENT.
THAT WRETCH! TO THINK OF A STORY LIKE THIS WHEN PEGGY IS TO BE MARRIED. OH, THERE SHOULD BE A LAWV AGAINST ANYONE LIKE OAKDALE STUFFING A MAN AS CREDULOUS AS YOU ARE RIGHT UP TO THE EARS WITH SUCH A WINDY STORY.
IN OTHER WORDS YOU REFUSE TO BELIEVE EVIDENCE. REAL EVIDENCE. AND — THERE'S THE PHONE, HARTFORD, PROBABLY. WHAT NOW? ANOTHER SURPRISE I SUPPOSE, WHAT A DAY.

THE WRECK OF THE HESPERUS

Editor's Note—During these times the country needs more honey poetry to cheer the cheerless. Dip your pen in molasses and dash off something you can hand to the next hungry guy who asks you for the price of a cup of coffee. Something like this—

If you're hungry, broke or cold,
Merely smile—
There'll be jobs for everybody
After while—
If it hails or rains or snows
If the wind blows through your clothes—
Brush your hair and blow your nose
And just smile.
'Taint no use to sit and whine
When your milk has turned to brine
Wash your face and make it shine
With a smile.
If you have no place to sleep—
Try to smile—
You can boast you're wide awake
Though your eyes and puppies ache,
With a smile.
Envy not the fate of those
Who have shelter, food and clothes—
They have worries, goodness knows!
Without yens.
Furthermore, they envy not
Those of you who haven't got—
After all, you're not so hot—
So don't get the swell-head.

The World Court

The New Orleans States, of which Robert Ewing, Democratic National Committeeman and a leader in public affairs throughout the South, is publisher, has started a vigorous fight against the United States entering the League Court. Col. Ewing is also publisher of the Shreveport Times, the Monroe Morning World, and the Monroe News-Star. He has been vice president of the Associated Press and for several terms president of the Southern Publishers Association. The New Orleans States and Mr. Ewing's other papers carried the following editorial, entitled "The World Court."

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S decision to take out of his pigeonhole the Root-Hurst World Court protocol and send it to the Senate is followed by the announcement by the American Foundation, organized to promote American entrance into the court, of the results of a questionnaire to the daily newspapers of the country, showing a majority of them favorable to the protocol. It is probably not a wild guess to say the President was influenced in his decision by forehanded knowledge of the questionnaire.

Yet it is unfortunate that, with so many pressing domestic problems to solve, Mr. Hoover should wish to inject into the present short session so controversial a subject, with the threat of a special session with its attendant disturbance to business. It is the more unfortunate when every time the World Court issue has appeared in any election, the answer of the people has been against our entanglement in the affairs of the Old World governments; and especially is that their sentiment now when Europe today is veritably a tinder box.

THE PRESIDENT having sent the protocol to the Senate Wednesday, that body should reject it, as it rejected the proposal in its original form. The rejection took the form of reservations of which number 5 provided:

"That the court shall not render any advisory opinion except publicly after due notice to all states adhering to the court and to all interested states and after public hearing or opportunity for hearing given to any state concerned; nor shall it, without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest."

It would have been a matter for regret, if the reservations had been accepted, for that would have made us a part of the court, with only a single vote, and involved us in all European quarrels, with the certainty of making enemies and losing friends. But the European governments were not satisfied to have us on any such terms, and they rejected the reservations: and it would have been better for this nation if that had closed the chapter.

But Mr. Root, reflecting the will of the foundation of which he is one of the conspicuous members, went to Europe to seek a new basis. He had a formula of his own which proved unacceptable, and out of the negotiations that followed emerged the so-called Root-Hurst protocol, Sir Cecil Hurst, of Britain, being of the ablest of the European diplomats.

THE PROTOCOL is infinitely worse than the original reservation. It does not reserve the right to the United States to veto the submission to the court of any question in which it has an interest. It throws the door wide open to the foreign powers to submit any question they choose involving the interests of the United States, and all we may do, if we are dissatisfied, is to object and retire from the court.

Even a person of only average intelligence must see the dangers lurking in American membership of the court under such conditions and the bitterness of feeling that would be likely to follow our withdrawal after once in. No stronger indictment of the protocol could be made than that by ex-Senator Pepper, who described it as "An arrangement that substitutes the remedy of withdrawal from the court after the mischief has been done for the salutary provision which prevents the mischief from arising."

In 1920 James M. Cox made the League of Nations of paramount importance in his candidacy for the presidency and was defeated by 7,000,000 votes. The Senate refused to ratify the treaty that made us a part of it, and the League sits with the United States unrepresented as a member.

The court is a mere subsidiary of the League of Nations, created by it. It has been described as a back door to the League.

The United States, supported by overwhelming public sentiment, refused to enter the League from the front. Why should it enter it from the rear?

It were better if the protocol had been left to moulder in the White House pigeonhole. Since the President has elected otherwise, the Senate should accept the challenge and make a decisive end of it.

Let Well Enough Alone

To Take the City's Poor Relief Job Away from the Welfare Associations Would Be Bad Business.

Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of public welfare, and the seven social service organizations associated with her have done a fine job during the last six weeks in administering the $100,000 emergency fund for the relief of the poor, appropriated by Council. Everywhere there is praise for them.

The co-operating agencies are the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the Family Welfare Association, the Association for Improvement of the Poor, the Conference of Catholic Charities, the Jewish Family Welfare Association, and the Lutheran Inner Mission. All of them have the confidence of the public.

An additional appropriation of $300,000, to carry on the work in 1931, is proposed in the budget. But it is also proposed—and the plan is to be discussed at a conference in Mayor Kline's office tomorrow—to transfer the job from the welfare agencies to the Department of Supplies.

If that means that the work of poor relief is to be taken out of the hands of the trained investigators, with years of experience and sympathetic understanding, who have been doing it so well during the last six weeks, and turned over to politicians and purchasing agents, unfamiliar with the science and profession of philanthropic administration, it not only will be a grave mistake, but an affront to the taxpayers of Pittsburgh who are putting up the money.

SUN TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

2—Rapid Transit.
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Town Hall, seating at least 15,000.

Hauled Down

What is that which we see
By the dawn's early light?
A quite unexpected
But heartening sight.

The skull and the crossbones
That label of death is Discarded at last.

Dress Up, Dress Well

Clothes Make a Difference, They Give Courage.

THE ARCHDUKE OTTO, ALL DRESSED UP

The young Archduke Otto, son of the late Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary, who calls himself now "King of Hungary," attained his majority recently at 18. At that age Hungarian kings, when there were any, used to come of age.

Hungarians who believe in kings and want to see this young man on the throne, in spite of all that happened to them with their other kings, are joyously celebrating the young man's "majority."

In honor of the occasion Archduke Otto dressed himself up finely in a magnificent Hungarian costume, and for the first time, having reached his majority, he wears the Order of St. Stephen, a very grand order.

THE SAME ARCHDUKE, IN ORDINARY CLOTHES

Contrast these two pictures and you will see what it means to be "all dressed up."

In his plainer clothes, seen in profile with a rather weak chin, he seems to be asking himself, "What is the world going to do to me?"

You can't wear the magnificent costume of the Order of St. Stephen. But you can "dress up." You will remember that a man is judged at first ALWAYS by outside appearances. Later inward worth and qualities are known.

But appearances decide in the beginning. Be neat, not gaudy, dressed in clothes that fit, that are well cared for and that indicate SELF-RESPECT.

Suppose that three men apply for a job, two of them a little shabby and one with clothing well cared for, neat, the third looking the possible employer straight in the eye, with confidence. Which of the three probably would have the first chance?

P. S.—Bear in mind that dressing well, and neatly, means dressing well FROM THE TOP OF YOUR HEAD TO THE SOLES OF YOUR FEET.

A man who has succeeded and hires other men understands details, and NOTICES them. He notices shoes, out of repair, he notices a necktie well chosen, clean, he notices shirt, gloves, hat, as you notice every detail on an automobile.

Marry-Go-Round

Pot-Hooks and Petting

The hardest task of a business girl's life is to make the men LIKE her.

* * *

I don't mean to make them love her. Or fall for her. Or flirt with her. It's easy enough to make a man love you, if you have youth and pep and use the right lipstick and wear the right clothes.

* * *

It is far easier for a man to love a woman than it is for him to like her. Because he can love her casually or blindly; but he has to like her sincerely—and with his eyes wide open.

He can love her as he would the office kitten; or admire her as he admires the Persian rugs on the floor, or any other office decoration. But when a man likes a woman, he has to like her as a human being; and that's the hardest thing for any man to do.

* * *

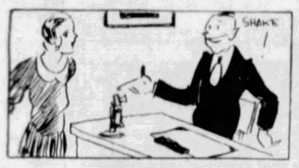
The day has passed, when every girl looked upon the office door as the door to romance, or adventure or matrimony. There are still some girls who mix pot-hooks with petting. But to the average girl, the kind of "Boss," who punctuates his business letters with sweet nothings, and expects to pat the hand that holds the fountain-pen, is more of an affliction than a temptation.

* * *

Besides, the Lothario-Boss, who regards every girl in the office as an amusement or a conquest, is rare these days.

* * *

The modern Don Juan does his philandering after office hours, keeps his business and his romances as distinctly separated as his shoes and his collars, and often makes the hardest-boiled boss.



This is very hard on the brave young girl who has come to the big city, all prepared to "resist temptation"—and finds no "temptations" to RESIST!

* * *

The Ideal Boss is the man who UNDERSTANDS women. Who neither regards the woman in his office as a machine, nor looks upon her as a sentimental possibility.

* * *

The man who KNOWS the female of the species, and can distinguish between the loyalty of the faithful worker, and the clever tricks of the Office Cutie.

* * *

And the Ideal Business Girl is the one who understands MEN, and knows how to make them LIKE her and respect her, without resorting to flattery or turning on the "sex-appeal."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early up, making way with a half jar of yellow tomato preserves, and talking to M. E. Foster, the Texas editor, newly returned from France. Thence to a tailor to try on a double-breasted dinner coat with the new shawl collar.

Home to labour and Chic Sale came and we wondered if there were any oldtime actresses, executing dance steps, who did not finish with the cry: "There is life in the old girl yet!" And Chic spoke of a mutual friend being as lonely as a horsefly in a garage.

In the evening to the Belgravia Club to dinner and later to a musical play, which didn't matter, and sat next to Clare Gould and his wife, the former Lorraine Manville, as winsomely pretty as any lady I know. Home late rereading Bennett's "Old Wives Tales."

* * *

Harold Ross, editor of the New Yorker, is a reputed shudderer at the limelight. Those professing to know say he has a hearty distaste for publicity. His name does not appear in his weekly journal save in the usual ownership statement required by the law.

He was born in Aspen, Colorado and later moved with his parents to Salt Lake City, where his father was a railroad contractor of some prominence. Ross had a decisive flair for quitting schools abruptly, the list including a military school and two colleges—each at the moderately polite suggestion of the faculties.

He worked on a Salt Lake paper, also in Albuquerque and Needles, filling in at times as a railroad gang timekeeper, and less meticulous tasks. Other migratory newspaper jobs were on Mark Twain's old paper at Marysville, Cal., and in New Orleans, Atlanta and New York. He for a time edited Judge.

In San Francisco, when the war broke, he joined a regiment with Hugh Wiley and was later transferred to Stars and Stripes, the soldier newspaper. He was a private in the army and refused all offers of promotion. The New Yorker was sinking when he took the helm. He is about 38 years old.

* * *

Bill Buck, a blind newsdealer, at 66th and Columbus avenue, is an expert making change and can detect a counterfeit coin at the first slight touch. Phoney bills are more difficult and it is hard to believe, but so many have been passed on him he refuses to change anything but coins. Nearly all blind newsdealers, including Blind George at Bryant Park, have to employ helpers to keep from being imposed upon.

* * *

* * *

The only American to receive world acclaim as a bull fighter is Sydney Franklin, the personable Brooklyn youth. Yet the matador who gave so many bulls fierce touslings must have found his recent homecoming as bitter as wormwood. His arrival from Spain received only routine notice in the newspapers. He went to the theaters and other public places without receiving the faintest recognition.

* * *

New York has modern gleaners, elderly, well dressed ladies who prowl produce districts in early morning with capacious baskets. They salvage discarded fresh fruit and vegetables from rubbage and sell them to saw-dust cafes.

* * *

Chorus girls are most frequent of all movers in a quick-change town. They rarely, during a metropolitan run, remain in a hotel for more than three weeks or in an apartment more than a month. Many illustrators could use chorus girls in spare time for posing, but they move too much to be traced.

* * *

Department store saleswomen have an hour for lunch. One tells me time is spent about as follows: "Twenty minutes for lunch, ten for powdering and touching up lips and cheeks and the rest for bathing and powdering tired feet."

* * *

From a Florida paper: "We often wonder the age of McIntyre, the columnist. We have heard he dresses young and rather flashy. But at times he writes as though terribly old.

Old, your foot. Vo-dee-o-do!

THE GENIUS OF NEWTON

By Archibald Henderson

In certain scientific circles nowadays there is a tendency, clearly discernible to decry the contributions of Sir Isaac Newton. It is customary for those with a smattering of knowledge (with whom the world seems cluttered as never before) to speak of the dethronement of Newton.

Einstein is frequently said to have overthrown the system of Newton. Stress now is put upon a single one of Newton's contributions—the law of universal gravitation. Had Newton never formulated this law, he would nevertheless be regarded as one of the great scientists of history. It is well not to forget those other contributions of Newton which played such important roles in the future development of science.

Newton was endowed with a brain of extraordinary facility for generalization. His vision was orbic; his horizon cosmic. He saw things in terms of universals. It was fortunate for him and for the world that he was not hampered by adherence to any particular school of philosophy. Newton was a man of wide interests, being not only a mathematician, a physicist and an astronomer, but also a chemist, a theologian, manager of the British mint and a member of Parliament. Like Enstein today, he shrank from public controversy; and it was only with great difficulty that he was induced to publish certain of his scientific discoveries. He was a seeker after unity, universality, perfection of scientific knowledge; and he was not interested in publishing by piece-meal, as scientists do nowadays. He preferred not to publish his results until they were complete, and, as he believed, unassailable.

Certain events stand forth conspicuously in his life. When he first attended the King's School at Grantham he showed little ambition; but later he became aroused and finally emerged head and shoulders above his fellows. When he left the institution, so profound was the impression made by his intellect that the head-master assembled the school in his honor and paid high tribute to its brilliant and profound scholar.

Another extraordinary feature of his career is the early ripening of his powers. Following his graduation from Cambridge University, Newton devoted himself assiduously to profound study and research. There is no reason to doubt that during the years from 23 to 25 he laid the foundation for his magic discoveries in science.

During the following three decades he was largely engaged in elaborating and perfecting the fertile and creative ideas formed in this early period. During his lifetime he was held in highest honor, revered and admired beyond bounds. The Astronomer Halley, after whom the famous comet was named, said that it was given to no mortal to approach nearer to the gods.

Newton made over the science of optics and gave it a stimulus it had never enjoyed up to his time. It has been said that his discovery of color refraction may be regarded as the most fundamental in the history of optical science. His work on optics would have made him a landmark in the history of optics. But this great contribution is almost insignificant as compared with his discovery of the principles and his formulation of the technic of calculus. All things considered, this is his most important contribution, because of its pervasive and far-reaching influence, in the entire history of pure mathematical science.

Text for Today

Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.—Matthew, v:16.

ISN'T IT SO?
